I have thoroughly examined this case, & have come to the conclusion that there is no evidence justifying a conviction. The evidence of the girl Elmore Chadwick, whom I have personally examined, and who also testifies to any thing approaching an injury, is false; she is clearly that the single blow for which my inflected was not the cause of death, and the remaining testimony shows a considerable homicide.

From an examination of the evidence, that was procurable in this case, it appears, that deceased had a room at 244 East 65th Street, on or about April 30th 1889, and lived there.

That shortly, after 10 O'clock on the night of that day Theodore Wirth had arrived at the door of said premises was looking for his night key, when deceased came up, and wanted to be let in. Deceased was very drunk and noisy. With rang the door bell, Dittman an old man, who kept the house opened the door, and when deceased came in, led him to the stairway, and told him to go to bed. Deceased started off but fell down, when he got up made for Dittman, and wanted to fight him, Drabole the defendant, came out of parlor by that time, and wanted to get deceased away from Dittman during this endeavor, the deceased fell down, and his neck was broken.

It also appears that deceased was in the habit of getting drunk, and was very disagreeable when drunk.

Dittman was indicted at same time as an accessory but was discharged on habeas corpus by Judge Barrett

About Apr 30 1899, shortly after 10 O'clock P.M. I arrived at the front door of No. 244 East 65th Street where Drabold lived, could not find any key right away. Drabold came up to the door very drunk and noisy, asked to be let in, commenced banging and kicking at the door. I rang the door bell and the landlord Mr. Witman opened the door, seeing Drabold, he took him by the arm and led him into the hallway, showed him the stairs and told him to go up to his room. Drabold started off fell down, got up and wanted to fight Witman, by that time defendant Drabold came out of the parlor, Drabold was still quarrelling with Witman, who is an old man, and was going for him, when Drabold tried to get Drabold away from Witman, Drabold may have given him a slight push anyway Drabold fell down, and broke his neck as I heard.

The said

Alexander Dross

late of the City and County aforesaid, afterwards, to wit: on the day and in the year aforesaid, the same being the first day of the week, commonly called and known as Sunday, being then and there in charge of and having the control of a certain place there situate, which was then duly licensed as a place for the sale of strong and spirituous liquors, wines, ale and beer, with force and arms, at the City and County aforesaid, the said place so licensed as aforesaid unlawfully did not close and keep closed, and on the said day the said place so licensed as aforesaid unlawfully did then and there open, and cause and procure, and suffer and permit, to be open, and to remain open, against the form of the Statute in such case made and provided, and against the peace of the People of the State of New York and their dignity.

JOHN R. FELLOWS,

District Attorney.
