THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK
against

Jacob Kaegele

The Grand Jury of the City and County of New York, by this indictment, accuse
Jacob Kaegele
of the CRIME OF GRAND LARCENY, in the second degree, committed as follows:

The said Jacob Kaegele

late of the City of New York, in the County of New York aforesaid, on the sixteenth day of July in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety two, at the City and County aforesaid, being then and there the clerk and servant of Louise Kaufold and as such clerk and servant then and there having in his possession, custody and control certain goods, chattels and personal property of the said

Louise Kaufold

the true owner thereof, to wit:

the sum of thirty three dollars and sixty cents in money, lawful money of the United States of America, and of the value of thirty-three dollars and sixty cents; the said Jacob Kaegele afterwards, to wit: on the day and in the year aforesaid, at the City and County aforesaid, with force and arms, did feloniously appropriate the said sum of money to his own use, with intent to deprive and defraud the said Louise Kaufold of the same, and of the use and benefit thereof; and the same goods, chattels and personal property of the said Louise Kaufold did then and there and thereby feloniously steal, against the form of the statute in such case made and provided, and against the peace of the People of the State of New York and their dignity.

The charge in this case is that the defendants Hamma & Glatnicki sold to the complainant a furning shop on which there was a chattel mortgage; but that defendants represented the place to be free and clear of all incumbrances.

It appears that the shop was incumbered by a chattel morgage; but that it was satisfied before the place was sold.
The satisfaction piece was not

Bernard Bornstein being duly sworn deposes and says: That he resides at # 166 East 3rd. Street in the City of New York, and is acquainted with the defendant in this action and was in the employ of Anglo Polish Publication Company which was owned by the defendant, but sold by him to Gustav Hammer in my presence on the 16th. of March 1893, and which was again resold by the said Gustav Hammer half to the above named defendant and half to one Julius Rappaport, all in my presence on the 22nd. of May, 1893. I was present when the defendant told to Rappaport that there were two mortgages upon the said business then and there sold, and that the said mortgages were not satisfied of record although the defendant said he had the satisfactions for them in his pocket; that in the presence of deponent the defendant said if you have no objections I will not place the satisfactions upon the record at the present time because as I have outstanding claims against me, it would be more secure to permit the mortgages to remain unsatisfied of Record. Rappaport said that is satisfactory to me but as I am borrowing this money from my wife however, in order to satisfy her mind I desire you to give me a sworn statement to the effect that there are no incumbrances upon the place in corroboration of the sworn statement of Gustav Hammer; that then the aforementioned Gustav Hammer made the affidavit to the effect that the place was free and clear of incuberances and the defendant corroborated Hammers affidavit with the understanding that the said Rappaport understood all the facts as they really were.. Deponent further says that he was perfectly familiar with all the transactions of the Anglo Polish Publication Co. and knows of his knowledge that the defendant had no financial interest in the sale.

Court of General Sessions of the Peace

OF THE CITY AND COUNTY OF NEW YORK.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK

AGAINST

*Agustaw Hamma
and Wassam Agolindai*

The Grand Jury of the City and County of New York, by this indictment, accuse

Agustaw Hamma and Wassam Agolindai of the CRIME OF Aggravated LARCENY in the second degree, committed as follows:

The said Agustaw Hamma and Wassam Agolindai, both — late of the City of New York, in the County of New York aforesaid, on the second day of May — in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three, at the City and County aforesaid, with force and arms, with intent to deprive and defraud one Julius Rappaport of the proper moneys, goods, chattels and personal property hereinafter mentioned, and of the use and benefit thereof, and to appropriate the same to their own use, did then and there feloniously, fraudulently and falsely pretend and represent to the said Julius Rappaport.

That they the said Agustaw Hamma and Wassam Agolindai, then carrying on business under the firm name of Anglo Polish Publication Company, were the owners of valuable personal property, consisting among other things of thirty thousand printed books, paper covered, one hundred and twenty pounds of type in the Polish language, one type-setting case, six drawers for type, five boxes for lock-up, type, five grand lines for forms, two boxes for ink, one ink-roller, one mangle stand, and seven shelves, fixtures and utensils then in the premises in said city known as 209 East 4th Street; that each of them was the owner of a half share and equal interest in the said business and in the said property; that they were then the sole and only owners and proprietors of the said personal property, and that there were then no mortgages or encumbrances on the same, and that the same were then free and clear of all liens; that the said Augustus Hamma then desired in good faith to sell to him the said Julius Rappaport, his said rights title and interest in and to his said half share and equal interest in and to the said business, and the good will thereof, and all the property above mentioned; that the said Abraham Gotschick was willing that said sale should take place, and had consented thereto, and was then willing to accept the said Julius Rappaport as an equal partner in and to the said entire business; and for the interest of the said Augustus Hamma in said business, was then worth at least one hundred and thirty dollars.

By color and by aid of which said false and fraudulent pretenses and representations, the said

Augustus Hamma and Abraham Gotschick did then and there feloniously and fraudulently obtain from the possession of the said

Julius Rappaport, the sum of one hundred and thirty dollars in money, lawful money of the United States of America, and of the value of one hundred and thirty dollars.

of the proper moneys, goods, chattels and personal property of the said

Julius Rappaport

with intent to deprive and defraud the said

Julius Rappaport

of the same, and of the use and benefit thereof, and to appropriate the same to their own use.

Whereas, in truth and in fact, the said property hereinabove described was not then free and clear of all liens, but was mortgaged and encumbered, and the interest of the said Augustus Hamma in the said business was not then worth at least one hundred and thirty dollars, but was of little, if any, value.

And Whereas, in truth and in fact, the pretenses and representations so made as aforesaid by the said Gustav Hamma and Wassien Shtetnicki to the said Julius Rappaport was and were then and there in all respects utterly false and untrue, as ~~they~~ the said Gustav Hamma and Wassien Shtetnicki at the time of making the same then and there well knew;

And so the Grand Jury Aforesaid, do say that the said Gustav Hamma and Wassien Shtetnicki, in the manner and form aforesaid and by the means aforesaid, the said proper moneys, goods, chattels and personal property of the said Julius Rappaport.

then and there feloniously did STEAL, against the form of the statute in such case made and provided, and against the peace and dignity of the said people.

Tried July 25, 1893 .

Indicted for grand larceny in the second degree .
Indictment filed 1893 .

A P P E A R A N C E S .

Assistant District Attorney Thomas Bradley

For the People .

Mr.

For the defence .

J O H N B I N N S called by the people being duly sworn testified that his business was a musical entertainer and that he lived at 222 East 87th street, New York.
That he lived there on the 8th of July, which is a flat of five or six stories; that he occupied the fourth floor front and rear. The property which complainant lost was in the basement of the house; that it is divided into separate cellars, don't know how many; that he had a place for his coal and wood there and that he had a trunk there and all his musical instruments there .. That there were three concertinas, an English post horn, a flute, and a banjo there, also a pair of patent leather shoes and a box of make-up for theatrical business, paints and powders . The value of the property was about $300. The last time complainant saw his property was about noon Friday July 7th, the day before it was stolen. Missed the property first about nine o'clock on the 8th. Everybody in the house had access to the cellar. The cellar where the property was located was supposed to be locked; can't say whether the cellar was locked up on Friday noon the last time he saw his property; but the cellar is looked after by the janitor, and there is access to it from the street; don't know whether he locked the cellar or not. When complainant noticed his property was missing he went down to the police station and informed them of it. When he missed the property he found the trunk broken open and the lock had evidently been cut out .. The defendant was arrested and complainant saw his patent leather shoes on his feet in the police station, and the policeman recovered all the balance of his property. The policeman brought the property to his house and complainant identified it as his . The property was not brought to complainant in the presence of the defendant . When complainant said the shoes were his defendant said nothing . Complainant did not know the defendant, and did not ask him to steal his property.

In cross examination witness testified that the three English concertinas cost $65 each, and that he had had them about two years; that they were in the best condition and he kept them in the trunk. That complainant is a travelling performer. The English post horn was worth $15 or $20 and complainant has had it several years, and it was as good as new. There was also a banjo.

C H A R L E S F. F A R L E Y called by the people being duly sworn testified that he was a police officer connected with the 27th precinct which includes the premises in which complainant lived . After the complaint was made to him witness discovered the property; that he found the concertina in a pawnshop on Thirdavenue between 80th and 81st atreets; that he found another concertina on Second avenue in another pawnshop between 73d and 74th streets, and the rest of the property consisting of a concertina, banjo, post horn, flute he found in the defendant's house corner 80th street and Third avenue on Sunday evening July 9th Didn't see the horn there until the 13th of July when Defendant was arrested and he was brought to the station house . That defendant had patent leather gaiters on which complainant identified as his. Witness told defendant where he had found the property, and he denied it; didn't know anything about it, and didn't make any answer about the patent leather shoes. The distance between the residence of defendant and complainant is seven blocks. Witness examined the cellar of the pre mises of complainant, and saw where the trunk was burstedopen by some iron instrument. It was in a passage way of the basement; it was not in the cellar but in the passageway that led towards the cellar. When the burglary was reported witness went around to the various pawnshops to find the things, and discovered them in the pawnshops stated .

In cross examination witness testified that he found some of the things in defendant's house and knew that defendant put them there on information and belief . At the time when defendant was arrested he said he lived there, and told the name of the person to whom he pawned the concertina. The last that witness saw of the gaiters, they were on the defendant in the police station, and were identified by the complainant as his. Defendant held up his feet for the complainant to look at his shoes, and they were taken from his feet. He had no other shoes. At the time witness went to defendant's house he saw his mother; and in the closet in the hallway which belongs to his mother's apartment he found the musical instruments. The mother said she did not know they were there, when they were shown to her .

H A R R Y H E R O N , the defendant, being sworn in his own behalf testified that he was 16 years of age and that he had on the patent leather shoes referred to. That he was standing corner of 84th street and the avenue he don't know which avenue, and a strange man came up to him and said "Will you carry these for me", referring to bundle. Defendant carried them, and the strange man said he would give him 25 cents for doing so. The strange man said "Do you know where I can put these?" referring to stolen property. Defendant said "Yes" "I will put them in my house". After awhile the strange man said "Put them in the pawnshop." Defendant said no. The strange man said "I want to get something to eat." Defendant went to the pawnshop and got $1.25 for one of the things, and then the strange man gave him another one and said "Pawn this one." Defendant did so and got $1.00 and gave it to the stranger. The strange man said "Snake" and went away. Defendant had given the stranger all the money, and he left the rest of the things in a closet in his house. Defendant did not know the things were stolen, for if he had he would not have had anything to do with them. Defendant did not steal them. Defendant has not seen the stranger since he said "Snake". All defendant got were the shoes; he did not get 25 cents or one cent but got arrested. He has always been a good boy up to the present time. Does not know what day he was arrested

In cross examination defendant testified that he does not play on the concertina or flute; that he don't know the strange man and has not seen him since. That he met the strangeman as he was going up to 84th street and Third avenue to sell some papers one morning about eight o'clock, and he thinks it was Saturday morning. The strange man was coming through the side street, 84th street from Second avenue towards Third avenue. The strange man had the things all done up in a paper parcel, and had the banjo under his arm. Defendant was standing on the corner and the strange man stood there for awhile and he said "Will you carry these" down the avenue for me, and I will give you 25 cents." I carried them as far as 83d street. He said he had no place to put them; and defendant said "Well, I will put them in my house". The man did not go up to defendant's house, but defendant went up there himself and took the things up there. The man "snaked" when the "platties" (policemen) were there. Defendant was hanging around the neighborhood, and was not in his own house. The strange man stood down stairs and told him to bring the things up. At the time he told defendant to pawn the concertinas he was down at the door of defendant's house, and went with defendant to the pawnshop at 83d street. Defendant then pawned one of the concertinas at 83d street in Block's pawnshop, and then went to Second avenue near 73d street. The reason defendant did not pawn both concertinas in one place was because the strange man wouldn't let him do it. When defendant pawned the first concertina he thinks he gave his right name; but he gave a wrong name twice; don't know whether he gave his right address. He gave the wrong name because he didn't want to be caught in a scrape. The fact of going into a pawnshop and putting the instruments away led defendant to believe he would get into a scrape as the detectives would have suspicions . raised against him. Defendant believed the property belonged to the strange man. At 73d street and Second avenue the strange man didn't go into the pawnshop with defendant; that defendant gave him $1.25 and $1.00 and walked up as far as 80th street and Third avenue to his house to get something to eat, and when he came down stairs the strange man was gone. When defendant came out of his house he put on the patent leather shoes. He didn't have the shoes in his hand.

when he came out of the house; but put them up in the hall. Then he chucked them away and put the patent ones on. Defendant was at the Harlem court when he chucked the shoes away, and his parents gave him the other pair of shoes. Defendant was not arrested for the shoes at first; when the policeman saw the patent leather shoes defendant did not say where he had got them, and didn't say where he had got all the things from in the police court. Defendant has worked at a horse shoeing shop about 2 or 3 months. At other times he sells the morning papers. Defendant did not tell his father or mother where he got the stolen property from, but hid it away.

Indictment filed July 14th, 1893 .

A P P E A R A N C E S.

Assistant District Attorney Thomas Bradley

For the People

Mr.

For the defence

-----x
J O H N R U G H A B E R called by the people, being duly sworn testified that he resided at 335 West 44th street New York city, and was a stone cutter. On the 9th of july he lived at the same place. Before midnight or quarter to 12 he was sitting in front of his residence having his silver watch in his left vest pocket attached to a chain. He had paid $25 for the same. He felt the watch torn away from him when a fellow touched him and he looked behind. As complainant felt the watch being torn away from him he jumped up and ran after the thieves, one of whom was the defendant and the other one, whom he understands has been already sentenced. He saw their backs as they ran. The thieves ran close together from 9th avenue to 8th avenue and then up 8th avenue. Complainant overtook and arrested one at 46th street, and a policeman arrested the other one. Complainant has seen his watch at the police station and identified it. The chain was left hanging to the vest when the watch was broken away from it.

In Crosss examination witness testified that it being warm weather on the evening of the 9th of July he went out on the stoop of his residence, and fell asleep or rather "drows". There are no steps to the stoop it being on the threshold where the witness was sitting. He was not asleep when the thieves approached and ran away, but saw them. He sometimes nods on the stoop as if sleeping, but he can see and hear at the same time.

everything. / Witness cannot sleep sound. The little one approached him on the left hand side and the big one came on his right side. Witness was at the place in question about five minutes when the watch was taken. The street lamp was about Ten yards away. Witness had not been drinking anything except four glasses of beer up to six o'clock. Complainant saw the face of the defendant at the time in question, and also at the station house afterwards. One of the young men was caught in 49th street and 9th avenue. Defendant was caught on Eighth avenue. When they ran away there was nobody near them; but after they ran for awhile a crowd gathered. And when the crowd came up the policeman had him. This man I saw ran until he reached 49th street when the policeman caught him.

CHARLES THOMPSON called by the people being duly sworn testified that he was a police officer attached to the 22d precinct; that he made the arrest of the defendant on 8th avenue between 44th and 45th streets about half way the block. Defendant was going north on a fast walk up the avenue. Another policeman arrested the other thief, Charles Hurdsick. Hurdsick was probably 30 feet away from defendant at the time of the arrest of the latter by the witness. They were not in conversation at the time. The watch was given to complainant and was identified at the station house. The watch was given to witness after he arrested defendant by a citizen who said he saw Hurdsick throw it in a place in 46th street near 9th avenue. Witness said nothing to the defendant at the time and the defendant said nothing. Witness saw complainant at the time he complained to him that he lost his watch, that it had been taken from him by two men. Defendant said nothing about the watch and gave no explanation in regard to it. The charge of larceny was preferred against the two men, and Hurdsick admitted taking the watch.

In cross examination witness testified that he stood corner of 8th avenue and 44th street when complainant came up to him and said that his watch had been taken from him by a short man and a tall man, and asked witness if any one had passed that way answering his description. Witness had noticed two men passing him in a peculiar manner a few moments before up 8th avenue on the east side. Defendant Russell was in the middle of the block between 44th and 45th streets, and Hurdsick was a short distance ahead when witness started after them, and he told complainant to hurry along with him. Witness and complainant started on a fast walk when Hurdsick saw them coming,; witness blew a whistle and another policeman and a citizen caught Hurdsick near 46th street and 9th avenue .. Neither of the men were running when witness started after them.. The defendant and Hurdsick were about 10 feet apart when they passed the witness, but the distance was increased gradually as the taller man Hurdsick walked the fastest. Their peculiar manners indicated that they were together, but they said nothing. When witness arrested defendant, Hurdsick commenced to run. There was nobody on that side of the avenue at that time of night .. Witness cannot connect defendant with the robbery only from his actions. Hurdsick threw the watch away in 46th street, after he saw the defendant arrested. At the station house complainant identified his watch and pointed at Hurdsick as the man who took it .

DAVID E. TRAYBOLD called by the people being duly sworn testified that he resided at 812 10th avenue, corner of 54th street; that he worked at painting. On the night of the 9th of July at quarter to 12 witness was going through 45th street from Broadway to 8th avenue. Near an areaway at 46th street and 9th avenue he found the watch in question where he saw Hurdsick throw it. At the time Hurdsick threw the watch there he was going west towards 9th avenue. Witness saw the defendant that night when he was coming through 45th street, and when the policeman was coming along 8th avenue. Witness was behind the officer and saw Hurdsick running through 46th street. The officer said "run after him", and witness done so; and near 9th avenue he heard something thrown into an areaway and went there and found the watch. The policeman had the defendant when witness gave him the watch, and he said to the officer "I heard Hurdsick throw the watch down and went there and found it". Defendant did not say anything at that time. Before they were arrested witness saw defendant and Hurdsick; the former was following the latter, and they were both walking in the same direction up the avenue .

In cross examination witness testified that as they walked one was 75 feet behind the other. Witness saw the officer lay his hand on defendant and then Hurdick looked around and ran through 46th street towards 9th avenue, and in running after him saw him throw the watch into an areaway in 46th street, and went there and found it .

O F F I C E R T H O M P S O N being recalled testified that the watch in question was a silver case hunting watch and chain; the snap and wire link of the chain was fastened on to the watch, but the chain wasnot there.

G U S T A V E R U S S E L L , the defendant, being duly sworn testified in his own behalf that he lived at 42 Carmine street, New York city, and had resided there a little over two years. That he was in the express business of Barney Biglin, delivering goods and helping around on the wagons . Early in the evening of the 9th of July, defendant and one of the drivers, Mr. Car, were at Coney Island beach until about 11 oclock, and came home together about 10 oclock, and went to the stable and had a few games for drinks, and defendant got caught. There was a little business at Ellis Island to attend to, and they wanted a couple of men. Defendant knew a man in 40th street, who wasn't working, and he wanted to give him a job. Defendant was walking up 8th avenue, and he heard some one behind him, and a policeman came up, and said he wanted him.

Witness was at the beach in the evening and got to the stable in the latter part of the evening and was playing cards there with his friend and two other men. Witness was on his way to 63d street and 8th avenue to tell a friend of his to come down and go to work Monday morning at the express office. The name of the friend was Andrew Fagan who lives between 63d street and 64th street in Amsterdam avenue. Never saw the complainant until he saw him in the station house and was present when Hurd sick pleaded guilty. Never saw Hurd sick before. Defendant was never arrested before .

In Cross examination witness testified that he lived at 42 Carmine street a little over two years but when he was arrested he didn't say he lived there because he saw a friend of his there, and didn't want to let his landlady know that he was arrested; he thought he would get out the next morning .. That night he had been down to South Beach and left it at 11 oclock, came up from there on the Staten Island R. R., and came across the Staten Island ferry, and then took the elevated R. R to Houston street; got off and went to the stable in Washington street near Clarkson street arriving there about 25 or 20 minutes to 12 oclock. Then defendant sat down and played cards in the stable about 10 minutes and had something to drink there . Then he left his friend there to go to 63d street and Amsterdam avenue to get a man to do some work the next morning .

In going up to 63d street he took the dummy, and went as far as 30th street, and was going to walk the remainder of the distance; he had no money left, and got as far as 46th street when he was arrested. The dummy came up through West street and he walked west across to 8th avenue. Defendant was not in a big hurry when he went for his friend to Amsterdam avenue, although it was about midnight.

Defendant heard the complainant say that he saw him in front of his house in 44th street, but he didn't go through 44th street but 30th street to 8th avenue .

He heard the complaint made against him on the night in question; didn't tell anybody on the night in question that he had been down to South Beach and had been playing cards, and had walked up 8th avenue.

Defendant had told the policeman that he was going to see a friend of his that night but didn't tell him where he was going, because he didn't have a chance to, as the Judge said "Are you guilty or not guilty", and the defendant said "Not guilty". Defendant was asked some questions at the station, and his answers were put on a paper; and said that his name was Gustave Russell, that he was 22 years of age, was born in France and lived at 39th street two years. He signed his name to the paper but didn't read it. When asked if he had anything to say in exculpation of the charge he didn't know why he didn't tell them he went to South Beach, and then went to the stable, and then came up town to see his friend..

His friend's name at the Beach was Car; his friend up town was Andrew Fagin in 39th street . He never saw Hurdick before the night in question when defendant was arrested. He cannot give any explanation why he did not tell where he was on the night in question when arrested. Defendant left the beach at about 11 oclock and arrived at New York 15 or 20 minutes after 11. He left South Beach going on to 11 oclock, took the railroad which occupied 20 minutes, and took 20 min utes to come from Staten Island to New York in the Ferry boat. Defendant did not time himself by the watch as he had none . Defendant simply said he was not guilty at the police station, and that was all he was required to say.

Before,

HON. FREDERICK SMYTH,

and a Jury.

Tried JULY 24TH, 1893.

Indicted for ROBBERY, in the SECOND DEGREE.

Indictment filed JULY 12TH, 1893.

APPEARANCES:

ASSISTANT DISTRICT ATTORNEY BARTOW S. WEEKS,

For THE PEOPLE.

MR. COWAN;

For THE DEFENCE.

JAMES F. MUNDY, THE COMPLAINANT, being duly sworn, testified that he was in the insurance business, at 137 Broadway, New York city. On the night of the 7th of July, 1893, he was in the Bowery. He met the defendant about 12:15 A. M. He, the complainant, was walking down the Bowery, towards Chatham Square, and the defendant asked him to treat him. He left the defendant and started to go up the elevated stairs. He took the defendant into a saloon on the Bowery and treated him, and then started to go up the elevated stairs. When going up the stairs, he, the complainant, turned around and he saw that the defendant was following him. The defendant asked him what time it was. He, the complainant, took out his watch to see what time it was, and the defendant grabbed him by the throat. He had the watch open when the defendant grabbed him, and the defendant caught hold of the case of the watch and wrenched the case and the chain out of his hand and ran down the stairs. He, the complainant, called for the police, and as the defendant got to the bottom of the stairs he, the complainant, saw an officer.

catch the defendant. His watch was worth $50.00 and the chain was worth $5.00. He, the complainant, went to the station house with the officer and the defendant, and entered a complaint against the defendant. The works and part of the watch-chain remained in his, the complainant's, hand.

In cross-examination the complainant testified that he had had the watch about three months. He lived at 306 16th street, Brooklyn, and had lived there for about a year. He first saw the defendant five or ten minutes before he was robbed. When he looked at his watch, on the elevated stairs, it was ten or fifteen minutes past 12. He, the complainant, had had three drinks of gin that night before meeting the defendant. He was in the saloon with the defendant about two minutes. The defendant was the only man who drank with him in the saloon. The defendant did not treat him; he treated the defendant. There was sufficient light on the elevated steps for him to see the time.

OFFICER ADAM RAEDIG, being duly sworn, testified that on the early morning of the 7th of July, 1893, his post was on the Bowery. He went on post at 12 o'clock that night. He arrested the defendant about 12:15. He was standing at the foot of the elevated stairs, at Chatham Square. He heard a cry of "Police!" and he saw the defendant running down the stairs. He caught the defendant, and the complainant came running down the stairs and said, "That man robbed me of my watch." The defendant tried to throw a watch case and chain in the street, but he, the witness, prevented him from throwing it away. The complainant had been drinking, but he knew what he was about. The complainant was able to tell him, the witness, what happened, and he was able to walk to the station house and make a complaint.

In cross-examination the witness testified that he had never seen the complainant before the night in question. He had seen the defendant in the neighborhood for two or three weeks. The defendant had created a disturbance on the Bowery two or three times, by fighting.

FOR THE DEFENCE, THOMAS HUNT, THE DEFENDANT, being duly sworn, testified, in his own behalf, that on the night in question he was walking down the Bowery, between 11 and 12 o'clock. He saw the complainant standing on the sidewalk, with two other men. They asked him where he was going, and he said he was only going around town, to have a good time. They invited him to have a drink, and the four men entered a saloon. They stayed in the saloon about three-quarters of an hour. He, the defendant, said he was going to a boarding house, and the complainant and the other two men wanted him to go over to Brooklyn with them. He said he did not know how to go to Brooklyn, but they told him to go with them, and they would show him the way. As they were going up the stairs to the elevated road, at Chatham Square, one of the men asked him the time. He, the defendant, took out his watch, and the complainant grabbed him by the throat and snatched his watch. He hit the complainant and knocked him into a corner, and then one of the men took $12.00 away from him, the defendant, and he hit the man a punch and then ran down stairs.

The men ran down stairs first, and he, the defendant, ran after them. He ran into the officer. He told the officer that the complainant had stolen his watch, and the complainant told the officer that he, the defendant, had stolen his watch. The officer took the complainant's word, and arrested him, the defendant. When he was arrested he had $4.30 in his pocket, and his bank book. The watch in evidence was not his watch; his watch was an open face, gold watch. He had never been in any trouble before. He had only been in New York two days previous to his arrest. This was the second time he had been to New York.

In cross examination the defendant testified that he did not know anything about the watch in evidence. The watch that the officer took from him was his own watch.

THE COMPLAINANT, being recalled for further cross examination, testified that he had seen the watch in evidence in the Police Court and when he was before the Grand Jury. It was not true that he had taken the defendant's watch. He had the number of the watch case in his pocket. The numbers which were on the paper agreed with the number of the watch case and works. He did not have the paper in his possession at the time of the loss of the watch; he secured the numbers from the man from whom he bought the watch, subsequent to the night in question.

OFFICER RAEDIG, being called IN REBUTTAL, testified that he did not take an open faced watch from the defendant on the night of the arrest. He did not take any watch from the possession of the defendant, except the one in evidence. The defendant did not make any charge against the complainant, either at the time of his arrest or at the Police Court. He was sure that he had seen the defendant more than two or three days, on his post, on the Bowery. He did not see anybody else on the elevated stairs at the time he saw the defendant and the complainant there. When he searched the defendant he found $4.30 in his possession, and a bank book.

Court of General Sessions of the Peace

against

Thomas Hunt

The Grand Jury of the City and County of New York, by this indictment, accuse
