ELIZABETH NEWHAUSER testified that she lived at 251 West 66th Street and 40 West End Avenue, the same house having two numbers, and she was the janitress there. On October 11th the defendant also lived at 40 West End Avenue, with two Italians, in two rooms on the first floor, back. She came there on September 30th. Prior to October 11th the witness had seen in the defendant's rooms, besides the two Italians, other men, several times. The defendant came in with the men, and went up with them. The witness was standing in the hallway, and the defendant passed her. The defendant was in the hall, with her bosom exposed, when men were going out of her room; men other than those for whom she was keeping house. On October 11th she, the witness, sent for Mr. Bremer, the agent of the house, and they went into the defendant's room, and accused her of taking men in there. She denied it. Then the agent, Mr. Bremer, asked the witness, and the witness said that she, the defendant, did bring in strange men. Then the defendant became angry, and went into the bed and took a revolver from under the pillow, and returned with it, and stuck it into her, the witness's, neck, and Mr. Bremer took it away from the defendant. She, the defendant, at the same time, said something that the witness did not understand. The defendant, before getting the revolver, stamped her foot, in anger, and said that it was not true that she brought strange men into her room, as claimed by the witness.

In

the witness testified that Mr. Bremer asked where her, the defendant's, husband was, and the defendant said that he was in France; and Mr. Bremer asked her "What are you doing here, living with two Italians? How many men have you here?" and the defendant could not answer, but became angry. The defendant seemed to understand when she, the witness said that she had men coming there, and she, the defendant, said she did not have men calling. The defendant said something that the witness did not understand, and then went into the bedroom and return immediately with the revolver. As she came out with the revolver, she put it against the witness's throat--or the side of her neck--the left side--and said something, and Mr. Bremen caught the pistol, and took it from her, after a struggle, and then pushed her into her own room, and put the pistol in his pocket. The witness then left, and made a complaint against the defendant, and saw the defendant taken away after that. She heard the defendant say nothing more.

NICHOLAS H. BREMER, testified that he is a real estate broker. His offices are at 120 Broadway, 2423 8th Avenue and 556 East 139th Street. He is agent for the premises No. 40 West End Avenue, of which the previous witness, Elizabeth Newhauser, is janitress. He visited those premises at about 11 or a quarter to 11 o'clock in the morning of October

11th. He first saw the janitress and, afterwards, the defendant. In the presence of the defendant, Mrs. Newhauser told him, the witness, that the defendant was in the habit of having men called at her rooms. He, the witness, told the defendant that, if Mrs. Newhauser's statement was true, she, the defendant, would have to move. The defendant had a conversation with him, the witness, at the time, but he did not understand all that she said. He did understand her to say, however, that her husband was in France. Mrs. Newhauser, by signs, indicated that the defendant had the bosom of her dress open, when men visited her, and the defendant became very angry, "raving," and jumped into the next room, "and kind of jumped over the corner of the bed, and threw the pillow down, and grabbed the revolver. Then she came out, and ran over and placed the pistol against the neck of Mrs. Newhauser, and said something that the witness could not understand. The witness grabbed the revolver, and took it away from her. She struggled to recover it. The revolver was a self-cocking revolver, and contained four bullets. The witness took it to the station-house, where he made a complaint, and Officer Wanne arrested the defendant. The defendant's English was difficult to understand.

In

the witness testified that he could not carry on a continuous conversation with the defendant. The witness could understand a little from her gestures but no conversation.

THOMAS WANNE, testified that he is an Officer of the Municipal Police, attached to the 24th Precinct. He arrested the defendant on October 11th. The witness identified the revolver and cartridges with which it was loaded at the time.

the witness testified that the defendant, by words and gestures, gave him to understand that she could not understand English. She was very much excited.

THE DEFENSE.

LULU AMI, the defendant, testified, through Rez Kalla Deeb, who is sworn as Interpreter, that she lived at 66th Street and West End Avenue. She lived there on October 11th. She was housekeeper for two men at that address. An answer to the question, "Tell all that happened when this man and woman (referring to Mr. Bremer and Mrs. Newhauser) came into the room, the defendant testified: "I was washing the clothes for these two gentlemen that I was working for, and the man that I work for came into the place to ask her---'I hear that you had a boy here, and that you were showing your breast, and that he was doing something bad to you.'" At 10 o'clock in the morning, on the 11th of October, nobody came to see me only that man, and after a little while another man came, and it was this gentleman that was here. The Italian man said to me that somebody came and done something bad to me, and I said no, and he said, 'I heard it from a lady here.' And I said, 'Bring that lady here, and I will speak to her.' And that lady came up to the room, with another man, and she commenced to say something bad about me, and I told her to get out of there. And the gentleman th t was with her commenced to talk to me, in English, but I didn't understand him, and he didn't understand me. And then the lady went out of the room, and I said to the gentleman, 'Did you try to do anything bad to me, and I will kill myself before I will allow anybody to do anything bad with me. And I went to the table, and took up the pistol, and I said, 'I will kill the man that wants to do something bad to me, and I will kill myself before I will let any man do anything bad to me, and he took the revolver from me. The gentleman said to me, 'Shall I bring the policeman to you, to catch you and take you to the jail?' And I said, I didn't care; bring anybody you want. And the policeman wasn't dressed in the policeman's suit, and he said, 'Would you like to walk in my house? My house is cleaned up very nice, and you will stop with me.' And I said, 'I can't say anything about that; you must ask Mr. Frank, that I work for.' And he said, then, 'I am the policeman, and he showed me the shield. I said, 'I don't care. I will go with the policeman anywhere.' And he brought another policeman, and he told him to take me, and I said, 'All right; I will go with you anywhere,' and I went to the court. When the lady was in my room she said to me that I am a bad girl. And that some fellows will go into the house and speak to me, and that fellow do something bad to me. And I said no, and if I want to be a bad woman I will not stop in one house like this, and I said to the lady, 'Get out of my house and shut the door.' Well, she went from the room and brought that gentleman again, and he commenced to speak to me, and he said, 'Did you say to that lady that she is a bad lady?' and I said, 'What is she talking about me? She is talking something bad about me.' And he said, 'You are a bad woman.' And I said, 'If I am a bad woman, you go out of my room with her, and if I am bad I will kill myself before I will be bad.' As I said that, they were both in the room together. " The defendant said that "if any man intends to do that to me, I will kill him and myself in the same minute."

In

the witness testified that the name of the Italian with whom she lived was Mr. Frank. There were two Italians living there. She spoke to them in English. She could speak only a few words of English, such as, "Good morning!" "Something to eat," and a few words like that. She had been in this country only three months. She was buying fruit from a street stand, when the owner of it asked her whether she spoke English or Italian or French, and she said that she spoke French, but not the other languages. Then he offered her a place, at his house, as housekeeper, for $10 a month, and she accepted the position. He was one of the two Italians with whom she was living at the time of her arrest.

0754

FRANK COFFEY, testified, through Interpreter Morrossi, that his name, in Italian, was Francisco Cafferto, but he is called here "Frank Coffey." On October 11th he lived at 251 West 86th Street, corner of West End Avenue. He first became acquainted with the defendant when she called at his fruit stand at Columbus Avenue and 105th Street. She was peddling stockings and handkerchiefs. She complained that she could not get along on what she earned.

He offered her a position as housekeeper for himself and a young man who worked for him. At first she refused, but, subsequently, she consented, and asked what wages he would pay. They agreed on $10 a month and she went to work for him. She was in his house nine days. She did general housework. The housekeeper or janitress, Mrs. Newhauser, complained to him, the witness, that the defendant brought strange men into her rooms. The defendant, when spoken to about it, by the witness, in the presence of Mrs. Newhauser, denied the charge. He, the witness, did not have much occasion to speak to the defendant, as she had only house work to do; but when he spoke to her he managed to make her understand English. The witness was married, but did not live with his wife. He lived at the address referred to, 12 or 13 years, and had different housekeepers. The other man lived with the witness two years. His name is Joseph Savaresi. He had a wife living in Italy.
