On the examination of the witnesses for the People I have become fully satisfied that the defendant is innocent of the crime alleged herein. The fact that he was in company of deft. Barrett, who the latter called upon for the price of the stolen property, and clearly was in an accident.

I therefore recommended the dismissal of the indictment as against deft. George J. Fitzpatrick.

Luke Jackson,
George W. Knight and William Barrett

Referred by Mr. Justice Martineau, sitting at Port III for the purpose of ascertaining the facts in this case relating to the defendant George W.
Knight.

James Cassidy, 507 East 75th Street, Junk Dealer. I do not know of any fact connecting the defendant Knight with the crime charged against him herein, except that I heard from Thomas Flynn that he called upon him with the defendant Barrett, when the latter demanded payment for the lead he had previously left with him.

Thomas Flynn, 421 East 74th Street, Junk Dealer. On the 29th of December 1888, my business was at 478 East 74th Street. At about half past six o'clock P. M., the defendants Barnett and Jackson brought a bag full of lead to my place, offering it for sale. They put it upon the scale and said, they would fetch some more. About a quarter past nine o'clock P. M., Barnett returned to my place, accompanied by the defendant Knight. He demanded payment for the ~~papers~~ lead he had previously brought there. I told him that I would not buy the lead, and that he should take it away. Barnett refused to take it, and I thereupon asked the defendant Knight to take the lead away, but he replied that he did not know any thing about the lead, as he had met Barnett accidentally in the street. Thereupon they left. About one hour afterwards officer John J. Fitzpatrick came with Knight to my store and inquired about the said lead. I delivered the same to him.

0801

John J. Fitzpatrick, patrolman, 25th Precinct. On the 29th of December, 1888, I arrested the defendant Jackson for the crime charged against him herein.
He implicated the defendant Knight in the crime, but the next morning he denied that Knight had had anything to do with the burglary or with the larceny.
I afterwards spoke several times with the defendants Jackson and Barrett, and they always asserted that Knight had nothing whatever to do with the said crime. When I arrested Knight, he at once strongly asserted his innocence.
