 The People vs. Robert Esberger } Court of General Sessions. Part 7
 Before Alexander Smyth.
 Wednesday, November 29th 1882. Jointly indicted with Edward Fritz and George Martin for larceny from the person.

Frank Mangen, Jr. sworn and examined by Mr. Requier. Mr. Mangen, did you see Esberger, the prisoner on the 16th of Nov. 2. Yes sir. Tell the jury where you saw him? In Broadway near Thirteenth St. Did you see him take anything from anybody's person? Yes sir, I saw him go up to the window where some ladies were. I saw him touch a lady's side jacket pocket. (I mean Esberger) I saw him take a piece of ribbon on the 16th of November What then did you see? I saw him take a small piece of ribbon. And where was this?
 On Broadway near Thirteenth street between Twelfth and Thirteenth St. By Mr. Requier.
 Is the lady in Court? Yes sir. Was the lady standing at the store window? Yes sir, among others. Is that Mrs. Blunder Mathews?
 Yes sir. Then what did you do after you saw that? I also saw Fritz, who is also here, take that pocket book from Mrs. Mathews's pocket. From the same lady? No sir from another lady. I made a grab for Fritz He was standing at the same window?

Yes sir. I made a grab for Fritz and the prisoner Esberger ran away, and as he did he dropped the ribbon. Esberger dropped the ribbon which he had taken from another lady? Yes sir. At the time that Fritz took the pocket book from the lady's pocket where was Esberger? Right alongside of him. Then he must have seen what Fritz did? Yes sir. I saw him in company with him before that. By the Court. Where did you see him, how long before? Right next door below, about five minutes before. By Mr. Requier How long was it before that Esberger took the ribbon from the lady before Fritz took the pocket book? It was simultaneously. Esberger was standing by his side, so that he must have seen him take the pocket book? Yes sir. Where was Martin? I did not see Martin until I grabbed those two and some other boys ran. Well, did you grab those two? Yes sir. You stopped them did you? I stopped Fritz and detective Heidelberg grabbed Esberger. Detective Maquire got Martin; he ran. I did not see Martin at the time these larcenies were going on; there were other boys running. Cross Examined. I do not say that he took the silk ribbon but he dropped that as I made a grab for both. It was a different lady that had the pocket-book; the pocket-book was taken out at the same time by the other young man. I grabbed the pocket-book as he took it out of the pocket. The prisoner did not have an opportunity to run away. Are you an officer? Yes sir, a detective sergeant. Blunder Mathews, sworn and examined testified. Were you, Mr. Mathews, on Broadway on the 16th of Nov.? I was. Did you have this purse with you? I did. Are you the owner of the purse? I am. Did it contain anything? Yes sir, what did it contain? I am not sure, a dollar and some other little money I think - one dollar and some change. Did you miss that purse? Yes. Where did you miss it? I did not miss it until I heard a crash. I looked down and I saw this on the sidewalk. By the Court. Where were you then? On Broadway near Twelfth and Thirteenth streets. Looking into a window? Yes sir. You had that in your pocket when you were standing at the window? Yes sir, unfortunately the pocket of this coat. Do you wear your pockets behind? Yes sir, and I am not sure it was stolen; it could have dropped out.

Who gave it you, how did you get it back? I think one of the officers gave it to me. The gentleman who was here last, did you get it from that gentleman, Mangen? That is he. Did you see those boys there at the time? No, I did not. When did you get the purse back? Not until this moment. Did you see the prisoner that day? I did both of them. Did you see your purse that day? Yes sir, he showed it to me and I recognized it as being mine. Was there anything in it when you saw it? I did not look at the contents. Robert Esberger, sworn and examined in his own behalf testified. Did you hear what the policeman said? Yes sir. Was you with this boy Fritz who stole that pocket book? Yes. What was you doing with him? Nothing - walking down Broadway. Was you with him when he stole this pocket book? Yes sir. Did you know that he was going to steal it? Yes sir. You and he meant to steal that pocket book? Yes. When he did take the book what did he do? He put it under his coat; we were going to walk away and the officers caught us and brought us to the station house. Fritz dropped the pocket book on the sidewalk. The prisoner pleaded guilty and was remanded.
