Indictment Dismissed

THE PEOPLE & C. , against
 BERTHA ZOBEL.

I have carefully investigated the facts of this case, and have come to the conclusion that the indictment should be dismissed. I have personally examined all the witnesses in the case and have their statements in the shape of affidavits.

There is not a particle of proof that the defendant had any knowledge of the execution of the deed made by Nicholas McCool to her. She has made an affidavit that she was entirely ignorant of the whole transaction and did not even know that the deed had been executed until the indictment was found. From the other evidence in the case, I am convinced that this is true.

I am informed by persons of undoubted credibility that the defendant's character is of the very best in every respect. From the investigation I have made, I am convinced that the defendant's name was used by McCool, and that she is entirely innocent.

She has done all in her power to remedy the wrong to which she was unwittingly a party, by executing a quit claim deed of the premises to the true owner.

I therefore respectfully recommend that this indictment be dismissed.
