Tried, Sept. 17th. 1888.

APPEARANCES:

Assistant District Attorney Bedford, for the People.
Mr. Alfred Steckler, for the Defence.

-----oooo-----

ABRAHAM SCHATZ, the complainant, testified that he lived at 169 Hester Street, in the City of New York. On the 10th. of August last, he was at the corner of Hester and Chrystie Streets. At about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, He met the defendant Lewis and a man by the name of 0472

34

35

Patrick Quinn. One of them said "Hallo " He didn't pay any attention and crossed the street. Then Lewis followed him and said, "What business have you to insult my friend, " and knocked him, the witness, down. Lewis struck him in the face and fell on top of him, the witness, and Quinn came to his (Lewis') assistance and commenced to kick him, the witness. After they had gone away, he missed his watch. They ran away. He also missed his coat and silk handkerchief and hat; the value of the property altogether was $25. It was warm, and he had his coat on his arm. He had his watch in his vest pocket. He didn't discover the loss of his watch until he got off from the sidewalk.

UNDER CROSS-EXAMINATION He testified that he had never seen the defendant Lewis before that day. Lewis was a perfect stranger to him. There were many people around in the neighbourhood at the time. He didn't strike Lewis or get into a clinch with him or pull him down. When he was on the sidewalk he tried to push Lewis off. He was not willing to swear that the defend-and stole his property. Quinn was drunk in the station house. Lewis had his, the complainant's, hat on and would not give it up; but he, the complainant, proved that it was his, and the sergeant gave it back to him. He had Lewis' hat on. He didn't have any quarrel with Quin and didn't get into a fight with him. Lewis didn't ask him whether he hit an old man because he didn't hit him. He had Lewis's hat on because when he got up from the side walk a strange man handed it to him.

IZZY KURTZ. testified that he lived at 125 Hester Street. Abraham Shatz, the complainant, passed the corner of Hester and Chrystie Streets. and Lewis and Quin were there. They said, "Hallo" Schatz" and then Lewis gave him a punch in the head and knocked him on the side walk and while they had him down they kicked him and punched him-, Quin and Lewis; and when he got up they ran away. There were three men together. One man ran away in another direction.

OFFICER JAMES RYAN testified that he belonged to the 11th. Precinct he arrested Quin near the corner of Chrystie and Hester Streets and Lewis on the corner of the Bowery and Hester Street about three o'clock in the afternoon. He arrested Quin first and took him to the station house and then the boy Kurtz went with him and pointed out Lewis and he arrested him. The complainant identified both men in the station house. In the station house, complainant said that Lewis had his hat, and Lewis said that it was his hat. The complainant proved that it was his hat, and the sergeant made him give it to Lewis.

CROSS-EXAMINATION. The witness testified that when he arrested the defendant he said that he was going to a restaurant for a steak and he took the prisoner on the way past the restaurant to the station house. The restaurant was on the Bowery near Grand Street.

FOR THE DEFENCE, MORRIS LEWIS, the defendant, testified that his right name was Morris Cohen, and that he was 24 years of age. He gave a wrong name, because he wished to save his father from disgrace. He had never been arrested before in his life. He worked at the corner of Chrystie and Hester Streets. Before that he had worked for J. Rosenstein & Company, Shirt cutters at 41 White Street. He worked for him for about nine months. Before that he worked for Coblenz & Dagian, in Franklyn Street, in the same business. He had worked in several other places. He had also worked for V. Henry Rothschild & Company, corner of Leonard Street and West Broadway, the largest house in the country. He worked for them for 9 years. At the time of his arrest, he was tending bar at Chrystie and Hester Streets and had been for about 4 months. He didn't rob the complainant, or assist anyone else in robbing him. He knew the complainant by sight, because he had seen him in the restaurant where he worked as a waiter. At about three o'clock on the afternoon in question, he had been sent by his employer for a box of cigarettes, and when he got outside, he saw a crowd ~~xxxxxx~~ on the corner of Chrystie and Hester Streets and they pushed the old man Quin into the gutter. Quin was drunk. He knew Quin, and picked him up and told him to go along. As soon as he picked up Quin and started to take him away, the complainant took off his coat and called him a vile name and punched him, the defendant, and in self defence, he, the defendant, struck the complainant, and they clinched and fell to the sidewalk. Quin walked away and there was a big crowd around them at the time. He didn't break the complainant's chain to his knowledge and didn't touch his watch or any of his property. He picked up the complainant's hat by mistake from the sidewalk after the fight. It was the same color as his own. Then he went to get the cigarettes. Then his boss told him to go around the corner and order him a steak, and then he was arrested. He told the officer that he wanted to leave the order for his boss, and the officer allowed him to go around by way of the restaurant and leave the order.

CROSS-EXAMINATION. He testified that he could not say that Schatz was one of the men who pushed Quin into the gutter; but when he came over he was quarrelling with Quin. He didn't speak to Schatz first. Schatz struck him first.

WILLIAM DAUB testified that he was foreman for V. Henry Rothschild & Company. He was foreman of the Cutting Department. They are very large manufacturers of shirts at the corner of Leonard Street and West Broadway. He had known the defendant for about 10 years. The defendant had worked for the firm about 9 years. He left their employment about 2 years ago. His reputation was very good.

 The People vs. Hugh Laughlin
 Court of General Sessions Part I
 Before Recorder Smyth. Sept. 12. 1888.
 Indictment for assault in the first degree.

Teresa Denny, sworn and examined, testified. I live at 479 Pearl St, am married and live with my husband on the first floor of that house. I remember the 19th of August and on that day I had some trouble with the defendant. A young girl came to my room to see me, I wanted water to wash my dishes and I sent her for half a can of water down stairs. The little girl came up crying, I asked her what was the matter and she told me. I went down stairs and the defendant was at the head of the stairs. I asked him what he was offering a quarter to the child for, and he says, that I was a liar, both me and the child. I told him that he should excuse me for the insult to him, that I would not believe the child any more, and he followed me up stairs to my room. He came in and commenced to call the child out of her name, and a little liar and all sorts of words that were not right to use to a child. I told him to please go out, that I did not wish to have any trouble in my room. He went out and was not more than a minute gone when he came back with a revolver. He opened the door and came right in; my husband, another girl and I and the child surrounded the table, and he offered to shoot the whole of us and called us out of our names; he pointed the revolver to us and used a word that was not proper to use - he says, "Jesus Christ, come over and kill me now." I went over and told him to put that revolver away, I begged him, that I was the mother of a child, not to put my family in trouble. He said that he respected me as long as he knew me; he shot off the revolver only once because the policeman ran after him; he pointed the revolver to the ground. Officer Mitchell arrested him and took the revolver from him and took him to the Elizabeth street station house. The name of the little girl I sent for the water is Luisa Longomirini. I was drying dishes when the defendant came in with the revolver and the people were sitting around the table. My husband is here only two years and he cannot speak English well. I don't know what the defendant said, for I was excited. My husband is a shoe maker; he has no pistol; the defendant was in front of me when he had the pistol; I was not shot; the officer came right up.

0508

Louisa Longomarsini sworn. I am twelve years old and read and write and go to school and church. I know I will be punished if I swear to what is not the truth. I went down stairs to get some water for the complainant about one or two o'clock. One Sunday my cousin brought me to this lady's house and she sent me down for half a can of water, and that man over there (the defendant) said to me, "What are you going to do with the water?" I said, my cousin sent me down for it. He said, "Sissy, do you want a quarter?" I say, "No sir, keep the quarter yourself." While I was going up stairs, I said, you dirty elop; I went and told the lady and she came down and spoke to the defendant. I was sitting up stairs all the time, I saw him when he came into the room; when he came up he said he would kill me. My cousin then said, "Will you please do me the favor to put that revolver away?" He said, No, I went, and let shoot; then the officer came in and took him away with the revolver. Cross Examined. I can not remember what the defendant said to the complainant when he came into the room. She said a few words to him, she scolded; her husband was there too. I went down to the sidewalk to get the water. There was a lady on the sidewalk and she heard all that he said to me. I was not alone with this man. I never saw this man before. I did not live in this house.

John F. Mitchell sworn. I am an officer of police and arrested the defendant on the 19th of August. I was standing in 489 Pearl St. Sunday afternoon and heard a pistol shot fired and a woman screamed. I looked up to 479 Pearl St. and ran up stairs on the first floor and found the prisoner in the centre of the room with a revolver in his hand. I took it away from him and took him to the station house. The defendant was drunk; he said, "The son of a bitch wanted to kill him, meaning her husband; he was not quiet but resisted and my hand was cut with the head of the revolver. I had to club him; the revolver now shown me is the one; two shots were cut and three were loaded; the complainant (the woman) said that the defendant came in to kill her or her husband; the defendant said, "The son of a bitch wanted to kill me first, and he went down stairs to get his revolver to show him he had one as well as him."

Cross Examined. I don't suppose it was over a minute after I heard the shot and the time I entered the room; the defendant had his back towards the door and he had the revolver in his hand; he was able to walk to the station house. I had a tussle to ~~take~~ the revolver away from him and he cut my hand.

Hugh Laughlin, sworn and examined in his own behalf, testified. My aunt owns this building and I collect the rents and let the rooms. These people were only in there from the 1st to the 19th. I was standing talking to a lady who owns the store. A lot of boys and girls have been running to get water in the street and spilled it in the hall. I turned from talking to Mrs. Powers to see who was in the hall. I saw this little girl come over towards the foot of the stairs with some water. I said, Don't spill that water; where do you belong? She said, my cousin lives up stairs. She went up stairs with the water and she was not long up till the woman came down stairs. I was standing in the store all the time with the lady. When she came down she said, "How dare you offer that little girl a quarter?" I said, I offered no quarter; she lies." The woman in the store said, the girl lies, that man never spoke about a quarter.

The girl lies. Then she went up stairs and was not long up. I turned to the lady in the store and I says, "I will go to see if she could say that perkenst my face." I ran up stairs in the first floor over the store and I stood at the door. I says, "Do you say that I offered you a quarter?" She hung down her head and she passed over to where this woman's husband was sitting near the window. He turned round and says, "I have a pistol, I will shoot you." I jumped around to my room; my room was open, and the revolver was thrown upon the table - a short time ago my clothes were all stolen - I left it one side; I picked up the revolver and went up stairs and said, "There is one as good as yours?" I held it to the ground and squeezed on it; it is a self cocker and it snapped. I stood at the door until Officer Mitchell came up and then I gave him the revolver without any resistance and went to the station house. I did not point the pistol to any one in the room. I was mad at the time when he threatened me with the pistol and I said, "I am not going to be frightened by an Italian." I was convicted for being drunk and got ten days on the Island, but was never convicted of any crime. I was convicted of being drunk three times. I am a slate roofer. Cross Examined My aunt's name is Mrs. Murray 495 Pearl St. I suppose she heard of my arrest, she is not here. What did you go to your room for after you went down stairs? Because he threatened to shoot me, I was going back to show him I was not afraid of him, to let him know I had a revolver. You have to press very hard on your revolver to fire it off? Not when your temper is up; it is easy pressing your hand. I was not drunk, I had some taken. I never took a drink in a liquor store that day, only what I took in my room. I never resisted the officer in the slightest and he did not club me; he collared me very tight and shook me. I said, Don't shake me, I will go up quietly. "Her husband threatened me with a revolver; he says, "I will shoot you, I have got a pistol." Putting back his hand; he did not take a revolver out and I did not see any; he did not point it at me. He is an Italian, I never had any trouble with him; he had only been nine days there. I never offered the little girl a quarter, I have got witnesses to prove it if she was here; she would come up if she was sent for, I did not know what time my trial would come off, it is not two blocks from here. Perhaps you will allow a court officer to go down for Mrs. Powers; she was standing with me in the store the time this girl was in it. I could not tell what time I loaded this pistol, it was loaded sometimes on the shelf. I fired only one shot. I fired another shot sometime before down in the cellar at rats, then I left it on the shelf. One Saturday night after supper when I came back my clothes were all stolen. You went up to see if the little girl told a lie about you - you went up to this woman's room? Yes sir. You did not have your revolver then? No sir. You went down stairs? The other man threatened to shoot me first, he says. "I have got a revolver and I will shoot you."

05 12

0513

Asst. Dist. Atty. Jerome: That is the case.

The Court: If your client will plead to assault in the third degree, I will take it.

The defendant refused to plead, and after the Court charged the jury, they rendered a verdict of guilty of assault in the third degree. His Honor sentenced the defendant to imprisonment in the Penitentiary for one year and imposed a fine of one hundred and fifty dollars.

store while the balance of said sum of money which was in bills was in a leather case in a trunk in the rear room adjoining said store. and immediately after the said unknown man left defendant's store defendant discerned that said ~~perpetrator~~ was missing. Defendant is informed by Edward M. Donald of No 349 N. 25th St. that at about the hour of 10 o'clock P.M. said date he saw the said Lyons and Pagan together and in company with each other and saw the said Lyons climb over a stone wall which is in the rear of defendant's store. while the said Pagan assisted him. Lyons then opened the door in said stone wall. which Pagan also went in. and after being in defendant's store for about two minutes they Lyons and Pagan came out together. When he M. Donald saw the said unknown man then enter defendant's store from 7th Avenue. and immediately thereafter Lyons went into a side door on 25th St which leads into defendant's store. and immediately after he Lyons came out of said side door with a box in his possession. and he and Pagan walked toward 8th Avenue through West 25th St. together. and at the same time the said unknown man came out of defendant's store and walked down 7th Avenue. and shortly thereafter after he M. Wherefore defendant charges the said Lyons and Pagan both from here and the said unknown man not get arrested with being together and acting in concert with each other and feloniously taking stealing and carrying away said sum of money.
