BRIEF HISTORY OF JOHN MELIA.

Case No. 47842.

March 21, 1890.

John Melia, aged 11 years, was arrested by an officer of the 25th Precinct, charged with disorderly conduct (throwing snowballs at wagon horses) and was held for examination until 2-00 P. M. Boy resided with parents at 343 East 76th Street. Society's officer at the address given saw the step-mother of John Melia, who appeared respectable and who said that the boy was inclined to be mischievous. Other children in the family, - Annie 14 years, Loretta 9 years, Mary Ellen 9 years (twins) and Maggie 3 months. The father Michael is a laborer.

At 2-00 P. M., on above date, officer reported investigation to Justice Ford, who discharged boy with a reprimand.

Case No. 60913.

November 16, 1891.

Justice Meade at the Fifth District Police Court requested Society to investigate the case of John Melia, aged 14 years, whose father Michael of 309 East 81st Street charged him with being incorrigible and beyond his control. Stepmother, Mary, had died three months before.

Nov. 20, 1891. Society's officer called at the address given and learned the boy played truant and was incorrigible. The family seemed very poor. Nothing was known against the father. Appointment was made for the father to be in court on the following Sunday where, however, he did not appear.

Case No. 69534.

December 19, 1892.

The 27th Precinct notified this Society that an officer was wanted at the Fifth District Police Court in the afternoon where our officer ascertained that John Melia, aged 13 years, of 212 East 102nd Street, had been arrested for shooting a man named John Gaffney in the head with a revolver, slightly injuring him. The boy claimed the shooting was accidental. Justice Meade held John in $1,000. bail to await the action of the Grand Jury. John Melia stated to our officer that he had bought the revolver from another boy whose name and address he did not know.

December 20, 1892. Society's officer at 212 East 102nd Street learned from the boy's sister, Annie, that boy goes to school regularly and that her oldest brother and father work steadily, - she keeping house. Family lived in three poorly furnished but clean rooms.

January 24, 1893. On further investigation, our officer learned from Michael Melia, the father, that he works for a contractor, named John Casey, and that he did not go to court because he could not afford to lose a day's pay, but would like boy discharged. Said that when he made application for commitment, of boy some time ago, he did it only to frighten him. Also said that John works in the Rockland Knitting Mills, 87th Street & 3rd Avenue, where officer called but found place closed. Also went to the telegraph office on Ninth Avenue, between 91st & 92nd Streets, where boy had worked formerly, and where learned that no record was kept of the boys and therefore could not ascertain whether boy had been discharged or had left of his own accord. The tenants all speak well of the Melia family, and the father was notified that the Judge desired to see him at the Court of General Sessions on January 25, at 10-30 A. M.

January 25, 1893. At the Rockland Knitting Mills, learned from the foreman that John Melia had worked there one week when he was arrested for shooting a man, and that the foreman was well pleased with the boy for the short time he had been there.

Dear Sir:--

On Monday night, Dec. 5th., one of our agents was robbed in the ferry room at 34th St. The thief was caught, taken to the 35th St. Station House, and next day was remanded to go before the Grand Jury. The stolen property consisted of eight checks numbered from 1675 to 1681 both inclusive, drawn by this Company to the order of the different morning newspaper publishers.

I write asking that you will kindly request the parties now having the checks to send them to this office. I would also state that the thief stole a watch from one of the passengers while on the Ferry Boat; it was found in the possession of the prisoner so there is plenty of evidence to convict him.
