WILLIAM EGGERS, the COMPLAINANT, testified that he lived at 330 Morris Avenue. He kept a grocery store at the same number. On January 31st he was sitting on a barrel in front of his store, between 4 and 5 o'clock in the afternoon. He saw the defendant coming along the Avenue, followed by about fifty boys, who were laughing at the defendant. The defendant had his face blackened, and had around his neck a sash full of clothes pins. The defendant asked him, the complainant, if he wanted any clothes pins at the rate of two for five cents. He, the complainant, told the defendant to shut up. Then the defendant said, "Give me a head of cabbage, boss." And he, the complainant, said, "Shut up," again. Then the defendant said, "You wont give me any cabbage?" He, the complainant, said, "There's some cabbage in the ash barrel." Then the defendant called him, the complainant, a number of bad names. He, the complainant, still sat on the barrel and did not reply. Thereupon the defendant stepped back about 5 or 6 paces, and drew a pistol from his righthand coat pocket, and fired one shot at him, the complainant. The bullet passed directly in front of him, the complainant. He, the complainant, still sat on the barrel. The defendant fired a second shot, and a pane of glass in the show window was broken. The window was right behind him, the complainant. Then he, the complainant, got up and stood in front of his door, and the defendant fired two more shots at him. The second shot passed on his, the complainant's, right side, and shattered the pane of glass. Then the defendant ran away, and he, the complainant, pursued him. He, the complainant, was not more than ten paces behind the defendant. The defendant sprang over a fence, and he, the complainant, after him. Forty or fifty other persons joined in the chase. Then the defendant got into 152nd Street, and ran into a house and upstairs. He, the complainant, did not care to follow the defendant upstairs. He, the complainant, said to the officer, "Look out! He has got a pistol in his pocket." Then the officer took the pistol from the defendant's side coat pocket. The officer took the defendant to the police station. The defendant said nothing on the way. At the police station the defendant said that he was having a little fun. The defendant also said that he had been drinking and had painted his face black. The Sergeant at the desk then asked the defendant if the complainant had done anything to him, and the defendant said, "No." When the pistol was examined there were two cartridges in the cylinder that had not been discharged. In the complainant said that he supposed that the defendant was joking when he asked him to buy the clothespins, and also asked him for a head of cabbage. He, the complainant, did not get a club and try to drive the defendant away; nor did he get any other weapon. The defendant had a cap on when he came up, but he threw it away.

C r o s s - E x a m i n a t i o n,

REINHARD ZANG, testified that he was present at the time of the shooting. He had been sitting in a saloon about two doors from the complainant's place, and he heard a noise and went out. He saw the defendant put his hand into his right coat pocket, draw a pistol and fire three shots at Mr. Eggers.

MALVINA EGGERS, wife of the complainant, corroborated her husband's testimony.

PETER LANGELOPE, HENRY SCHMIERER and SOPHIE UHL, also gave similar testimony.

WILLIAM RAMSAY, testified that he was in his brother's house in 500 West 152nd Street, on the afternoon of December 31st, when he discovered the defendant hiding under his bed. He, the witness, said nothing but went down to the street and told the police officer where the defendant was hiding. He, the witness, lit a stable lantern, and went upstairs and pointed out where the defendant was.

OFFICER EDWARD TYNAN, of the 33rd Precinct, testified that he went to Ramsay's house and found the defendant hidden in Ramsay's rooms. The defendant spoke in Italian, but he, the witness, could not understand him. He took the defendant down to the sidewalk, and took his revolver away from him. It was in the inside pocket of his coat. The defendant's coat was unbuttoned. There were two unexploded cartridges in the pistol. It was a 6-barrel revolver. There were four exploded cartridges in the cylinder. In the police court the defendant claimed that the complainant attacked him with a club as large as a police officer's night stick. The complainant denied that he had attacked the defendant. The defendant claimed that he was struck across the back with the club by the complainant. In the witness testified that he did not see any bruises or marks upon the hands or head or body of the defendant. The defendant did not make any resistance when he was arrested. The defendant had evidently been drinking, but he did not stagger.

C r o s s - E x a m i n a t i o n,

FOR THE DEFENSE.

FRANK PANZA, the DEFENDANT, testified that he lived at 508 Cortlandt Avenue, and was a shoemaker. He had lived in the United States about five years. He was a married man, with one child. He had been married about 13 years. In Italy he was a prize marksman, and he won prizes by shooting through rings. He also shot pipes with long stems out of men's mouths. He frequently gave exhibitions of shooting pipes out of men's mouths at 30 or 40 feet, with a revolver. If he had shot to wound or injure the complainant he could readily have killed him. He could hit a penny at 20 paces with a revolver. He had been drinking on the day in question, and blacked his face with stove blacking, and put a lot of clothes pins around his neck, and started to have some fun. He was followed by a lot of boys, and made them laugh by dancing. He did ask the complainant to buy clothes pins and to give him cabbage as a joke. He did not call the complainant bad names, but the complainant called him bad names, and ordered him away. Then the complainant went into his store, and got a large club, and struck him several times on the head and neck. He broke his, the defendant's, hat. He, the defendant, backed away and told the complainant to stop. He would not do it, and then he, the defendant, pulled out his revolver not to shoot the complainant, but to frighten him away. He shot once on one side of the complainant and twice on the other. Then he ran away because he was afraid that the complainant would beat him again. In

C r o s s - E x a m i n a t i o n ,

11

he said that he bought the revolver from a man who came to his shop to sell it about a month before January 31st. He had not put the pistol in his pocket that day, but it had remained in the pocket from the last time that he had worn the trousers. He did not know whether the pistol was loaded or not, when he pulled it out to frighten the complainant. Some friends spent the day with him, and they had a lot of wine to drink. It was a holiday, and he did not work.
