of No. 12 St. Lukes Place Henry L Joyce Street, aged 32 years, occupation Transportation being duly sworn, deposes and says, that on the 14 day of April 1893 at the City of New York, in the County of New York, was feloniously taken, stolen and carried away from the possession of deponent, in the night time, the following property, viz:

a quantity of raw Cotton, of the Amount and of the value of thirty five dollars ($35<sup>00</sup>/<sub>100</sub>) the property of Manhattan Lighterage and Transportation Company and in deponent's care and custody.

and that this deponent has a probable cause to suspect, and does suspect, that the said property was feloniously taken, stolen and carried away by

Peter Nelson, Charles Dugoley and Thomas McPulty (all now here), and while acting in concert with each other, from the following facts to wit: that between the hours of 10 and 12 o'clock mid-night of said date deponent saw the defendants Nelson and Dugoley on the deck of the Barge Captain Lang which is lying in the waters of the North River at the foot of Charlton Street - and that said Barge is loaded with raw Cotton securely bound and baled and that deponent in company with Officer John J. Blanka of the S<sup>t</sup>. Precinct found said defendants Nelson and Dugoley on board of said barge, and in the hold of said barge, they found 3 1/2 bags.

of No. 99 East 47th St. Chicago, Ill. Street, aged Myra L. Burnett years Occupation none being duly sworn, deposes and says, that on the seventh day of April 1893 at the City of New York, in the County of New York, the following described property was stolen from the possession of deponent, by John Nolan and Michael Collins, to wit: one diamond watch of the value of one thousand dollars, pair of earrings of the value of one thousand dollars, one diamond pin of the value of one thousand dollars, one lace pin of the value of two hundred dollars, and divers other articles of jewelry of the value of one thousand dollars.

Deponent charges that the said property was stolen from deponent by the said John Nolan and Michael Collins, for the reasons following.

On the date of the commission of the said crime, the said property was in deponent's room in the Windsor Hotel, in New York City. Deponent left the said room about half past six o'clock in the evening leaving the said property therein. When she returned about eight o'clock of the same evening, the same had disappeared.

Deponent is informed by Detective Sergeant Charles J. Wade, that he arrested the said defendants, and found in their possession part of the property above described. They further admitted the larceny of the said property to the said Wade, and are informed by said Wade, and gave information where pawn-tickets for the remainder of the property had been concealed.

M A G G I E M A L L E Y , called by the People, being duly sworn, testified that she lived at No. 288 Spring street. On the 30th of March she lived at No. 71 King street, with her mother, who was sick. They occupied the top floor back of No. 71 King street, and the defendant at the bar lived in the same house in the second floor front. There were three floors. She, the witness, occupied the third floor and the defendant the second. On the day in question, she, the witness, was coming down stairs when she saw the defendant holding an axe above her, the witness's, mother's, head. She, the witness, ran in between them to protect her mother and the defendant struck her on the face with the axe. Her, the witness's, face was cut and her eye was swollen. She took the axe from the defendant's hands and kept it ever since. The defendant then went into her rooms and went to bed. She, the witness, did not know if the defendant was under the influence of liquor. Her, the witness's, mother went out and brought an officer in right away. In cross-examination the witness testified that she had lived in the house two years the 30th of this month. She had never had any trouble with the defendant before. The defendant was not chopping wood with the hatchet. Her, the witness's, mother's screams brought her down stairs. The defendant was holding the hatchet over her mother's head, about to strike her, when she, the witness, came down stairs. Her mother was not struck. She, the witness, did not know what part of the hatchet struck her, but it was likely the butt of the hatchet. She was kept in the house for three days. She had a black eye. She had no trouble or feeling of any kind with the defendant, except that the defendant picked at her mother.

J O H N M H E S S I A N, being duly sworn, testified that he was an officer of the Eighth Precinct. He arrested the defendant on the evening of the 30th of March, at No. 71 King street, on complaint of Maggie Malley's mother. When he got to the house the defendant was in her own rooms and he had to force the door open. He was with another officer. He accused the defendant of striking the Malley girl and the defendant said she did it in self defense. At the station house the defendant said that she had to defend herself but said nothing about the axe. There was a cut about an inch long on the Malley girl's face. The cut was bleeding and her eye was discolored. The girl's mother and the defendant appeared to have been drinking.

MARY COLLINS, the defendant, called by the defense, being duly sworn, testified that she was going on seventy years old. She had lived in this city since she was a little girl. She lived in the Grand Hotel for twenty years. She was never before arrested in her life. She did not hit Miss Malley with the hatchet. It was her, the defendant's, hatchet. The way the hatchet came into the possession of her enemy was that Miss Malley broke into her rooms and took the hatchet from the end of the stove. She, the defendant, never had it in her hand and never raised a weapon to nobody. She lived ten years in Earle's Hotel. She had no feeling against Miss Malley or her mother. The water in her, the defendant's, rooms was frozen and the housekeeper told her to get up and get the water, and Miss Malley's mother came down and asked her if she wanted more water. She, the defendant, said no, and handed the woman a dollar to go out and get some beer, but from that time she, the defendant, never saw the woman or the dollar or the beer. That was the whole cause of the trouble. And the woman threw her, the defendant, off the stoop once. In cross-examination the defendant testified that this trouble occurred on the 30th of March. The Malley girl's mother came to her, the witness's, door and pounded the door in with a big stick, and took the axe from the side of the stove. If she, the defendant, held the axe over the woman's head it was to sober her. The truth was the truth and there was nothing like it. She was never on the Island for drunkenness. She had only a sup of beer that day.

MORRIS BLOOM, called by the prosecution, being duly sworn, testified that he lived at No. 10 Ludlow street, and kept a grocery and bakery at the same number. He lived on the floor above the store. The store was on the first floor. On the night of the 27th of March, at 11 or 12 o'clock, he locked up his store. There was a glass show window in the store. He had all kinds of groceries in the store valued at $5 or $6. The next morning, about four or five o'clock he found that the show window was broken and about $6 worth of property was missing. He reported the burglary to the station house and the same day had another pane of glass put in the show window. The next morning the window was broken again. He again reported it to the station house and had another pane of glass put in. About three o'clock the following morning, he was in the yard, when he heard the window break and went into the street, but could not see any one. He went across the street into a hallway and stopped there watching for about a quarter of an hour when he saw the defendant come back and pick out a box of raisins from the show window. Just as the defendant took the box of raisins he, the witness, grabbed the defendant. One square of the show window was broken. When he caught hold of the defendant, the defendant said, "I am not the man; I am not the man." He, the witness, handed the defendant over to the police. In cross-examination the witness testified that he had been in business at No. 10 Ludlow street for seventeen years. The store had never before been forcibly entered. The second night the window was broken nothing was taken away. He, the witness, saw the defendant walking up and down in front of the store on the night before the morning that the store was broken into for the third time. In pulling out the box of raisins, the defendant dropped some on the sidewalk. He, the witness, held the defendant and sent somebody for a policeman. Three policemen came.

J A C O B O L O F S O N , the defendant, called by the defense, being duly sworn , testified that he was nineteen years old, and was born in Russia. He was in this country two years. Since his arrival he had been working at the express business. On the 27th of March last he was working at a bakery. He knew nothing about the box of raisins. He was working at the bakery where he was employed all night. He was baking matzos. Then he came out into the street and the complainant came over to him and said,, "You broke the window." "He, the defendant said," I did not break the window. I do not know anything about it." He did not break the window that morning or any other morning and did not take a box of raisins. He was working at the bakery where he was employed all night. In cross-examination the defendant testified that he did not know the name of the man he was working for, as he had only been working there one night. Before that he was working in the express business, for Meyer's, in Houston street. He left Meyer's the same evening that the man gave him work in the bakery. This was the same evening that he was arrested. In the day time he worked for Meyer's and then a man proposed to him to work in the bakery to make Easter crackers for the Jewish holidays. The bakery was next to the house where the window was broken. He did not know the baker's name. The baker met him in the street and asked him to come to work for him. He, the defendant, did not tell Mr. Bloom's daughter that he came and broke the window and took something out. He did not know Mr. Bloom's daughter and knew nothing about her. On the morning of his arrest he went out in to the street about half-past three in the morning. He did not hear the window break and did not know it was broken. He was standing with his back to the window when Mr. Bloom grabbed him. He, the defendant, worked until 12 o'clock and then slept. He went out into the street to get some air.

VERSUS

James O'Neill

As complainant in the above case, I beg to recommend the defendant to such leniency and clemency as the Court and District Attorney may see fit to show; but I expressly assert that my reasons for so doing are not controlled by any advantage to myself. My reasons for wishing to withdraw are that since making the Complaint the defendant has paid for the damage he has done, and express regret for his act. I am also informed that he had been drinking heavily <sup>for</sup> sometime before this trouble occurred. For the above reasons I respectfully request permission to withdraw my Complaint.

Chas. H. O'Brien

The above withdrawal was signed over three years ago. Since that time the defendant has never annoyed me or been near my place.

The Grand Jury calls witnesses in whatever order its Foreman pleases. The Foreman knows best for the public good. If you wait patiently on the day of attendance until your turn comes, it may save you waiting hereafter.

If it is very inconvenient for you to attend on the day designated, let the District Attorney's Officer or Clerk in the witness room know this at an early moment.

If you do not obey this Subpoena, or do not explain your absence, the Court will enforce your attendance by attachment, and fine you.

If you are ill when served, send timely notice of that fact to the District Attorney.

If other witnesses in this case are called, and another case taken up, you may know—unless otherwise advised—that the Grand Jury do not care to examine you; and you may then retire, mentioning your withdrawal to the Officer or Clerk.

If the Grand Jury adjourn, and you have not been called without explanation, inquire of the Chief Clerk in the District Attorney's office if you are wanted again, and when.

The proceedings of the Grand Jury are to be kept secret, and you are hereby enjoined not to disclose the fact that you have received this Subpoena or what testimony you may give or have given before the Grand Jury to any person whatever, under penalty of the law.
