for the reasons following, to wit:

that about the hour of 1:30 came together and in company with each other to deponent's house and requested deponent to let them see a furnished room deponent let them in and after the defendants

Mattie Bogue out and securely locked and fastened said front door after them. And in about twenty minutes thereafter defendant saw the said defendants together in the act of coming out of her parlor and at that time the defendant Morris had said coat and vest rolled in a paper in his arms. and saw him throw said papers into a catchel in her parlor.

J. Brett of the 19th Precinct Police that when the said defendants were searched in the station there a number of keys a number of picklocks

MAY FORD, the complainant testified that she was married and lived at 327 West 40th street. She answered an advertisement which the defendant admitted having published on Wednesday before, the 1st of October. She saw him at 265 West 16th street, on September 26th, between 10 and 11 o'clock in the morning. She told him that she came in answer to his advertisement for a tenant for the house and she told him she liked the house, and didn't want the furniture, but she might take some of it if he could not sell it for a better price. He showed her the furniture in all parts of the house. He said that he was the owner of the furniture. She finally bought several pieces and got a receipt for the payment of the money. She gave him $5.00 account and the remainder on the following Saturday between 3 and 4 o'clock. He told her he was the landlord of the house first, and subsequently that he was as good as the landlord of the house, because she had a three years lease, and after she had been in the house a month or so he would sell her the lease. He told her that he would then let her have the house till the first of May for $35. a month, and that on the 1st of May he would let her have the house for a longer period. On Saturday afternoon the 29th of September, he came to her residence then at 252 West 38th street and brought her the lease of the house and the receipt for the furniture. She paid him a month's rent in advance and for the furniture that she bought. She paid him $50 on the furniture and $35 for the first month's rent. He was to bring the keys to the house on the following afternoon, Sunday, at 3 o'clock, but he didn't come. She went down to the house on Monday morning and found the house in confusion. The defendant was not there. Mrs. Cohen was moving out the furniture of the house, including the furniture that she, the complainant, had bought of the defendant, and the landlord's son asked her what authority she had to say anything in the house, and when she showed her lease and receipt for the first month's rent, the landlord's son told her that Mr. Morris had no right to rent the house without his father's consent in writing. Then she the complainant complained to Inspector Byrnes.

2

Cross-Examination: She was present when the defendant was arraigned after his arrest before Police Justice Duffy. Judge Duffy ordered the defendant to hand her back $50. The defendant said that he would settle the matter with her. She didn't hear the defendant say that it was all a mistake. Her husband had been dead about three years. She didn't carry on the business of a manicure and give magnetic treatment. The advertisement that such a business was to be carried on in the house she could not say anything about.

BERTHA COHEN testified that she was a married woman and lived at 285 Seventh Avenue. On the 29th. of September she went to 265 West 16th. Street and saw the defendant there. It was about 5 o'clock in the afternoon. She kept a second-hand furniture business in Seventh avenue. He asked her to come to the house and buy his furniture, and she went there and offered him $60. He offered her the furniture of the house inclusive of a list of furniture previously sold to Mrs. Ford. He said that his wife was sick in the country, that he had to go to her and give up housekeeping. He came to her store about 8 o'clock on Monday morning, and asked her to buy the furniture at once as he had to catch a train so she made out a receipt for $65 and gave it to him to sign and ^{he} went around and got the furniture delivered to him and then the money was given to Morris and the receipt was signed.

JAMES CROWE testified that he lived at 308 West 43rd street, and owned the house at 265 West 16th street. He never gave the defendant any right to sublet the house. He gave the defendant a lease from September 1st, 1888 to May 1st, 1889, the rent being payable monthly in advance. He left a stair carpet and some window and portiere poles in the house the defendant agreeing to buy them when his wife returned from the Country, These being a portion of the property sold by Morris to both Mrs. Ford and Mrs. Cohen. The defendant paid rent for September in advance, but did not pay for October.

Officer Henry Jacobs testified that he took the defendant to the Jefferson Market Police Court after his arrest and he asked the defendant how he came to sell the furniture twice, and he said that it was a mistake. $134. were found in his possession when he was searched and in Court he admitted to Judge Duffy that $105. of the money belonged to Mrs. Ford, and he asked Judge Duffy to return it to the complainant and allow her to compromise the matter; but the Judge refused to allow her to do so and the Judge subsequently gave her $50.

Officer Benjamin Wolf testified that he arrested the defendant on the 2nd of April at 125 Charlton Street, between half past twelve and one o'clock in the evening. He asked the defendant if his name was Francis Morris, and he said it was not; he said that it was Sparks. The defendant's trunk was marked "Sparks", and he was registered as "Sparks." Afterwards he admitted that his name was Morris. He said it was all a mistake.

For the defense, Francis Morris, the defendant, testified that he had never before been arrested in his life. He was a teacher of languages and a native of Belgium, and had been in the United States about three years. He was engaged to marry a German lady, and when he had been in the house about a fortnight she was taken ill and the Doctor advised her to go to the country, because the climate of New York did not agree with her. She went back to Germany. So he determined to give up house-keeping, sells the furniture and hired cheap rooms. He purchased his furniture at private sales, and it was worth about $300.. He did not read his lease and did not know that he had to get the landlord's written consent to the subletting of the house. He only sublet the house for the time that he had it. He did not sell the same furniture to Mrs. Ford and to Mrs. Cohen, but carefully distinguished between the two sales. He registered his name as Sparks, because he bought a trunk with the name of Sparks on it because he could not afford to buy a new trunk. He bought the trunk in a second hand store.

Court of General Sessions, Part 1.
Before Judge Cowing.

October 18, 1888.

Jointly indicted with Henry Williams for burglary in the third degree and grand larceny in the second degree.

Charles Diehl sworn and examined. I live at 55 Ludlow Street and am a barber at that place, that is in the 10th ward in this city; on the 5th of October my place was broken into, I was woke up about half past three in the morning by the police who told me that the place was entered and robbed, I saw where it was entered, it was in the rear window where you go out in the yard, it is next to a tenement house, there were no shutters on it but there was a catch on the window which was open, I missed twenty-seven razors worth about $1.25 each, three hair clippers worth about $3.50 a piece, an overcoat valued at fifteen dollars and about two hundred cigars, in all the property was worth about seventy dollars. I closed up the shop about eight o'clock in the evening and that property was there when I closed up, I saw it afterwards in the Station House, I saw the razors and the cigars, and also the clippers and the overcoat; the overcoat belonged to a journeyman. I don't know the prisoner, I never saw him before he was arrested. These hair clippers were in that shop before it was broken open. The journeyman says the overcoat was in the shop that night before I closed up.

I am an officer of the 11th precinct, I arrested the Defendant on Friday morning, the 5th of October, he was brought in the Station House at 2.50 in the morning, I should judge I arrested him about fifteen minutes previous to that in the hallway of 53 Ludlow Street. On that morning at two o'clock the Defendant and his companion Henry Williams, who has pleaded guilty, passed me on the sidewalk going down through Ludlow Street, they were coming up toward Grand Street and they eyed me very suspiciously, they looked at me, I did not like the looks of them and so I walked on about twenty houses, enough to give myself time that I could come back quickly again, I went in the street and followed in their wake and let them pass on; they passed up to Grand Street and stood on the corner and looked around suspiciously and walked up toward Broome Street and then I stood for a minute because my post only went to Broome Street, I went over on the other side of the way and stood in the shadow of a store about five minutes; afterwards they came back to the corner of Grand St. and stood there a few minutes and passed down Ludlow St. and then all of a sudden they sprang in the hallway of 53 Ludlow Street, next door to Diehl's barber shop, I tried to locate where they had gone to and I thought that they went up through the house; there was a great many people living there, but I heard no outcry, I came out on the sidewalk and walked up toward Grand Street again and there I found they were in the store 55 Ludlow Street, I waited twenty minutes and a citizen started to go up through the house and they jumped back into the hallway, I lit a candle and went back and saw the prisoner behind the cellar door, I grabbed him right by the throat, I made him put up his hand to see that he had no weapon that he could use on me. I found his pockets were full of razors and machines and the overcoat was on his back. I brought him to the Station House and the complainant afterwards identified the things as his.

Cross Examined. It was another officer who arrested Williams, he sprang into a cellar when I arrested the Defendant. Some of the razors that I found on the Defendant were in the overcoat and some were in the pants the hallway they went into is 53 and the store where the property was taken from is 55; there was a dim light in the store, I saw these two men in there. I did not see them jump any fence.

John Muller sworn and examined in his own behalf, testified: I am twenty-one years old and have been in this country about two years. I work as a baker in Little Washington, five miles from New Brunswick, I was only in this city twelve days before I was arrested, I live at 72 Greenwich Street, I met Williams the morning I was arrested, I had a talk with him and told him I wanted to go in the Navy over in Brooklyn, I had a couple of drinks with him and he told me he wanted to get some clothes, he was around the Bowery from twelve to one o'clock; he said he had a row with a man that he worked for and wanted to get his clothes; I stood in the hallway and saw him jump over the fence and when he came over he gave me an overcoat and told me to put it on; the policeman came in and Williams went down in the cellar and staid there. I did dot know that Williams stole any property I thought it was his own; the policeman asked me where the other fellow was and I told him he just went down in the cellar. I was never arrested before. Williams went into the barber shop once and had the overcoat when he came out. There were no razors in my pants, they were all in the overcoat.

The Jury rendered a verdict of guilty of burglary in the third degree with a recommendation to mercy.
