Assistant District Attorney Bedford, for the People.
Edmund E. Price, Esq., for the Defense.

NELLIE CASSIDY, the complainant, testified that she lived at 248 West 30th Street. On August 12th she saw Delia Sullivan, the defendant, on the second floor of the house. She saw the defendant at her, the complainant's own door. The defendant then lived in the same house, two flights above the complainant's rooms. She, the complainant, had known the defendant for about a year. They had not been on speaking terms for several months. The defendant had assaulted her at that time. She, the complainant, tried to put the defendant out of her rooms at that time. It was about four o'clock on the evening of the 12th of August that the defendant came to her door. The defendant cut her with a table knife. The defendant's children constantly annoyed the complainant. On the 12th of August they were in the hall outside of the complainant's door, and she, the complainant, told them to go upstairs. Then the defendant came downstairs and deliberately struck her, the complainant, with the knife upon the head. The defendant said, "Take that, now," as she cut her, the complainant. Then the defendant went upstairs. Five stitches were put into the wound.

Under Cross Examination, the complainant testified that she had lived in another house with the defendant, and was at one time quite friendly with her. The quarrel did not arise because she, the complainant, was in the habit of sending one of the defendant's children to a saloon for liquor and the defendant had forbidden her to do so again. She, the complainant, had nothing in her hand at the time. She had not been drinking that day. She did not fall down and injure her head. It was not a fact that she, the complainant, came out of her own room with a stick in her hands to assault the defendant, and that the defendant pushed her and that she fell down.

OFFICER PETER REBHOLZ, of the 20th Precinct, testified that he was on duty on the 12th of August, and had occasion to arrest the defendant. He arrested her in her own rooms at 248 West 30th Street about three o'clock in the afternoon. He saw the complainant at that time and she had a very bad cut in the forehead. He then went up and found the defendant dressing herself. He asked the defendant why she cut the complainant and she said, "I didn't cut her. I hit her with a piece of wood. It was a stick about that thick (indicating a small stick)."

For the Defense, DELIA SULLIVAN, the defendant, testified that she lived at 248 West 30th Street and was a married woman. She was the mother of six children -- four living and two dead. The complainant was constantly sending her, the ~~complainant's~~ defendant's, child for beer and liquor. The complainant was a dressmaker and had a great deal of company. She, the defendant, objected to the complainant's sending her boy for liquor, and after that the complainant quarrelled with her frequently and struck the children. She stopped the boy about three times on the stairs to thrash him on the 12th of August, and the boy went into the back yard and told her, the defendant, that he could not go upstairs. She, the defendant, caught up a small stick of wood, to whip him upstairs, and when she got opposite the complainant's door the complainant came out with a piece of broom-handle and began to hit the boy on the head, and then she, the defendant, gave the complainant a push to get by her, and the complainant fell against the door.

Under Cross Examination, she testified that the small stick that she had in her hand was not over two or three inches in length. She drank to some extent, but not to get drunk.

JOHN SULLIVAN testified that he lived at 310 East 33d Street. He worked in a stable cleaning harness, and drove horses. The defendant was his wife. He had moved since the trouble. His wife was not addicted to drink. They had been married about fifteen years. The defendant took good care of her children and of her home.
