of No. 49 John Street, aged 28 years, occupation Bookbinder being duly sworn, deposes and says, that on the 5 day of April 1890, at the City of New York, in the County of New York, Thomas Filand (now here) with intent to defraud did make, forge and utter a certain endorsement upon a certain check drawn by J. E. Hatch, ^{alleged} to the order of deponent for the sum of Nine ⁵³/₁₀₀ Dollars upon the Western National Bank of the City of New York and dated April 5, 1890. Deponent further alleges that on said day the said J. E. Hatch was indebted to deponent in the above sum for work performed and deponent is informed by said J. E. Hatch (now here) that on said day the defendant came to him and represented to him that he, defendant had been sent to collect said money due and he, Hatch, believing said statement to be true drew said check to deponent's order as aforesaid and gave it to the defendant. The said check is hereto annexed and has been paid and bears the endorsement purporting to be the act of deponent. That said defendant ~~had~~ was not sent to collect said money or to receive said check from said Hatch and that the endorsement affixed thereon is not the signature of deponent or affixed thereon by deponent knowledge or consent but is a forgery and was so affixed with intent to defraud. Deponent further says that the defendant ~~forth~~ with intent to defraud did make, forge and utter the endorsement upon the annexed check dated April 19, 1890 for the sum of Fifteen dollars drawn by said Hatch to the order of deponent, which endorsement purports to be the act of deponent but that said endorsement was not the act of deponent or affixed by deponent's knowledge or consent but that the defendant obtained possession of said check from said Hatch under similar circumstances as the preceding one and that said endorsement was so affixed with intent to defraud.

PEOPLE ON MY COMPLAINT, VERSUS

Thomasiland -

As complainant in the above case, I beg to recommend the defendant to such leniency and clemency as the Court and District Attorney may see fit to show; but I expressly assert that my reasons for so doing are not controlled by any advantage to myself. I am convinced that I acted somewhat hastily in causing the boys arrest or so seems a charge - in view of the fact of his youth and inexperience and previous good character - and that it was his first offense - a full punishment for which would ruin his life - He has made full restitution to me of the money he obtained by reason of his larceny. I shall be only too glad if I am allowed to withdraw the charge.

Any action you may be called to secure his release will meet my approval -

As complainant in the above case, I beg to recommend the

As complainant in the above case, I beg to recommend the defendant to such leniency and clemency as the Court and District Attorney may see fit to show; but I expressly assert that my reasons for so doing are not controlled by any advantage to myself. By I have not lost any material or goods, and I have found upon examination that the parents of all the boys, Fisher M^cLean and Fuller are highly respectable, and in consideration of the ages of the boys, and respectability of their parents and it being the first offence of Fisher and M^cLean I am constrained, and will not appear to testify against them if I can lawfully do so.

My dear Colonel

My attention has been called to the case of Thomas McCann, whose mother is a consistent member of the Central Presb. Church, of which I am an officer. I do not know the boy personally, but from such inquiries as I have made I am convinced that he is not a bad boy, and that the interests of the community, and of the boy himself would be better served by his being returned to his mother's care, than by his being compelled to associate with boys whose tendencies are toward evil.

This is his first offence, and I do not believe he started out or intended to commit crime; and I believe also that his stay at the Tombs, has been sufficient punishment.

You may be in possession of facts which I know not of, but so far as

In the matter of Thomas McLean I beg to say that he was for a number of years a Scholar of which School I have been the Superintendent for ten years.

His mother and Sisters are connected with the Central Presbywith a crime in connection with two other boys.

I desire to say that from my knowledge of the boy and his family, I am fully convinced that the interests of the people and of society will be best promoted, by delivering him to his mother who will remove him from all bad associations.

It is the first offense of which he is charged.
He has suffered much from his imprisonment in the way clear and best promote the interests of society.

ABRAHAM FREEMAN.

Tried May 21st, 1890, before HON. RUFUS B. COWING,

Indictment filed May 8th, 1890.

Indicted for an attempt to commit Grand Larceny in the second degree.

A p p e a r a n c e s:

Assistant District Attorney Jerome for the People.

G. R. WESTERFIELD, Esq., for the defense.

WILLIAM E. FRINK testified that he was a detective officer attached to the Central Office. On the 22nd of April, 1890, he, the witness, was in the vicinity of Broadway and Liberty Street at about three o'clock in the afternoon. A crowd had collected around the picture store one door above Liberty Street on Broadway. There was a picture of Colorado on exhibition. He noticed the defendant going from one person to another in the crowd and always approaching them on their right side. The defendant finally stepped back from the North side of the crowd and stood watching him, the witness, for about a minute. He, the witness, pretended to be looking intently at the picture. Then he, the witness, strolled out of the crowd, as though going downtown, but went to the North side of the crowd. The defendant stepped into the crowd and stood alongside of a man with an overcoat on. He stood on the man's right side. With his left arm pressed against the body of the man, the defendant put his right hand into the ^{cash} ~~man's~~ pocket of the man's overcoat. The man moved and the defendant withdrew his fingers and started to go out of the crowd. Then he, the witness, arrested the defendant and charged him with an attempt to pick the pocket. He said to the defendant, "You are here trying to pick pockets, are you?" The defendant said, "No, I am working." Then the man into whose pocket the defendant had put his fingers stepped up and said, "Is this the boy that was picking my pocket?" and the witness said, "Yes." and the man said, "Well, he didn't get anything." He, the witness, said, "Yes, I know that." Then he, the witness, took the defendant to the Central Office. The man whose pocket the defendant had attempted to pick said that he was a very busy man and walked away. The defendant said that his father was in the express business and said that he was on the way to the express office at the time. He denied that he had attempted to pick any pocket.

UNDER CROSS EXAMINATION, the witness testified that he searched the defendant and found a book upon him. There were some business entires in the book. There was a name upon the back---the name of Freeman.

For the defense ABRAHAM FREEMAN, the defendant, testified that he lived at 79 Mott Street and was 17 years of age. He worked, and the last place at which he had worked was for the Mutual District Telegraph Company. At the time of his arrest he was out of work. He was doing some work for his father, but was not regularly employed. On the day in question, in the morning, he went to Hanan & Sons' shoe factory, at the corner of Centre and White Streets, to look for a situation. The foreman told him to call on the following morning, and he, the defendant, went home. His father told him to go down to Adams Express Company's Office, as there was some money there for him that was to come from Baltimore. He, the defendant, went to Adams Express Company's Office, and the clerk said that they would send the money around to his father on the following morning. Then he, the defendant, went out into

Broadway. While he was looking at the picture, Officer Frink turned around and hit him in the face and said, "Go away from me, you are picking the gentlemen's pockets," and he, the defendant, said "No." There was a man standing there and he turned around and said, "Officer, I don't think this boy was picking my pockets, because he was nowhere near me." This was the man whose pocket Detective Frinck charged him with attempting to pick. The man also said that he had lost nothing. Then Officer Murphy, who was with Officer Frink, said to Frink, "Ask him whether he will go down and go against the boy," and the man said, "No, the boy didn't take anything from me and I wouldn't go against him, and I don't think he did take anything from me, because he was nowhere near me and couldn't get anything from my pockets." Then the detectives arrested him and took him into a little office on Wall Street. He, the defendant, said, "This is no way to do, Officer; it isn't right to arrest a boy who is working; I didn't steal anything." Then Officer Murphy said, "No, oh no, because there was nothing in it---in the pocket." Then officer Frink said that there was a dollar in the man's pocket. The man didn't tell either of the officers that he had any money in his pocket. He, the defendant, did not attempt to pick anyone's pocket.

UNDER CROSS EXAMINATION, the defendant testified that his trade was that of a shoemaker, but he did whatever work he could get. He began to learn the trade of a shoemaker with a Mr. Greenberg, when he was about 14 years of age. He has worked since for other shoemakers.

JACOB FREEMAN, the defendant's father, testified that he lived at 79 Mott Street and that he was a shoe peddler by trade. The defendant was employed by him, the witness, at the time of his arrest. He, the witness, sent him to the Adams Express Company to get $20 on the day in question. The defendant bore an excellent reputation and had worked hard from his 14th year and had given him, the witness, all of his wages.

BARNETT SADELSKY, of 743 Flushing Avenue, Brooklyn, testified that he had known the defendant all of his life. He knew him when he was in England, shortly after his birth. He had employed the defendant for about eight months, and the defendant's character was good.

IN REBUTTAL, JEREMIAH J. MURPHY, testified that he was a detective officer attached to the Police Central Office. He was with detective Frink when Frink arrested the defendant, on April 22nd, 1890. The witness then corroborated Officer Frink.

UNDER CROSS EXAMINATION, the witness testified that the man whose pocket the defendant attempted to pick refused to make a complaint, because he said that he was too busy to give the time necessary, particularly because he had lost nothing. Frink did not strike the defendant. There were thirty or thirty-five persons in the crowd.

Affidavit—Larceny.

City and County } of New York, } ss.

of No. 212 East 51st Street, aged 27 years, occupation Married being duly sworn deposes and says, that on the 14th day of April 1894 at the City of New York, in the County of New York, was feloniously taken, stolen and carried away from the possession of deponent, in the night time, the following property, viz:

One Pocket book containing about two dollars

the property of deponent and that this deponent has a probable cause to suspect, and does suspect, that the said property was feloniously taken, stolen, and carried away by William Fuller known here from the fact that on said date while deponent was on Broadway near 26th Street said property was snatched from her hand and she then saw a man run away.

Deponent is now informed by Officer Patrick Byrne of the 19th Precinct that he arrested the person on 6th Ave. near 23rd Street as a suspicious person and found in his possession a pocket book containing One dollar and eight cents. That deponent has seen the pocket book so found and fully identifies it, as the one stolen from her. Maggie Beyrens
