The People
vs.
Edward Hughes.

Court of General Sessions, Part I.
Before Judge Cowing.

Tuesday, January 6, 1885.

Indictment for assault in the first degree.

James Back sworn and examined. Where do you reside? 10 Hamilton Street in this city. Were you living there on the 22nd day of last November? Yes sir. On that day were you hurt in any way? Yes. Do you see the person who hurt you, is he here in court, is that the one? (Pointing to Hughes.) Yes sir, that is the one. Tell the jury what he did to you? When I was going home I met him in South Street, he put his hand into my pants pocket, then he hit me in the head so that I fell down, then I lost my senses, this was between Oliver and Catherine Streets, on the street, at one o'clock in the night. Did you have any talk with the prisoner before he struck you? No sir. Did you see what he struck you with? No sir. But he struck you on your head and you fell to the ground did you? Yes sir, senseless. Is that wound on your head the one that was made when you were struck? Yes sir. Where did you go after you came to your senses? They took me to the hospital. Did you have your head dressed at the hospital? Yes sir. How long did you stay there? Until two o'clock the next day.

Cross Examined. I am a Swede, I worked during the day that I was assaulted in the Grand Central Depot until five or half past five o'clock, I was seeing some countrymen of mine in Rose Street, we took a couple of glasses of lager, I would not say for sure, three or four glasses it may be; there were two men besides me, I was half intoxicated when I was on my way home.

Alonzo G. Virgil sworn. I am a sea-faring man and was in this city on the night of the 22nd of November last, I think I had been here a week or ten days, I was on the British bark Annapolis, she is now preparing for sea; on the night of the 22nd of November I saw the complainant and the prisoner on the street, I saw him hit the complainant as I was walking through South Street; after I got under the bridge going up to Pier 45, East River, I saw two men against the door and one followed the other and one fell, of course I stopped, I was afraid of a row, then the prisoner ran up to him and he was lying down then and I do not know what he done but however when he stepped back he had the complainant's hat and the man was bleeding. I said to the prisoner, what the hell did you do this for. He made some remark and the officer came across the street and the prisoner ran behind a wagon. The officer says, what is that? I said, it is that cuss over there done it, go after him. He went for the prisoner and arrested him. Do you say that you saw the prisoner strike the complainant? I did not see his hand against his face but they both went the same as I would go if I was hitting a fellow; they come together, the complainant was standing like and he come against him, of course it was dark. I never let the prisoner go out of my sight, I went to the Court, the officer made me go.

Cross Examined. They were standing against the door of the liquor place, the prisoner struck the first blow.

Patrick Nevitt sworn. I am a police officer of this city attached to the 4th precinct and was on patrol duty on the night of the 22nd of November last in South Street.

1156

I saw the prisoner at the bar that night, the witness who has just left the stand told me there was a man dealt on the sidewalk, he says, there is a man over there (pointing to the river front) that struck him, I pursued the prisoner and arrested him, I saw the complainant that night and sent for an ambulance and he was taken to the Chamber Street Hospital; he was lying on the sidewalk and his forehead was cut and his jaw dislocated; they kept him in the hospital until two o'clock the next day, I have examined the prisoner and found no weapon upon him, I examined the place and found nothing to indicate how the blow was struck, I spoke to the prisoner going up and asked him what he done it for? He said he did not know he was a little drunk he thought.

Cross Examined. I do not know whether the complainant was intoxicated or not; he was insensible when he was put in the ambulance.

Edward Hughes sworn and examined in his own behalf. I am a sailor and have been following the sea for eighteen years. Have you ever been arrested for any crime before? No sir. On this night in question where had you been? I had been in Mr Ills in Cherry Street on the other side of the market. Where was it that you met the complainant? In South Street between Oliver and Catherine Streets. How came you there at that late hour of the night? I was going to bed. When I came to Mr Ills saloon the complainant was on the sidewalk, he spoke to me and I thought he spoke German, I told him to go to bed, I was going to knock at the door, he ran towards me and grabbed me by the coat, I hit him on the jaw and he fell on the sidewalk.

The defendant pleaded guilty to assault in the third degree.
