WILLIAM SINGLETON testified that he was second waiter in Tammany Hall, and had been working there for about ten years. He was an employe of Gen. Ferrero. He, the complainant, lived at 221 West 32nd Street. His rooms were securely fastened on the day in question. He, the complainant, went to wait at a ball in 44th Street. When he returned to his rooms he missed three coats and vests, six pairs of trousers, two overcoats and six pairs of shoes, all valued at $150. He left his home in the evening and returned at about 7 o'clock on the following morning. The doors had been burst open, and the wardrobe in the rooms was broken open. Everything was taken from the wardrobe except a pair of old pants and an old dress coat. The burglary occurred on the 20th of February. He afterwards saw a Prince Albert coat and vest that had been stolen from his rooms in Lemon's pawnbroker's shop. He made complaint to the police on the morning of February 20th. From information received from the pawnbroker, he caused the arrest of the defendant. The pawnbroker told him, the name of the person who pawned the coat and vest, and where the person lived, and he, the complainant, knew the address, because he had lived there himself for some time. He, the complainant, was present at the conversation between Officer Smith, who arrested the defendant, and the defendant. Officer Smith asked the defendant if he knew anything about the pawning of the coat and vest, and Bass replied that he had bought them from a man on 7th Avenue, and Officer Smith said, "Would you know him, if you saw him?" and Bass said, "Well, I wouldn't know him. The only way I could tell him was by his shoes." Officer Smith said, "It's funny if you bought those things yesterday morning that you wouldn't know the man now."

The defendant said, "Well, I wouldn't know him in any shape or form, only by his shoes. He was a white man, and I met him on 7th Avenue, and I don't know who he was. I was the loser by buying the coat and vest." The officer said, "How are you the loser, when you only paid $4.50 for them, and you had it pawned for $5.?" In the complainant testified that he had had a talk with the defendant, in the prisoners' box, in the court room, and he said to the defendant that he would not prosecute if he could get back his clothes, because he was about to leave for San Francisco when they were stolen, and the loss of the clothes had made him lose his job. Then the defendant said, "Take this letter to my wife, and she will get your things." The defendant's wife told him, the complainant, that she would get everything except his shoes, but she did not. He, the complainant, did not go to her house to see her, but met her in the hallway of the court building, and gave her the letter. He, the complainant, had lost all his clothing except what he wore when he went out of his house on the night of the burglary. He, the complainant, had known the defendant by sight for about four years.

C r o s s - E x a m i n a t i o n ,

OFFICER GEORGE SMITH, of the 20th Precinct, testified that he arrested the defendant on the 21st of February, at 201 West 30th Street, the defendant's home. He, the witness, also arrested the defendant's wife. When he first called in the morning, the defendant's wife said that the defendant was out, and then he, the witness, asked Mrs. Bass what she was doing in 8th Avenue that morning, and then Mrs. Bass admitted that she had pawned the coat and vest. Thereupon he, the witness, arrested her and the defendant when he came in. She said that her husband had got the coat and vest the day before, but she did not know where he got them. He had brought them home the day before. She had pawned them because she needed money. Her husband did not know anything about the pawning of the coat and vest, and she did not know what he would say when he found out. When he arrested the defendant he, the witness, asked the defendant where he got the coat and vest, and the defendant said he was walking down 7th Avenue, on February 20th, and he met a whiteman with a bundle under his arm, and the man asked him if he wanted to get a bargain, and the defendant said he didn't know what it was. The whiteman then said, "Come into this hallway, and I will show you," and the defendant went into the hallway. There the whiteman unrolled a bundle, and showed him, the defendant, the coat and vest. The whiteman said that he wanted enough for the coat and vest to get to Albany. The defendant asked him how much he wanted, and he, the whiteman, said, $4.50; and the defendant said that he had only $4.75 in his possession, and offered the whiteman $4, and the whiteman accepted the offer. He, the defendant, thereupon took the clothes to his home. The defendant said that he was positive that he could not identify the man who sold him the clothes. After the defendant was locked up, he, the witness, questioned him several times as to where the clothing was, but the defendant did not vary his story as to buying them from a whiteman. Later, however, the defendant's wife told where they were pawned. He, the witness, took the complainant around to the pawn shop with him. They were pawned at Lemon's pawnshop, 476 6th Avenue, and the complainant identified the clothing pawned there. The pawnbroker ① said, in the presence of the defendant, that a man by the name of Bass had pawned the clothing. Five dollars was advanced to pawn it. The defendant's wife gave him the witness, the pawn ticket for the clothes. He asked the defendant's wife, in the defendant's presence whether he, the defendant, had any objection to his wife giving him, the witness, the ticket, and the defendant said no.

FOR THE DEFENSE.

WILLIAM C. BASS, the DEFENDANT, testified that he had never been arrested before in his life. He was a waiter. He had worked for a Mr. Jordan in 42nd Street, and for Mr. Howe and Mr. Doolittle, and he worked in the summer preceding the trial, at Pawling, N.Y. On the Friday morning preceding his arrest---Friday, the 20th of February, he left his home to go to work at 245 West 41st Street. He left there at a quarter after 10 o'clock, to go home and get his breakfast&at 7th Avenue and 38th Street he met a young white man and the white man said, "Young fellow," I want you to do me a favor," and he, the defendant, asked what it was, and the man said, "I have an article I want to sell.

I want to get home." Then the whiteman stepped into a hallway, and undid a bundle, and showed him, the defendant, the clothes. They were contained in a bundle. The man said he wanted $4.50 for the clothing. He, the defendant, asked the whiteman where he lived, and he said in Albany. He, the defendant, offered the whiteman $4 for the clothing, and the man accepted the money. After he accepted the money, he wrapped up the bundle containing the clothing again, and handed it to him, the defendant, and he, the defendant gave him a 2-dollar and a 1-dollar bill, and a silver-dollar, and went home. He put it down on his bed in the bedroom, and his wife said his breakfast was ready, and he went into the kitchen and ate his breakfast, and after breakfast he said to his wife, "Look here at this bargain I made coming down the Avenue." And his wife said, "It is real nice." And nothing more was said about this matter. On the following morning he, the witness, was awakened by his wife, and she asked whether he had any money, and he, the defendant, said, "No"---that he would not have any until that evening. Then his wife said that she had a bill to pay, and she had to promise to pay it that day. Thereupon he, the defendant, said, "Take that coat and vest and pawn them." And when he got his breakfast he started out to his work again. When the detective called with the complainant in the evening, he told the same story as to where he got the coat and vest. While he was at work uptown he received a message from his wife telling him to come home at once. He met her in 7th Avenue between 36th and 37th Streets, and she told him that a man had been looking for him. He, the defendant, went to the 37th Street Station House and asked whether he was wanted, and he asked Sergeant behind the desk if any of the detectives were after him, and the Sergeant said he did not believe they were, and told him to sit down and they would be in soon.

Half an hour later he said to the Sergeant,
"Will you send over to my house when they come?"
and the Sergeant said he would, and he gave the Sergeant his name and address. In the evening an officer came to the house, and asked him why he went to the station house, and he said he went because he heard that detectives were looking for him, and he knew he did not do anything, and he wanted to know what the detectives were looking for him for. Then he told the detective where he had got the clothes, as he told in court. The man from whom the defendant bought the clothes had a striped coat and vest on, and he was otherwise nicely dressed, but his shoes were not black-ed, and the defendant noticed that circumstance particularly, and was confident he would recognize the man again if he saw him.

MARTHA BASS, the wife of the defendant, gave testimony corroborating her husband. After her husband's arrest, the complainant told her that he did not think her husband had stolen the clothes, but he intended to hold her husband until he told where the other clothes were. Her husband worked at 255 West 41st Street. After her, the witness's, release on bail, the complainant came to her, the witness's, house and said, that if he could get $150, he would leave town. She told him that she could not get such an amount of money. The complainant made several other visits, demanding his clothes or $150..

IN REBUTTAL,

THE COMPLAINANT testified that he had never had any of the conversations testified to by Mrs. Bass with her. He had never offered to take $150 and withdraw any prosecution.

Sing Sing Prison, N.Y., Sept. 5th 1893

Hon R B Martine Esq. Judge.
Court of General Sessions
Sir.

on the 19th of Feb.
 1891. I plead guilty before your Honor to a charge of Forgery in the second degree and was sentenced to a term of five (5) years in a State Prison. At the time of my arrest I was on parole from the Clinton Reformatory. My brother asked you to allow him to take me back there. But you gave

0237

me my choice in the matter. and I plead guilty to the indictment and was sentenced. now
 Mr. Brockway to revenge himself on me came to Sing Sing and lodged a return here for to take me back to Clinton, when my term expires here. my object in writing to your Honor is to ascertain his right to do this, can he do so under the law? I know it is done because a man named McMahon was taken back a week
 ago. my term here has benefited me and I
 leave here with a firm determination to leave a new life. I have an offer of employment from a reputable business man who has been a good kind friend to me through all my trouble - and who still believes in me. I am very desirous your Honor will take advantage of this offer and forget my past and begin a new life. I am still a young man - is I am returned to Elvira I must spend the best years of my life there and to what end? I am reformed now. I was not reformed when I left Elvira. and I shrink with horror when I think of what I saw there and knowing

What is in store for me if I go back. I would rather die than go there. Why is it that Mr Brockway only takes back special men.
 There is over 200 men here who have been in Clinton any number of whom are on parole. The day McMahon went out two went out with him who had as much right to go back as he. yet they were not understood. will you kindly advise me in this matter your friend. as I am very much worried over it. and I will be very grateful.

Respectfully

of the CRIME OF Reigns LARCENY in the second degree, committed as follows:

The said Ernest Selden, late of the City of New York, in the County of New York aforesaid, on the three day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty, at the City and County aforesaid, with force and arms, with intent to deprive and defraud Bryson & Shadman and Levin Shadman, co-partners, then and there doing business in and by the firm, name and style of Bryson & Shadman and Company of the ~~proper~~ moneys, goods chattels and personal property hereinafter mentioned, and of the use and benefit thereof, and to appropriate the same to his own use, did then and there feloniously, fraudulently and falsely pretend and represent to the said Bryson & Shadman and Levin Shadman.

which the said Ernest Belden then and there produced and delivered to the said Byron S.
