The People
vs.

John Connors

Court of General Sessions, Part Before Judge Martine: June 24, Indictment for injury to property testified Ethel Warner, sworn and examined At the present time I am living at 1167 Broadway, and on the 20th of May last I lived at 941 Sixth Avenue in this city; at that time I owned a dress of which the portion now shown me is a part and I wore the dress that day. I put it on at six o'clock that evening and afterwards went out of that house about half past six.

I went to Forty sixth St., to the house of a lady friend of mine and I stayed there until about eleven o'clock. The skirt was all right when I put it on; it was not stained at all with ink; it turned out subsequently that there was so much on the dress that I would have noticed it. So far as I know it was in good condition; and at the time I left my friend's house it was all right then. I walked from Forty Sixth St. to Fifty Third St. I walked up Sixth Avenue; there was nobody with me as I went up. I saw the defendant that evening; he was standing at the Fifth St. station on the northwest corner near one of those iron posts that comes down the Elevated Railroad post. At that time there was nobody else near me. I passed him the hour being very late. I was alone and I took notice of his standing there; it is very dark right there by the car stable. I heard some one walk very fast behind me. I looked around and this man, the defendant, was close at my elbow. He followed me all the way home, and he did not do a thing to attract my attention. I would sometimes go to the edge of the walk to get away from him. I turned into my house, he did not even look at me, he walked right up the street. I got in and sat down and one of the ladies noticed my dress and said, "I guess the ink man has been at you." I saw the ink on my dress. The defendant was mostly on my right side while following me; there was some on that side of my dress and the back of the dress was completely covered with it. When I noticed the spot I felt it with my hand and it was all wet, it rubbed off on my hands. I then went right down and reported it to the officer on the beat. I described the man whom I saw following me. It was right at my door I met the officer. My dress was injured on Tuesday night, and on the Sunday morning following the officer came to me. I went to the Forty Seventh St. station and I recognized the defendant there. There was nobody else near me from Fifth St. up to my house than this defendant.

Cross Examined. It was conceded by the District Attorney that the property of the complainant which was injured was worth only twenty five dollars. I am not married. I never saw the defendant before that night. It was pretty dark at the station. I discerned his clothes more than I did his face. I knew him by his clothes. He had on that night when I saw him in the street a light hat and a lawn tennis shirt; he stooped - was round shouldered. I did not notice his coat and pants so much, but he had a coat on. I described him to the officer as a smooth-faced man. I did not really notice his features, but I knew him the moment I saw him on Sunday morning. I did not look at him constantly as he walked by my side, I noticed him every time he would come up close to me, he would get ahead of me that attracted my attention and then I would look at him. He did not make any movement with his hand that attracted my attention, he had one hand in his pocket. I walked about three blocks and a half, from Fifth to Fifth North St. I saw no policeman on the way. To the best of my belief the defendant was sober. This was on Tuesday evening and the next I saw of him was on Sunday morning. The front part of the dress was not stained by the ink, nothing but the sides and back. I do not know how close he came to me or where he was before I saw him at my elbow. I noticed him at my right elbow, he was right side of me at Fifth St. Did you see him make any motion at all? Not any at all. You saw him make no motion at all with his hands that night? No. To the best of your belief how many times did he walk up close to you during that time that you were walking with him that three blocks and a half? Three or four times, but he kept with me all the time; he was right side of me all the time. I turned around to see him two or three times. Sometimes he was a little ahead of me - not ahead of me, but so that I could see him without turning around. He did not at any time walk in front of me. I noticed that the streets were very bare, it was very late; if it had not been so late perhaps I would not have noticed him so closely. I was afraid all alone, &

I took particular notice of him he followed me so closely. I went right down stairs and told the officer and described the man that followed me. My memory is clear that there was nobody else on the side of the street upon which I walked from Fiftyeth to Fifty Third streets.

Walter Stafford sworn. I am an officer attached to the Twenty Second precinct. I arrested the defendant on a Friday evening, I think it was the 23^d of May. I was standing between 58th and 59th streets on the west side of 9th Avenue five minutes to eleven. There was two ladies and a gentleman coming down the Avenue - one of them had on a dress which I recognized the next morning - a portion of which is here now - and they passed me by. I took particular notice to this dress being lighter than the other. After these two ladies and gentleman passed me by I looked across the street and saw this man Connors standing on the opposite side of the Avenue and he deliberately walked across the street and got right behind these two ladies and gentleman. I followed them down the Avenue from Fifty Eighth to Fifty Ninth St. The defendant walked behind I should judge five or ten feet all the way down the Avenue until they got to 53th St. and the two ladies and gentleman went through Fifty Fifth St. to 8th Avenue on the south side of the street. The defendant walked by them when they passed through the street two houses from the corner of Fifty Fifth St. on Ninth Ave.; they went across the street to 8th Avenue and he passed down; they kept on going South until he got between two houses of 9th Avenue and 55th St. I went back into a door way. I don't know whether he saw me or not. He started down the Avenue again and I came out of the door way and he turned Fifty fourth St. walking; he turned west to Tenth Avenue. I was after him. As he got around the corner I walked up to him and asked him where he was going? He says, "I am going home," at the same time he put his hand in his right hip pocket. I says, "What have you got there?" putting my hand around to his hand; he said nothing. I put my hand in his pocket and I pulled out that ink bottle (pointing to it on the table) I asked him what was he doing with that? He said he was going to write letters with the ink. It is purple ink. I says to him, "you are just the man I want." I took hold of him. Going down Ninth Ave. to the station house, he says to me, "I will give you twenty dollars if you will let me go "O. I say, "you have 'nt twenty dollars." He said, "if you will come to my house I will get it off my wife." He got down to the station house, and the sergeant told me to search him, and I took these pipes out of his pocket - one was full and the other two were empty; they were full of ink. His hands were all full of ink, and there was a lot on his shoes and in the inside of his vest it was all purple with ink. So then he told the sergeant that he took them away from his children - his children had them in the house and he took them away from them so they would not get dirty with the ink. So going over to Court the next morning I got asking him about it, and he told me he put on the boarders clothes that was in the house, and he did not know how the pipes got there. I had no more talk with him, but his wife came and she told the sergeant that she never saw the pipes in the house. I could not identify the ladies I saw walking ahead of the defendant by their faces, but I could tell the dress! When I arrested the defendant he wore a lawn tennis shirt, a white Derby hat and a dark coat and vest. He had a peculiar, queer walk, he kind of stooped. I was not present in the station house when Miss Warner identified the defendant. The owner of the dress now shown me (Miss Lyter) came to the station house the next day. I first saw the dress on Ninth Avenue between 58th and 59th sts., about five minutes after eleven o'clock at night.

Cross Examined. The police up in that neighborhood were looking for a man that was throwing ink for some time, and there was a reward offered for his capture. I saw it in the papers. I was anxious to make the arrest, but I knew the police officers could not accept the reward. I got a night off because of the arrest. I say that the defendant made contradictory statements. I was examined in this case in the Police Court. Besides what I have already testified to that the defendant said, he stated in the Police Court that he was going to fix a clock, and he got up on the cupboard to take the clock down to get some tools, and he found those things there and sooner than let them lie around the house, thinking the children would take them he put them in his pocket and went to work forgetting that he had them.

Ethel Warner recalled. When I saw Connors in the station house he had on a black hat, a white shirt and a turned down collar.

They brought him up with a lot of men for me to pick him out - five or ten men, and I picked him out. The officer on the beat told me before I went to the station house that they had a man locked up there. I went in and said I would like to see him; the men he was put amongst were dressed in citizen's clothes. They made the defendant put on the clothes he wore the night I saw him, but this was after I identified him.

John Connors, sworn and examined in his own behalf testified. I am 33 years old, I am an ostler in the 9th Avenue Railroad and have been employed there since I came to this country, which is two years. I am married, and have four children. I have never been arrested in Ireland or in this country before. About a week before I was arrested, my wife went out with a lady friend to buy some clothing and I was minding the house. I was lying on the lounge; my children got those pipes which were left about the mantel piece; they commenced getting soap and water in their tin cups and blowing bubbles about the house. They broke the pipe heads off the shanks and my little boy asked me for a pen knife, which I gave to him, and he commenced to join pieces of stick to put into the stem hole of the pipe head, and

He commenced putting water in them. That bottle of ink was in the Kitchen closet over the sink and they got it. I saw them having it spilled over the pipe head, and the corks put into them that they got on the mantel piece. I took the ink and put it in a tin dish that was in the closet. On Friday the 13th of May my wife was over seeing the doctor and I went to the closet to fix an alarm clock.
 I took down this tin dish that I put these pipes in some time before. I was looking for the pliers among old shoes and took the pipes out of the tin dish. I never remarked that they took them out. I sat at the Kitchen table with the little clock in my hand. I heard the children fighting. I looked over and asked what they got? They said they had their bubbles. I told them to bring them to me. I put them in my pantaloons pocket. I had my supper, I lit my pipe and went to work at five o'clock in the afternoon at the Ninth Avenue horse car stable. I worked till 25 minutes to eleven. I live at 443 West Fifty Fourth St. between 9th and 10th Avenues; the stables are on 9th Ave and Fifty Fourth St. On the Tuesday before that I was not on Sixth Ave., I could solemnly swear I was not on Sixth Avenue, even on Patrick's day I did not go over to Sixth ave. I says to John Mullane, a fellow who was at the gate, I will go up to Mr. Reilly's in 58th st. and get a glass of beer, it is a good while since I have been here, I had only five cents in my pocket. I walked up as far as 58th st and 9th Avenue. There I did not go down to Reilly's I stood on the corner for at least three or four minutes. I turned around to come back again at 3-5th st across the Avenue to come down Fifty Ninth st. again down to my own house. The policeman saw me standing and he followed me on. Then I was about eight or nine houses down from Ninth Avenue in Fifty Ninth st. between 9th and 10th Aves., I heard a man walking behind me. I was putting my hand in my pocket to get my handkerchief; he said, "Where are you going?" I turned round and saw who it was. He said, "Where do you live?" I says, "Here below, No 443." I said I was going home from my work and that I worked at the Ninth Ave. depot. He says, "Come on." "What is the matter?" I says. "He says, 'Come on.'" I said, "Will you let me go home and tell my wife?" He said, "No." He had a bottle of ink in his hand and he held it up, and he says to two or three fellows, "This must be the fellow that is throwing the ink on the women. I did not throw any ink on these ladies or on any ladies. I never used it for any such purpose. I was trying to make an honest living. I have a little boy eight years old, a little girl going on six, the other four, and a boy a year and a month old. I said to the police officer, "Will you take twenty dollars to let me go home? you can go along with me." He said, "No. I will not if you gave me a hundred. She will get word."

Cross Examined. That is what I offered the twenty dollars for; the officer got the ink bottle in my pocket; he did not ask me anything at all about it in the street. I did not say to him that I was going to write letters with it; it just happened that I had those things in my pocket. I am not the ink slinger. I was not following any lady. I came along the Avenue down Fifty Ninth St. I did not notice the lady in front of me who wore the dress that is here in Court. I did not follow the complainant. It is over two weeks since I have been shaved. On the night of Tuesday the 20th about 11 o'clock I was on the corner of 54th St. and 10th Ave. I heard the complainant state that I was four blocks away from there, but that is not so. I have not heard a great deal about Jack the ink stinger. I have not heard anything about him. I have seen that bottle of ink in the kitchen closet for several months.

The jury rendered a verdict of guilty for misdemeanor.

The defendant was sentenced to the penitentiary for six months and fined $250.
