Mr Martins

Dear Sir: As I called at your office today to see you in reference to the case of Alex Angelo who is to be tried Thursday, and not getting any satisfaction from the party I seen
I take this method to explain to you about it. The only Alexander Angelo in New York is my brother. The party now under arrest having on a previous occasion been convicted under the name of John Costello I understand by keeping in the Tomb to be a very bad one having been under great suspense half dozen times. His parents who are respectable people my folks know well, and as some times ago for some petty offense he stated
we would not make my brother feel sorry by using his name in a bad way done so. As my parents are well known the injustice has injured them greatly. My brother

Alexander is connected with (Mrs)
Bloomington Bros as Custom-house clerk. It is a great pity to ask you to if you can so arrange matters as not to have him convicted under this name. I would prefer for his folk sake not to give him right name unless it becomes necessary. Should you kindly want me the pleasure of a personal interview I can explain matters to your entire satisfaction
By giving this your kind and valued attention

New York, March, 17th, 1887.

---STATEMENT OF MRS. COLE.---

BY MR. VAN VEGHTEEN:

Q Where do you live?

A 840 Seventh Avenue.

Q Were you living there last January?

A No sir.

Q Where were you living then?

A 61 West 89th Street.

Q Do you know a woman named Anna E. Fitts?

A No sir.

Q Do you know a woman named Anna E. Armstrong?

A I knew a woman that passed under the name of Anna E.
Armstrong.

Q Do you know whether that woman is now suing Mr. Dichman?

A Yes sir

Q How do you know that she is the same woman who sues Mr.
Dichman under the name of Fitts?

A Simply because she has used the name of Fitts before me.

Q Where?

A She boarded with me, and when she came to board with me she gave as one of her references the Fitts family. She told me to go to the Buckingham Hotel, and inquire of Mr. Fitts as to her character.

Q Did she say what Mr. Fitts' business was?

- A No sir. I did not inquire from Mr. Fitts; she gave me other references also; the Fitts family were in Europe.
- Q When was it?
- A Three years ago last January.
- Q How long did she live there with you?
- A From the forepart of January to the 27th of July.
- Q 1885?
- A 1885.
- Q Then she left you?
- A No sir; I sold out the flat, and she remained with the woman that took the flat of me..
- Q When did you see her next after that?
- A I saw her again in the month of September after that.
- Q 1885?
- A Yes sir.
- Q Whereabouts?
- A At 167 West 21st Street.
- Q Who occupied that house?
- A I did not know; I know now; I did not know at the time. She was employed there.
- Q In what capacity?
- A She told me she was the companion of the lady who kept the house.
- Q Was that house a disreputable house?
- A I have since learned it is.
- Q Did you go there to see her?
- A I called there to see her; she wrote me to call there and she would pay me some money that was due me.
- Q She owed you money?

A Yes sir; I went there for the purpose of collecting money. She was only there during the day; at night she returned to 60 West 39th.

Q When did you next see her?

A I next saw her after the holidays I think--some time in January.

Q 1886?

A Yes sir.

Q Whereabouts?

A 61 West 39th Street.

Q Who occupies that?

A Mrs. Hevey.

Q Is it a boarding house?

A Yes sir.

Q Is it a flat?

A Yes sir.

Q Which one?

A The third flat.

Q Who occupied the flat immediately underneath?

A A Mr. Himrod and his family.

Q Do you know what his business is?

A Yes sir, I believe he is a manufacturer of patent medicines on Vesey and Church Street..

Q A married man?

A Yes sir.

Q About how old?

A I think he is a man of sixty.

Q Do you know what the relations of Himrod were with this woman?

A From her own story I do.

Q Did she tell you anything about it?

A Yes sir.

Q When was it?

A She told me last March.

Q March, 1886?

A Yes sir.

Q Tell me what it was that she told you?

A She told me that her relations were highly improper..

Q Give me her language?

A She said she got $300. out of Mr. Hiramod by making him believe she was in a delicate condition by him, but at the same time it was false.

Q Did she tell you anything else about her relations with Hiramod?

A Nothing further than along in the summer she said he called on her at Waverly Place.

Q Was she living there then?

A She left 61 West 39th Street last March and went there.

Q What number?

A 107; it is right off sixth Avenue.

Q Did you see her there?

A Yes sir, I called on her there.

Q Did she tell you where she made Hiramod's acquaintance?

A Yes sir.

Q Where?

A On the roof at 61 West 39th Street.

Q Did she tell you the circumstances of making his acquaintance?

A Yes sir; she said that Mr. Hiram spoke to her and said "Good evening" and told her he was her neighbor; and he believed she had been boarding upstairs all winter, and he had not seen her and he considered it very unsociable. That was in the latter part of June, 1835; and in the fore part of July she met Mr. Hiram again on the roof; and in the latter part of July Mrs. Hiram went to the west; and Mrs. Armstrong said she was coming upstairs one afternoon, and Mr. Hiram opened his flat door and requested her to walk in and look at his flat, and she did so, and he showed her the flat, and he wanted her to go down stairs in the evening, and she went and he gave her champagne to drink; she went into his flat and he gave her champagne to drink.

Q Did she say whether she remained there all night?

A No sir, she stayed until about two o'clock in the morning, and went upstairs; and that was repeated.

Q Did he go upstairs with her?

A No sir.

Q Did she say he was intimate with her during the time she was there that evening?

A Yes sir.

Q What time did she go down?

A Eight or nine o'clock in the evening, and remained until two next morning; and that was repeated every evening for three weeks; she went every evening and spent the evening with him..

Q While his wife was absent?

A Yes sir.

Q What took her to the roof?

A I suppose to look at the city; I don't know.

Q Had she been there before she met Hiram that night?

A Yes sir.

Q On account of the heat?

A Oh no; but you get a very fine view of the city and of the harbor from the roof of this building.

Q The people who occupy flats are in the habit of resorting to the roof in the evenings?

A Yes sir, it is not uncommon for the people in that building.

Q From the time previous to March, 1886, to the time she told you of her relations to Hiram, did she tell you at any time she had been intimate with other men?

A No sir, she did not; she always posed in the attitude of an innocent person up to that time.

Q Do you know whether or not in West 21st street she was intimate with men?

A I don't know, excepting from the character of the house; I don't know what else she could have been there for.

Q You saw her in Waverly place?

A Yes sir.

Q When?

A In May; in the forepart of May, 1886; she wrote to me to come there; that she wanted to see me; she wanted me to go to Kelly & Company in Broome Street and get books for her.

Q On her order?

A She wanted me to get them for myself and bring them to her.

Q Who was to pay for them?

A I don't know.

Q Did she offer you any money?

A No sir.

Q Did she say anything about intending to swindle Kelly & Company?

A No sir.

Q What did she say?

A She said she wanted some books, and they could be gotten without paying money down, and would I go and get them.

Q In what way?

A You have to sign a contract when you take the books that you will return the books or the money.

Q Did she explain that you to you?

A No sir, but of course I knew enough to know that myself. She had been there and got books, and did not want to go a second time herself.

Q Did you go?

A I did not.

Q You refused to go?

A I refused to go.

Q At that conversation did she say what her condition was financially?

A No sir, she knew I understood it.

Q Did she owe you any money at that time?

A Yes sir.

Q But was unable to pay?

A Was unable to pay, and always has been.

- Q Did she pay you any money while she was employed on 21st Street?
- A Yes sir, she gave me $20. while employed there.
- Q What is her total indebtedness now?
- A $27. outside of some sewing I did for her last summer.
- Q At the time you saw her in Waverly Place did she say anything to you about her relations with men?
- A No sir; she only made this remark; that she could have no friends call on her when Mrs. Swift was at home because she disapproved of them.
- Q Did you know Mrs. Swift?
- A I met her that time.
- Q Did you have any conversation with Mrs. Swift?
- A Yes sir.
- Q What did she say?
- A Our conversation was general; I think the conversation was about religion.
- Q Did she say anything about the Baracha Mission?
- A Yes sir.
- Q Did she ask you to attend that Mission?
- A She gave me an invitation.
- Q Did she say this Armstrong woman attended there?
- A Yes sir; I went with them one night; the night I believe Mrs. Armstrong pretended to be converted.
- Q Did you see this Swift woman or the Armstrong woman again?
- A Yes sir, in 24th Street.
- Q When was that?

A In the latter part of May or forepart of June.

Q Of 1886?

A Of 1886.

Q Did you call upon them then?

A Mrs. Armstrong called on me at my boarding house: I was boarding at 39th Street, and she called on me and wanted me to go to her house on an errand, and she would go back to my boarding house and stay all night.

Q What was the errand?

A I don't know; she wanted to get something out of the house that she had left.

Q Do you know where that house was?

A 200½ West 24th Street..

Q Do you know the character of that house?

A I do not; I have heard that the house has not borne a good character, but personally I do not know.

Q Who occupies that house now?

A Mrs. Manning.

Q Did you know who occupied the house then?

A Mrs. Manning.

Q Was this Armstrong woman boarding there?

A Yes sir.

Q Was she employed in any capacity?

A She was boarding.

Q A boarder in the house?

A Yes sir.

Q Did she say anything to you at that time about her relations with men?

A No sir.

Q Did she mention Himrod?

A No sir.

Q Did she mention anybody else; any other men?

A She might have indirectly mentioned Mr. Morton; of course she was always talking about him.

Q When did you next see this woman Armstrong?

A I saw her in June.

Q Where?

A That was at 24th Street.

Q Did you call on her there?

A I called on her once there; that evening; that was the only time I ever was in the house.

Q How did you call there; with her?

Q She had been up to your house?

A Yes sir.

Q Is that the time you have just mentioned?

A Yes sir.

Q After this time when did you next see her?

A I met her on the street twice after that.

Q Where?

A On Sixth Avenue both times.

Q Sixth Avenue near where?

A I think the next time I met her was between 24th and 25th street on Sixth Avenue.

Q Did you stop to have a conversation with her?

A Yes sir. The next time I met her was the last of June or the forepart of July, again on Sixth Avenue.

Q Do you remember what was the subject of conversation the first time you met her on Sixth Avenue?

A Yes sir; she simply ~~xxxxxx~~ asked how I was getting along, and stated that she was doing nothing; that the Swift family had left and she had the room to herself. I asked how she kept the room, and she said she was running in debt for it; and she made some further statements concerning her financial affairs. I left her then.

Q You saw her again in the latter part of June or the early part of July?

A Yes sir.

Q Of 1886?

A Yes sir; I met her again then.

Q On Sixth Avenue?

A Yes sir: She again inquired what I was doing; I told her I was sewing; I had been canvassing for a book; and I asked her what she was doing, and she said nothing, but she had an opportunity of getting a position, which she thought she would take.

Q Did she state what it was?

A Yes sir; she said she had met an old school mate of hers, and she wanted her to take charge of her flat during her absence; that she was going to California, and she said she thought she might better take it than do nothing

Q Did she mention the name?

A No sir; she mentioned the name of the flat.

Q Where?

A In Ninth Street.

Q Did she give you the number?

A The Portsmouth Flats, the finest flats on Ninth Street :
She said she thought she might as well take it; the lady had already gone, and the gentleman was going very soon;
and that there would be nothing to do, and she would have nothing to pay and would have a place to live

Q Did she describe the gentleman to you?

A No sir.

Q That was about all you can remember of that conversation?

A Well, I questioned her as to who they were; as to what kind of people they were, and she said they were people she knew in the old country; that the lady was a school-mate of hers.

Q Did she describe the lady?

A No sir.

Q Did she tell you how old the lady was?

A No sir; she did after, when I came here to the flat.
The next time I met her was near Jefferson Market; about the 15th of July---about the middle of the month; she said she had taken the position; then she said who they were.

Q Who?

A Mrs. Dichman; she was on her way then to the market on Greenwich Avenue to buy meat for dinner, and she requested me not to tell the people up at the house where she had been boarding where she was, as she did not want them to know that she would take a servant's position Mrs Mc Vey and the rest, and she told me the wages she was getting.

Q How much?

A I think she said $12 a month; there was to be no one there. Mr. Dichman was going in a very short time, and there would be nobody but her, and the pay would be the same; and she had free access to the butcher, and the baker, and the milkman and the iceman and everybody else, so that she could save her salary to get clothing with.

Q Did she say anything about Mr. Dichman---what kind of a man he was?

A No sir.

Q Nothing at that time?

A Nothing at that time.

Q Is that all the conversation you had with her?

A Yes sir, all that I remember; I turned and walked a short way with her.

Q Did she tell you whether Mrs. Dichman had any children?

A Not then.

Q When did you next see her?

A The next time I saw her it might have been near the middle of August; I think somewhere along about the 14th or 15th of August; she came to my boarding house.

Q At this time you met her near Jefferson Market did she state to you what relations Mr. Dichman and Mrs. Dichman were to each other?

A She stated she was working for Mrs. Dichman.

Q You understood Mr. Dichman was the husband of Mrs. Dichman, who had gone to California?

A Yes sir. In August she came to the house saying she was alone; that Mr. Dichman had left, and would I come and do some sewing for her---make a dress for her, which I did.

Q About when was it you came here?

A About the middle of August; it might have been a few days after the middle.

Q State all the conversation you had with her that day that you can remember?

A We went to Fox & Kelly's and got her dress---9th Street and Broadway, then we came home here, and we got here at the flat about noon; and she prepared some lunch; then she told me about who the people were.

Q What did she say as to that?

A She then repeated the same story she had told me before; that Mrs. Dichman was a schoolmate of hers.

Q Did she show you Mrs. Dichman's picture?

A Yes sir, in her wedding dress, and she also showed me the picture of the baby.

Q Would you recognize that picture now?

A Yes sir.

Q Look at that picture and say if that is the one that was shown you? (handing witness picture)

A Yes sir, that is the picture, or one exactly like it; it is the picture that she showed me and told me was Mrs. Dichman in her wedding dress.

Q After showing you this picture tell us what she said to you?

A She told me it was Mrs. Dichman; and she also got a paper which had an account of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Dichman, in Washington.

Q Washington where?

A Washington D. C. It was a Washington paper

Q Do you remember the date of the marriage?

A No sir.

Q What else did she say to you?

A I said to her "How was it that you met Mrs. Dichman?" and she said she was going through 14th Street in May and met her, and Mrs. Dichman immediately recognized her; that fifteen or sixteen years ago she was a school-mate of Mrs. Dichman's in Germany; and I asked if Mrs. Dichman was a German woman, and she said yes.

Q Did she show you Mr. Dichman's picture?

A After that she did; also Mr. Dichman's father and mother

Q At the time you went out with her to buy this dress did she state where she got the money from?

A She said it was her wages, and as soon as she got her next month's she would pay me.

Q Did she say anything about Mr. Dichman giving her this dress?

A No sir.

Q At the time she showed you the picture when was it?

A It was when I was here sewing; I was here three days.

Q Did she take you through the flat?

A Yes sir.

(15)

Q Did she show you Mr. Dichman's room?

A I don't know that she did; I think she said it was Mrs. Dichman's bedroom.

Q At the time she showed you Mr. Dichman's picture what did she say?

A She said it was Mr. Dichman's picture.

Q Was it a photograph or a portrait?

A It was a photograph.

Q Did she say anything about Mr. Dichman?

A Nothing about him personally, no sir.

Q It was one of those two pictures that was shown you?

A Yes sir.

Q Which one?

A I think the one with the long whiskers; I think that was the picture; of course I could not specify the picture.

Q Tell us all that she said to you about this man Horton.

A Personally I know nothing of Mr. Horton except that I met him once; he called at 61 West 39th Street.

Q When?

A In the month of July, 1886.

Q Did she ever say anything to you about him?

A A great deal after that.

Q What did she say?

A She was to marry him.

Q Did she tell you what her relations were with him?

A That they were engaged to be married; also reading letters from Mr. Horton; she received letters while I was here telling her to be ready to be married the next week.

Q Did she tell you she had been intimate with this man Horton?

A No sir; she said they were to be married and to go to Japan.

Q If you heard those letters read now would you remember them?

A Yes sir, I would.

Q Did she ever mention a man Fitts to you?

A Yes sir, when she was boarding with me.

Q In 1885?

A Yes sir.

Q Tell me all she said to you about this man Fitts?

A She said she was a companion in the Fitts family, a companion of Mrs. Fitts after her husband's death.

Q Did she mention the name of her husband?

A Frederick B. Armstrong was her husband's name; she has showed me his picture.

Q Did she tell you when he died?

A She said five years he had been dead.

Q Did she tell you what his business was?

A A lawyer.

Q Where did he die?

A In New York.

Q Did she tell you she had ever married Fitts?

A No sir.

Q Did she tell you why she took the name of Fitts?

A She never went by the name of Fitts in my house; she said in some business she used the name of Fitts; after she had been boarding with me perhaps a month, she said she was a female detective, and if any letters came to her under the name of Lillian Hall to take them, that they were for her; and also under the name of Fitts; she said in doing her detective work she did not use her own name, because she did not want to disgrace her husband's family by using the name of Armstrong, and she used these names instead.

71

Q Would you believe her under oath?

A No sir, I would not.

MRS. TUTTLE: We were talking about swearing false once; I said I would not swear false. She said "I would to gain my ends; there is no hereafter any way". She showed me the picture of her child; she said it was in Germany, and her parents had it; it was a little boy..

Q This picture that she showed you, Mrs. Cole, as that of Armstrong, what kind of a looking picture was it?

A It was a very thin, beardless face, with the hair combed directly back from the forehead, and she said he had blue eyes, and a light complexion. When I saw her she showed me the dress she was to be married to Norton in; the dress I made her was for her travelling dress..

Q When Mrs. Armstrong was arrested in this proceeding for stealing a watch, she sent word to you that she would like to see you at the Tombs?

A Yes sir.

Q State what took place?

A She sent her lawyer to me.

Q Was his name Mc Pheeters?

A No sir.

Q What was her lawyer's name?

A Swift. She sent him to me with a letter; in the letter she made a request. She wrote a letter, and she wanted me to go to her trunk and hide that letter in a book; she wrote a letter, and in this letter was enclosed a letter which she wanted me to take to her trunk and hide it in a book, that she might send Mc Pheeters the next day and get the letter from the book to be used at the trial.

Q Have you that letter?

A I have the letter that was to be put in the trunk; the letter was written in the Tombs in the month of December; I think the letter came to me about the 12th day of December, 1836; and it was written as though it was written last September, or October to Mr. Dichman.

Q Dated?

A No sir, it was simply headed with the day of the week; she said to me in her letter why she wanted that letter put in her trunk was because she said she was in a hole-- those were the words---and that if this letter were found by her lawyer in the trunk, her jury would believe Mr. Dichman guilty; in the letter she makes mention of a good deal.

Q Did you place the letter in the book as requested?

A No sir.

Q What became of the letter?

A I have the letter.

Q Have you both letters?

A I have not the letter she wrote me, but the letter she wanted me to put in the trunk I have. I destroyed the other; I had a personal reason for destroying Mrs. Armstrong's correspondence to me.

Q State the conversation that took place in the Tombs in regard to her condition.

A It was after the trial that I saw her in the Tombs; I asked her why she had sworn she was in that condition; she said her lawyer told her to, thinking it would strengthen her case.

Q In a pregnant condition?

A Yes sir; I said "Why did you swear to a story of that kind?" and she said "Because Mr. McPherson told me to" I said "I don't see why you perjured yourself" and she said well, she thought that he knew best, and he told her to say so to help her out, and that it would have great weight with the jury if they thought she was in that condition; and she stated of course she was not in that condition.

Q Did she say to you why it was that she was willing to be examined?

A She said she thought she could get through the examination and fool the physicians.

Q And were there any relations between the physicians to examine her and the Swift family?

A One of the physicians was a nephew of Mrs. Swift; that is what they claimed..

Q Did you ever meet Mrs. Swift in the Tombs with this woman?

A Yes sir; I just saw her there.

Q In connection with this woman?

A Yes sir.

Q Was there something that this physician who was a nephew of Mrs. Swift's could testify in her favor?

A She thought there was something in that; and that they were young. She said that the Swift woman would arrange with her nephew and let her go through all right; she said that was why she was not nervous; and if there was nothing came from it she could say she was mistaken.

Q Did she receive any articles of clothing by means of which she could simulate pregnancy?

A She told me she had taken her things.

Q When did Mrs. Swift tell you that?

A At Mrs. Swift's rooms.

Q Was the Armstrong woman present at the time?

A No sir; it was while she was in the Tombs.

BY MR. FICHMAN:

Q When did you first see me?

A In your office last November; the 29th day of November.

Q What was the reason for your coming there?

A I came there from Mrs. Armstrong.

Q Tell us why you came, and the circumstances connected therewith?

A Mrs. Armstrong came to my boarding house; she came in and requested to see me alone. She began crying, and told me she had had a miscarriage and had been put out of her boarding house, and had started to Mr. Dickman for assistance, but was so ill she came to my house instead; she was suffering greatly, and she started to go down, thinking he would assist her if she went to him; and she seemed to wander in her mind and said a great deal..

Q What was it she said?

A She talked about her child &c. and seemed to be wandering in her mind.

Q Was she intoxicated?

A No sir.

Q She was light headed?

A She appeared to be; she simulated it; it was not real as I afterward found out from her admission. I went to Mr. Dickman's office.

Q Did she tell you whether this miscarriage was brought about by natural causes, or self-inflicted?

A She left me to draw my own conclusions.

Q Did she ask you at that time to go to Mr. Dickman's office?

A She said that she started to go to him for assistance; she had no money and had been put out of her boarding house, and was too ill, so she came to me. I said "what do you propose to do?" I said "Of course you know you cannot stay here" and she says "Would you go to Mr. Dickman and tell him my condition, and ask him to give you money for no?" And I went, and I left her lying on the sofa in my room very ill indeed---apparently very ill---and I went to Mr. Dickman.

Q What did Mr. Dickman say, and what did you say to him?

A I went to his office and he was out; I went outside and went uptown as far as the post office, and then went back again, and he was in then. I knew him as soon as I saw him from the picture she had showed me.

Q What did you say to him?

A I told him who I was and told him my errand there; that Mrs. Armstrong had come to my house ill from a miscarriage; and also that she had been turned out of her boarding house, and had started to come to see him but was too ill, and I had come instead.

Q What did he say to you?

A He said as far as he was concerned he was in no way responsible for her condition; then he made the statement about the watch having been stolen. Mr. Dickman also said whatever he might have done as an act of charity, he would not do it when her request was referred to him under those circumstances; he then went on to state about the watch; that there had been a watch stolen. Then I went back to see her, and she had decidedly improved during my absence, and I stated what he had said, and about the watch, and she said she knew all about that; that Inspector Byrnes' men had been up and searched her room. I was very suspicious of the woman then, because I heard her when she left the flat.

She told me she had not any money, because she had to pawn her dress. She went up-town and took dinner with me. She said there was a watch and chain here, and she was tempted to steal and pawn it, and she thought she could get it back before they returned; and as soon as I heard what he said, I said she had taken it; and I said "If you have taken that, give it to me" and she says "You don't think I would steal, do you?" and I says "Why I am suspicious is because you threatened to do it". Then she said she thought the elevator man had stolen it, and if the elevator man had not stolen it Mrs. Swift likely had, because she was visiting her, and she would go to Mrs. Swift's house the next day and see if she could get the pawn ticket, and if she did she would come down next night, and would give it to me. The next day I went down to her room; she had got better of her sickness; she said she had tried to get the tickets in Mrs. Swift's room, but there was nothing, only for an old silver watch; and she said she never took the watch; the next day when I went back I was surprised to see her sitting with her clothing properly on, appearing as bright as could be; she said "Have you got any money?" and I said "I think you have done me a terrible injury by sending me to Mr. Dickman". She wanted to know what he said, how he acted &c. and I told her, and she says "I know all about that; Inspector Byrnes' men were up and searched my trunk."

Q. Did you mention anything about her sickness?

A I said "You have got over your trouble; do you feel so much better?" and she says "I did not feel well, but there is nothing of that kind ails me; I only thought to get you to go to Mr. Dickman; I was down there the other day and he put me out of the office."

Q After you saw her in the Tombs, did you go and see a person who appears as her attorney in this complaint?

A Yes sir.

Q What is his name?

A Mc Pheeters; W. B. Mc Pheeters, I think.

Q State the conversation that took place between you and him? Where did you see him?

A At his office at Chambers Street. I went into Mr. Mc-Pheeters' office and told him who I was, and began questioning him about the Armstrong case, and asked him why he had told his client to perjure herself, and ~~she~~ he said because she thought she could carry it out, which she did. He said he did not think they would have the physicians' examination; he tried to dissuade her from going through it, and she said she thought she could go through; and he told her to swear ^{to it} to strengthen her case against Mr. Dickman.

Q Your object in seeing the woman in jail, and also seeing Mc Pheeters afterwards, was to make an arrangement to see if the woman could not be allowed to go out on bail, was it not?

A Yes sir.

Q How did you propose to get her out on bail?

A I asked Mr. Phetters if there could be bail gotten if it would be accepted; and he said they did not want bail; they wanted a new trial, and if I would put up $500. for him as counsel fees he would try and get her acquitted; and that then she was to bring a suit against Mr. Dickman for $50,000. and I should have $1,000.

Q What did he say to you in discussing her situation as to the matter of testimony---in regard to your testimony?

A He wanted me to go on the stand and say what they told me to say; forget anything I ever knew against the woman's character, and testify to what they would tell me to---to testify that she was a good woman. &c. They were to furnish me with the testimony they wanted me to testify to.

Q You were to memorize it?

A I was to memorize it and repeat it on the witness stand.

Q Will you state further what you were to testify---what your testimony was to be?

A He told me that they wanted me to testify first to her good character; then about the interview I had with Mr. Dickman; that I was to say that Mr. Dickman made this admission to me;--that he seduced the woman under promise of marriage, and that their relations were improper while here. And when I remonstrated with Mr. Phetters by stating it was not true, and it would be an outrage, he said "That does not make a particle of difference; he can only contradict, and he has no evidence to disprove the assertion". I said "In that way they can arrest me for perjury" and he said "no no, they cannot prove it is perjury; there was no one present but you and Mr. Dickman; they cannot disprove it."

Q When was the second time that you saw Mrs. Armstrong?

A In the Tombs do you mean?

Q Yes, the second time in the Tombs?

A Mc Pheters was in there the day I saw her; she told me then that she was going to be liberated on a suspension of sentence, or she was to get a new trial and get bail--- to be out on her own recognizance, that is it; that Gildersleeve had promised Mc Pheters to do it for her; and he had also promised Mrs. Swift.

Q Did she state what influence Mrs. Swift had with Gildersleeve?

A She did not state what influence; Mrs. Swift said she had a good deal of influence with the Judge, and that he had stated to her "Gertrude, I assure you that women will not be sent up."

Q Did she say anything about Gildersleeve's relations with other women?

A Nothing more than that she had been a friend of Gildersleeve's for some time, and that he made that assertion in the Armstrong case.

Q In this conversation you had with Mc Pheters, did he then state to you they were going to bring suit for $50,000?

A Yes sir.

Q Did he state the grounds?

A Yes sir.

Q What were they?

A Seduction and breach of promise and her condition.

Q And Mr. Theaters also said that Gildersleeve was going to help him by letting the woman out?

A Yes sir.

Q Mr. Theaters made that statement in your presence?

A Yes sir, in his office; he made that statement in his office.

Q Was there anybody present at the time?

A No sir; there was a party there but he let him out.

Q You saw Mrs. Armstrong again in the Forts?

A Yes sir.

Q When did you see her afterwards?

A I saw her on the 12th of November.

Q That was the time when she stated she was going into this thing?

A Yes sir.

Q What did she say she was going to do?

A She said she was going to get a baby from somewhere; of course she was not in that condition herself, but they could get one; it was a very easy matter in this city to get a baby; and they were going to confront Mr. Richman with that, and tell him it was his child; and she was also going to bring this suit for $50,000 damages against Mr. Richman.

Q Did she say whereabouts they expected to get the baby?

A No sir.

Q Did she say who was going to get the baby for her?

A Her and Mrs. Swift were going to hunt it up.

Q Did you say it was rather difficult to get a baby, or express any surprise?

A I expressed this opinion, that it would be not only a difficult matter, but a dangerous matter to do a thing of that kind; that she was simply out on suspension of sentence, and if she did anything of the kind she would be likely to be locked up again; and she said that Mr. Dickson was powerless to disprove it; that she was here in this flat, and they were here alone; and at that time she admitted that her relations with him were not improper.

Q Did she state that they would get the baby from any institution?

A No sir. She said they would find one.

Q Did she name any private lying in place?

A No sir. She said she was depending to Mrs. Swift to produce the child.

Q Did she say Mrs. Swift had agreed to produce it?

A Yes sir.

Q Did she say at the same time this baby was produced and they brought the suit for $50,000, that they were going to institute any other proceedings?

A No sir; that was all they were after. And she also further stated at that time that if I would testify in her favor I should also come in for a share of the $50,000. the same as Mc Pherson told me.

Q You were also going to get a piece of the pie?

A Yes sir.

MR. DICHRAN: If Mrs. Tuttle and Mrs. Dichman will leave the room for a few moments, I will make a statement, which Mrs. Cole will accept as her own. This woman went to this man Harrod and pretended to be pregnant; he disbelieved her; but she insisted so vehemently that after a while he consulted a physician to ascertain who he could find out whether or not, and the physician said to get some of the woman's urine; whereupon this Armstrong woman goes to Mrs. He Vey where she was boarding, and finds out that Mrs. He Vey knew a seamstress who was in that condition; so she gets this seamstress to let her have some of her urine, has it taken to the physician, who decided that she was in that condition.

Q Do you remember the name of that French woman, Mrs. Cole?

A No sir, I do not.

Q Do you remember anything like it?

A It was something like Lafonte. Her address was given me as 123rd Street.

City and County of New York, ss. Earnest Dichman, being duly sworn, says: I am a banker and broker at No. 40 Wall st. New York city, and reside with my wife and child at No. 42 West 9th st. I first met Anna Armstrong, alias Anna B. Fitts, alias Lillian Hall, alias Anna Buck, alias Madame De Vere, in the latter part of June, 1886. When she was introduced to me at the corner of 8th ave. and 24th st. by a woman named Mrs. Swift, who stepped up to me and said, "Hello stranger, what are you doing there?" I had known the Swift woman some two years previous, and as it was a pleasant evening I walked to Mrs. Swift's house with both of them, and from there to Anna Armstrong's house with her. She told me that she was seduced by a Mr. Fitts or Fritz and had run away from her parents, and was married in London; she also told me an interesting story about the Baracchi Mission on West 29th st., which excited my curiosity as to the place. She was a very plausible woman, and when she told me that she didn't know what to do for a living, and as she seemed to be very respectable, I told her she could take charge of my flat as I was going to California to join Mrs. Dichman, who was then there, and that the woman whom Mrs. Dichman had left in charge of the flat was going to leave. I told her that she would have to satisfy this person before taking charge of the flat. She was engaged solely as a servant in my family, at 12 dollars per month wages. I swear positively that I never promised to marry the woman, and did never seduce her under promise of marriage, and did never live with her in the relation of husband and wife, and on information and belief do charge that the said woman is a prostitute and blackmailer, and has been such for at least three years last past. The said said Armstrong woman, while in my employ, stole a watch and² two chains, the property of my wife, for which she was convicted of grand larceny in the second degree. The woman has since brought a suit against me to recover $500,000 d damages for alleged breach of promise of marriage, and charges seduction and pregnancy in aggravation of damages, which said suit, I do verily believe, and charge, is brought in pursuance of a conspiracy entered into for the purpose of extorting money by Anna F. Armstrong, Gertrude Swift, and William S. McPheters.

Mrs. Mary C. Cole, being duly sworn, says, I reside at 849 7th ave., last January I resided at 61 West 39th st. Where I resided some two years preceeding. I know Anna Armstrong; she boarded with me at the address last above given, from January to the 27th of July, 1885, when I sold out to Mrs. McVey, and Armstrong remained with her. I saw her again in September, 1885, at No. 187 West 21st st., which was a house of prostitution. I went to see her in response to a letter she sent me stating that if I called she would pay me some money she owed me. She was only there during the day, returning at night to 61 West 39th st. I saw her quite frequently between that time and the time of her arrest on the charge of larceny of Mrs. Dichman's watch. While she was in the Tombs I called upon her after having received a letter from her, which she sent to me by a man named Swift. In the letter to me was inclosed a second letter, purporting to have been written in September or October of 1886, by her to Mr. Dichman. It was written in the Tombs in December, 1886. The inclosed letter she wanted me to hide in a book, and to then place the book and letter in her trunk, so that McPheeters might there find it the following day, and use the letter at the criminal trial. She said she wanted that letter put in her trunk, because she was "in a hole," and that if her lawyer found the letter and swore to it, the jury would believe her charges against Mr. Dichman. A copy of that letter is hereto annexed and made part of this affidavit.

After her trial I saw her again in the Tombs, and asked her why she had sworn that she was prehnant. She said her lawyer, McPheeters, had told her to, thinking it would stop the would strengthen her case. To which I replied, "I don't² see why you perjured yourself." to which she answered she thought that McPheeters knew best, that he told her that it would have great weight with the jury if they thought she was pregnant, although she knew she was not, and she thought she would have been able to fool the physicians who examined her.

About the same time, and in January, 1887, I went to McPheeters' office, and asked him why he had told his client Armstrong, to perjure herself by swearing she was pregnant, and he said, because she thought she could carry it out; he said he did not think there would be a physical examination; he tried to dissuade her from consenting to it; he told her to swear she was pregnant to strengthen her charges against Mr. Dichman. I asked McPheeters that if bail could be gotten if it would be accepted, and he said they did not want bail, but a new trial, and if I would put up $500 for him as counsel fees he would try and get her acquitted, and that then she would bring a suit against Dichman for $50,000, and I should have $10,000. He also said he wanted me to forget anything I ever knew against the woman's character, and to testify that she was a good woman; that he would furnish me with the testimony and I was to memorize it and repeat it on the witness stand. He said he wanted me to testify that Dichman admitted to me that he had seduced Armstrong under promise of marriage, and that their relations were improper while she was in his flat. I stated to him that it was not true, to which he replied, "that does not make a particle of difference, he can only contradict it, and he has no evidence to disprove ~~the~~ ³assertion." I said, "they can arrest me for perjury," and he said "no, no, they cannot prove it is perjury, there was no one present but you and Mr. Dichman, so they cannot disprove it." I met McPheeters at the Tombs shortly after Armstrong's conviction, and during the conversation then had he said they were going to bring a suit for $50,000 against Dichman for seduction under breach of promise of marriage and alleged pregnancy Armstrong said she was going to get a baby from somewhere; while she was not pregnant herself, it was a very easy matter in this city--New York--to get a baby, and they were going to confront Mr. Dichman with one and tell him it was his child; she also told me that if I would testify in her favor, I should come in for a share of the $50,000, the same as McPheeters had told me.

Nellie Wetherell, being duly sworn, says, I reside at No. 122 West 35th st., and my occupation is that of an actress. I know a woman named Anna F. Armstrong, and made her acquaintance at the boarding house of Mrs. McVey, No. 61 West 39th st. The said Armstrong woman called upon me at my residence in last November, and about three days previous to her arrest upon a charge of larceny: While at my house she told me that she had a good plan to raise some money. I asked her how. She said that she was going down to the office of Earnest Dichman, at No. 40 Wall st., and compel him to give her a thousand dollars; she said "I am going to tell him that I am pregnant, and that I must have money, and if he does not give me a thousand, I will make him give me five hundred; if he refuses, I will threaten him by saying I will go to his wife, and sooner than have me go to her he will give the money." I said to her "his wife may not believe it." "Oh, yes, she will, see what I have put on to make me look as if I am in that condition." She then raised her clothes and showed me how she had folded towels across her abdomen to give her the appearance of being pregnant. I then said to her "Are you not frightened to do such a dreadful thing?" She replied, "Oh no!" as no doctor could swear positively she was not in that condition. She also told me last September that she was going to be married to a man by the name of Walter L. Morton, and showed me the dress she was to be married in.

City and County of New York, ss:

Hessie Collins, of No. 55 West 11th st., being duly sworn, says I have known Anna F. Armstrong since August 26th, 1886. At that time I was living at No. 119 Clinton Place. She was introduced to me by a Mrs. Swift, whose husband occupied the hall room of my floor. Mrs. Swift and Anna Armstrong visited him every night until ten o'clock. After Mr. Swift had been at my house one week, Mrs. Swift came to live there. She said she had been stopping with relatives in the Portsmouth flat, No. 42 West 9th st.; that Anna Armstrong was her neice, and that when Mr. Dichman returned from California Anna and she were going into business together. Anna brought a number of things from Mrs. Dichman's flat, which she then said were her own property, and which things, the day after Anna was arrested, Mrs. Swift took away and hid. I frequently heard Mrs. Swift urge Anna to write to Mr. Dichman to send her money, but Anna was reluctant about doing so. Mrs. Swift told her she must; that she had gotten money from other men before, which had never done her, Mrs. Swift, any good; that she, Anna, was under obligations to her, and she must get this money. Anna supplied the money for their living expenses, which money, I judged from appearances, she obtained from leading a life of prostitution. William S. McPheeters first called on Mrs. Swift about three days before Anna's trial on the charge of larceny; she refused to talk with him, and clubbed him down stairs. Mrs. Swift stated that her was a relative of hers, and that she did not want him to see her living in poverty. The following evening McPheeters called again; she introduced me to him as a friend of hers and Anna's, saying, "Judge, Mrs. Collins don't want to go into court, but if she is needed she will go." He replied, "Well, if she will, and will swear to what I tell her to, there will be some money in it² for her too. I expect to have ten thousand dollars for my part."

He wanted me to testify to Anna's good character, and her intimacy with Mr. Dichman. They said they were going to get money by claiming Anna to be pregnant by Mr. Dichman, and Mc-Pheeters said that he had told her to get medicine and instruments, and have a full lay-out in court. He told her to buy a syringe, and to hold it up in court and say that Mr.
Dichman bought it for her. Mrs. Swift said that Anna could get any amount of money from Mr. Dichman that she wanted, from $500 to $5000, as he was too highly respected in society and among business men, to want his name made use of in the way that Anna would use it. McPheeters said he would bring Anna out of the larceny business all clean, and that I should have some money if I would do some swearing in a suit they were going to bring against Mr. Dichman for seduction. McPheeters also said that he would not have anything^s to do with the seduction case unless Mrs. Swift did; that he knew what she had done before, and what she could do again.
He told Mrs. Swift to make a man by the name of Alexander, and also a man by the name of Himrod, both of whom I had before heard them speak of, put up the money to push the case against Mr. Dichman.

McPheeters also told me that he had told Anna Armstrong how to swear on the criminal trial, but that she had not done as he had told her, as she had failed to get the instruments to hold up in court. He said that he knew that Anna was not pregnant, although he had told her to swear to it.

New York, May 17th, 1887

Hon. Randolph B. Martine

My dear Sir.

Some days since, through the introduction of a friend of mine, a prominent member of the New York press, Mrs. Anna Fitts, was introduced to me as a client, and after listening with marked attention to her harrowing tale, I became somewhat satisfied that she was a victim of a gross conspiracy at the hands of certain persons who had promoted both a system of prosecution and persecution against this lady. What doubly excited my suspicion, was, that upon my communicating with Judge Mc Feeters, I found that gentleman had been using all his blandishments for some reason best known to himself, to counsel the lady to discontinue her suit now pending in the Supreme Court against Mr. Dickmann, and although I have had several interviews with Mr. Mc Feeters, he up to the present time, has failed to send me the papers in the suit, or sign the consent to substitute me in his stead, leaving me therefore, to my remedy of applying to the Court upon the facts as stated to me, for an order compelling such substitution. My client is now here with me, and to my surprise, informs me that she has had an interview with you this A.M. pursuant to a letter received from your Secretary Mr. Penny, and that in course of said interview, you gave her to understand, that unless she discontinued the suit she has instituted against her betrayer and persecutor, that you would call her up before Judge Gildersleeve and move for the imposing of sentence upon the judgment heretofore suspended upon a verdict which you full well know, as the able lawyer that you are, could not stand on appeal.

Having regard for your high integrity, both as an honorable, upright and conscientious public officer, I was surprised, indeed, that you should seek an interview in which you invoked threats upon the head of this lady, unless she abstained from the prosecution of an action of which she has the lawful and legal right to maintain, if her instructions to me be correct.

Under no circumstances would I lend myself to aid or assist in the promotion or prosecution of a case where I for one moment thought the exigencies did not warrant my intervention as an attorney, but until I am convinced that the contrary exists, I shall exercise my legal mediations in the interests of this much abused and persecuted person, and I very respectfully question your right or authority to hold out any such threat as the price of Miss Fitts abandoning, what, at the present time appears to me a good

of Ernest Dickman
vs
Anna Armstrong &
McPheters

The accompanying affidavits have been referred to me for examination, to determine whether they make out a case of conspiracy against the above named defendants and lawyer
McPheters.

It is my opinion that such a case is made out; but I think it should be disposed of in ^a ~~another~~ ^{other} way, than by laying it before the Grand Jury.

The defendant Armstrong was indicted in this court on the 7th Dec. 1886, for Grand larceny in the 2nd degree. She was tried & convicted ^{and} on the 10th of July 1887, judgment was suspended by judge Gildersleeve -
In that action Bessie G. Dickman, the wife of Ernest G. Dickman was the complaining witness. The defendant was defended by McPheters. The defendant testified on the trial that she was pregnant by Mr. Dickman & that the property alleged to have been stolen had been given to her by Mr. Dickman - Defendant was thereupon asked if she would allow a personal examination by physicians

Marion Roberts of 238 W. 124th Street
deposes and says that she knows Annie F. Armstrong who is the plaintiff in a scandalous suit which she brings against Mr Ernest Dickman under the name of Anna B. Litta, having formed the acquaintance of said Armstrong or Litta about two years ago in a boarding house in this city. That while said Armstrong was confined at the Tombs while awaiting trial for the larceny of a watch and chains stolen from Mrs Dickman said affiant went to see her twice, at her ^{the} said Armstrong's request that in the course of these interviews ~~the~~ said Armstrong volunteered the statement that she would resort to perjury or any other means to escape conviction. And that she would allege with being pregnant and would charge Mr Dickman with being the cause thereof although she volunteered the statement freely that she was ~~neither pregnant nor that~~ ^{any} intimacy had ever existed between her and Mr Dickman to justify such a scandalous accusation, and this affiant upon remonstrating with said Armstrong upon such conduct was answered by her,
that she would swear to anything to accomplish her ends, and that such was also the line of defence laid out by her lawyer, who would arrange that she should be tried before a certain Judge who, she knew, would not sentence her even if she should be convicted, and that so soon as she would be released, she would annoy Mrs Dickman the lady on whos complaint she had been arrested by bringing a suit against Mrs Dickman for deflection of character and false imprisonment and also by bringing a suit against Mr Dickman for seduction & pregnancy and other scandalous charges, saying that she the said Armstrong would get even with Mrs Dickman & would make Mrs Dickman pay her a great deal of money.

And this affiant further states that on Friday the 13th day of this month at about the hour of 3 O'clock in the afternoon she accidentally met said Armstrong at the General Post Office in this City; that this affiant endeavored to avoid her and did not wish to recognize her, but that the said Armstrong or Fitts insisted upon speaking to this affiant stating that she had brought the scandalous suit for pregnancy & seduction which she had threatened to bring against Mr Ernest Dickman, that her lawyer was pushing said suit for all that could be made out of it, that Mr Ernest Dickman would rather settle said suit than let it go to trial because she had laid a plan to compel him to make a settlement by threatening to scandalize and defame the character of his wife, and the said Armstrong or Little stated that her object in forcing herself upon this affair upon this occasion was to threaten this affiant with her vengeance if this affiant should dare to tell what she knows in relation to this matter. And this affiant further states that she knows as a fact, that the statements made by the said Armstrong or Little in the complaint of her suit against Mr Ernest Dickman are scandalous and false and a disgrace upon her sex - that said suit was brought to vex and annoy and to extort money and that the bringing of said suit is an abuse of the process of the court and an outrage upon the administration of justice deposes and says that he ^{knows} Anna B. Fitts otherwise known as Anna H. Armstrong and has known her for at least four years last past, and that he has seen her several times each week for the last seven weeks, and on each occasion has conversed with her on the subject of the suit which she has brought against Mr Ernest Dickman. She has on several of these occasions freely acknowledged the falsity of the charges made by her in the said suit and said the whole proceeding was the result of a conspiracy between herself and other parties to extort money from the defendant

v.
Anna F. Ambrose } Grand Larceny.

Hon Randolph B. Martine,
District Attorney.

Sir,

I have read the affidavits presented in this case, and am of opinion that the facts they recite justify the imposition of the sentence heretofore imposed upon the defendant. They disclose a malignity of design towards the complainant & her husband, & an absolute disregard of truth, which destroy every presumption of good character that might argue for leniency.

Until, however, that malevolence has proceeded farther than intention, or the expression of intention, I should advise that any action looking towards the infliction of the suspended sentence be held in abeyance.
