TESTIMONY.

Sarah Elizabeth a Whitehurst being duly sworn says: I am sister of Sarah E. Robinson, now lying dead at 70 Grove street here. I am now lying wounded. Early this morning about 7 am March 30th inst. I was awakened by something sharp passing across my throat. I started up found myself bleeding and saw my brother in law, Colman Robinson, leave my room hurriedly. I got up locked the door and pounded on the floor with a flat iron. Whereupon, my sister knocked at my door, asked me what was the matter. I said Robinson had stabbed me in the throat. When I opened the door he was standing behind her and denied the accusation. They went down stairs and he talked in a loud angry tone and said "you won't tell all, but you won't live to do so." Thereupon he attacked and stabbed me several times. I saw the blood streaming from my throat. I ran to the front room and shouted "murder". I heard her begging him to spare my life, but he did not listen to her entreaties.

TESTIMONY.

William O'Malley, M. D., being duly sworn, says: I have made an examination of the body of Sarah E. Robinson now lying dead at 70 Broad St and from such examination and history of the case, as per testimony, I am of opinion the cause of death is

Haemorrhage from lacerated wounds of throat and right forearm, with a razor; two pistol shot wounds of scalp; bullets flattened.
 William O'Malley
 M. D.

The autopsy revealed the following facts:
 The body was that of a shapely colored woman, of medium height, about thirty years old, lying, face down, and partly on the left side, on the bedroom floor, beside a cot bed, and partly draped, the clothing saturated with blood, which also covered the floor and adjacent furniture. Two (2) long irregular gaping wounds, fully five inches long, each, were found, anteriorly on the throat; the wound on the left side, high in the neck, that on the right; about an inch and a half lower; both were inflicted apparently, from behind by the assailant, with a sharp instrument. The right forearm, middle third, was slashed across, disclosing a deep wound involving muscle, tendons, blood vessels, &c. There was a slight wound of the left cheek, and two (2) pistol-shot wounds of the scalp, on the right upper frontal region; the bullets were found, completely flattened, in the immediate vicinity, on the skull. Death was due to haemorrhage from the wounds in the neck, and forearm.
