Affidavit on motion for part remission of fine

State of New York } ss:
County of Westchester

Arthur Golki being duly sworn deposes and says: that heretofore on the 27th day of December 1889 he was duly convicted of the offense of assault in the 2nd degree in said Court of General Sessions: the Hon. Frederick Smyth, Recorder, presiding; and that on that same date he was duly sentenced by the said Recorder to five years imprisonment in Sing Sing Prison and to pay a fine of five hundred dollars; that the five years part of said sentence (as computed with reference to the usual allowance under the statute granting commutation for good behavior) has been duly served and expired on the 27th day of July 1893, since which date last named deponent has been held and has been serving in said prison the alternative penalty, in default of the satisfaction of said fine, of one day's imprisonment for each and every dollar of said fine, until he has now served three hundred and ten days of the said alternative penalty of five hundred days; and that if deponent shall be required to serve out the whole of said penalty of five hundred days, it will not expire until the 10th day of December next: i. e. in midwinter; while the law provides (see § 697 of the Criminal Code) that the Court shall, so far as it may be able, fix the sentence so that the term may not expire in the winter months, but between March and November.

Deponent would therefore respectfully pray the court to reduce or remit his said fine so that he may be able to obtain his discharge from prison before winter sets in.

Deponent further says that he is wholly without means and when out of prison relies entirely for his support and maintenance on his profession as a dentist, and that if held in prison until winter it would be almost an impossibility to obtain employment at his profession at that season of the year. Depo-nent further avers, and urges in this behalf, that he has lost by death both his wife and child, since he has been confined and that in many other ways his punishment has been unusually hard and embarrassing.

Deponent in submitting this deposition begs leave to state that he sincerely and bitterly regrets his wrong doing and that his offense was the first offense or violation of law that he had ever been guilty of or charged with and that he feels sure, that with the help of God it will be also the last, as the indescri-bably sad consequences, which his committal to prison had not alone on himself, but on those nearest and dearest to him, caused a deep and earnest remorse within him and taught him a lesson far more forcible and indelible than the confinement itself.
