New York, December 5th 1887.

Judge Gildersleeve: You have pleaded guilty to grand larceny in the second degree . The penalty for that offence is not less than two or more than five years in prison. In cases where the accused is under thirty years of age the Court has the power under the statute to send him to the Elmira Reformatory. You are too old to go to the Reformatory. You say that you are guilty. You had employment and you took the money of your employer and appropriated it to your own use. I have a large number of affidavits here as to your previous good character, and it is very clear that you had the confidence of those with whom you were acquainted . I have no doubt that you are very sorry for what you have done. Those who have known you for a long time seem to believe, that hereafter no matter what temptations you may be subjected to, that you will resist them and be honest . What do you think? I am inclined to think that that is so. It is an unusual thing to suspend judgment in the case of a man of your years; but in view of your respectable connections, your brother in law, who is not unknown to us, and the other gentlemen who attend here to testify to your good character, your present counsel, who as a matter of charity and actuated by kindly motives only without any reward has taken your case, he thinks you will keep out of trouble--In view of all these facts and circumstances I feel justified in exercising the power which the Court has and suspending judgment as long as you keep out of trouble. You have employment and can support your wife and children--otherwise they would have to depend upon the charity of friends and relatives. For these reasons judgment is suspended. You will keep out of trouble hereafter .

My dear Sir

At the request of Mrs Sarah Strickland of this place I write you respecting her son Frederick whom I understand is now under some criminal charge in the City of N York -

The son was born and brought up here, and so far as I know never did any thing here out of the way - His father died when he was quite young, and he was, as many young men are under similar unfortunate circumstances, necessarily left largely to the care of himself - The long illness and death of one or two other children following that of her husband so engrossed Mrs Strickland's attention that she was absolutely unable to look much after this son, but she did all that a faithful mother could - She is a most estimable lady, and by the one family afflictions to which I have alluded, and this trouble is nearly crushed, and has the warmest sympathy of this entire community -

If consistently with your official duty you can allow a settlement of the matter by the payment of a sum of money suitable to the circumstances of the case you will afford her great relief, though she is in a very moderate pecuniary condition - and perhaps save the young man, who has a very respectable and interesting wife, and several young children, from future crime and disgrace.

I earnestly hope you will use your great influence in favor of such clemency as may be lawfully exercised in his behalf.

Very respectfully to James Phelps

PEOPLE ON MY COMPLAINT,

Frederick B. Wickland

As complainant in the above case, I beg to recommend the defendant to such leniency and clemency as the Court and District Attorney may see fit to show; but I expressly assert that my reasons for so doing are not controlled by any advantage to myself,

Defendant was bookkeeper and cashier for our firm of Wm. P. Romet & Co. as such he stole a considerable sum of money from our said firm. He has made restitution therefor. He is a young man with a wife and two young children. This offense is as far as I know his first offense. I have had affidavits and certificates signed by Wm. G. Pitcher, Judge, Jas. C. Sheffield, Samuel F. Purple, James Phelps, Henry Adams, J. Halvorsen, E. C. Richmond, George H. Seelye and others in the possession of James M. Fitzgibbon, as well as affidavits and of his being a young man with a family dependent upon him, I should be glad if the Court will treat this defendant as leniently as the circumstances seem to warrant.
