Indictment filed, march,

Before
Hon. Hy. A. Gildersleeve and a Jury.

Tried April 10th, 1888.

APPEARANCES:

Assistant District Attorney Davis, for the People,
Mr. John Heinzleman, for the Defence.

JOHN CONDI, the Complainant, testified that he lived at 131 Liberty street. He worked in Washington Market.
He saw the defendant on the 11th of March, 1888. The defendant lived on the first floor of the same house with him, the complainant. It was Sunday, and he, the complainant, had company. At about half past 10 in the evening some of his friends were going out of the house. There was no light at all on the steps, and he, the complainant, got a candle to light his friends out. He saw the defendant in the hallway, and he, the defendant, said " I will make trouble for you if you are not ". It was dark on the steps and in the hall-way. He, the complainant, lived on the second floor. He, the complainant, told the defendant to look out because he was in the way of his friends, who wanted to go out. He, the complainant didn't touch the defendant or assault him in any way. Then the defendant went into his own rooms and got a knife and stuck it into his, the complainant's stomach. (The witness showed the scar of the wound in his right side). He, the witness, was in the Chambers Street hospital for four days, and he went back there several times. The defendant was quarrelling with another man at the same time. He, the complainant, had a christening in his rooms that night. He, the defendant, was not at the christening. After he, the defendant, stabbed him- the complainant- the defendant went into his own room and went to bed.

UNDER CROSS-EXAMINATION, the complainant testified that he knew a man by the name of Luke Flannigan. The defendant and Flannigan lived together. He, the complainant, had a quantity of beer in his rooms and he sent down some beer to Mr. Moor and Mr. Flannigan and Mr. Flannigan came up to his, complainant's rooms. Flannigan stayed in his, complainant's rooms until about half-past 10. Two or three kegs of beer were consumed in his, complainant's rooms that evening. There were forty or fifty persons there. He was not in the defendant's room at any time that night. He never had any trouble with the defendant before. He, the complainant, had lived in the house for about four years.

MARIA JOSEPPA ARARE testified that she was the wife of the complainant. She saw the defendant stab her husband with a knife. When she saw the defendant in the hallway he was only partly dressed.

DR. GEORGE SWINBURN testified that he was a practising physician attached to the Chamber Street Hospital as house surgeon. He had attended the complainant. He found a wound in the complainant's right side just below the lower part of the rib. The wound was about an inch deep and half an inch in length. It was an incised wound.

UNDER CROSS--EXAMINATION he testified that the complainant was in the hospital to which he was attached four days.

OFFICER JAMES A. TUIE testified that he was attached to the Second Precinct. He arrested the defendant on the night of March the 11th at about half-past 11 o'clock at 131 Liberty Street. The brother of the complainant told him of the affray and he went to the house and arrested the defendant. The complainant identified the defendant. His brother also identified the complainant. The officer looked at several knives that were on the table in the defendant's rooms. There were several table knives on the table in the defendant's rooms, but there was no indication of any of them having been used. He returned on the following morning to the defendant's rooms and on the floor he found the knife which he produced in evidence and handed it to the District Attorney. Flannigan had the key of the rooms from the time of the defendant's arrest. He went with Flannigan on the following day to the rooms to search them. The blade of the knife was stained. He asked the defendant why he had assaulted the complainant and he said he knew nothing about any assault on the complainant. Flannigan, he said, had fallen in the room the night before and said his leg was broken.

UNDER CROSS--EXAMINATION, the witness testified that he arrested Moore in his own room. At the time of the arrest Moore and Flannigan were alone in the room. Flannigan was drunk and Moore was under the influence of liquor. Moore was only partly dressed. He had a conversation with the defendant about the knife which he found in the rooms and which he offered to the District Attorney in evidence, and Moore said that he didn't know anything at all about it.

LUKE FLANNIGAN testified that he lived at 131 Liberty street and occupied a room there with Daniel Moore, the defendant. The complainant sent him down some beer that afternoon. After he had drunk the beer he went up to the complainant's rooms. After he left the complainant's rooms he went down stairs and went into the room of another Italian that occupied a room in front of him. He stayed there some time and then he went to his own room. The door was closed, and as the door was not opened quite enough for him he gave it a shove and fell on his knee and said "my knee is broken," to Moore. Moore was in the room at the time. After he got into the room he went to bed and stayed there all the night. He saw Moore in the room. He didn't see the complainant there. He saw no trouble between the complainant and the defendant. He, the witness, was under the influence of beer.

UNDER CROSS--EXAMINATION, the witness testified that he lent the knife that was found in his room with a stained blade to Moore some time before. It was thrown around the room and Moore Picked it up and said that it was his, Flannigan's knife, and that he could have it at any time he wanted it. He, Flannigan, did not have it in his possession on the night of the 11th of March when the complainant was stabbed. He could not tell whether Flannigan had it on that night. He remembered having told the officer who arrested him that he had lent a knife to Moore and that Moore had had it for some time. The officer also told him that he thought there was blood on the knife, and he, Flannigan, said that he didn't think there was. When he pitched against the door and fell on the floor he hurt his leg.

EDWARD MOORE, the defendant, testified that he was 55 years of age and he worked in West Washington Market in carrying any kind of goods that he was asked to carry. He had been at work in the market about three years. He lived two years at 131 Liberty Street. He occupied a room there with Luke Flannigan. The complainant brought some beer to the room to Flannigan in the afternoon and he, defendant, had some beer. After a while Flannigan went up stairs to the complainant's rooms. He, defendant, stayed in his own room. He, defendant, went to sleep. He was awakened by the noise of the pushing open of the door. He heard Flannigan cry out that his leg was broken, and the door was open and Flannigan was sprawling on his back on the floor. He, the defendant, went to pick Flannigan up and several men rushed in and said, "what did you kill the man for, what were you fighting the man for?" He, the defendant, said that he had not been fighting with Flannigan, and that it was none of the man's business. Then the Italians rushed in upon him, and he put them out and shut the door, and bolted the door, and was preparing to go to bed again. Then the officer came in and arrested him. He, the defendant, identified him, and he called the defendant a liar. He, the defendant, was not out at all in the hall that night. He didn't speak to the complainant, and didn't know anything about his being stabbed. He had never been

He didn't speak to the complainant, and didn't know anything about his being stabbed. He had never been arrested before.

UNDER CROSS--EXAMINATION he testified that he had never been arrested for fighting. He had been arrested for being drunk. Flannigan lent him, the defendant, the knife that was found stained in his, defendant's rooms. He, the defendant, had been a married man. He had drank nothing that night. He had some beer in the morning, and he was fast asleep at the time that this affray occurred. After he put the Italian out he went to bed.

JOSEPH BLOMBERG testified that he was a dealer in poultry fruit and sundries at No. 376 Washington Market. The defendant had been working for him off and on for three years. He, the witness, saw him every day that he was in the Market. His general reputation, probity and peacefulness was good.

PATRICK CURRAN testified that he had occupied a saloon at 127 Liberty Street. He was the proprietor of the "Western Railroad House." He had known the defendant for about two years. He had seen him frequently, and his character was good.

JACOB ELURENDORF, a dealer in produce in West Washington Market, testified that he had known the defendant for two or three years, and that his character was good.

UNDER CROSS--EXAMINATION he testified that he had heard of the defendant being drunk.

ELLEN FITZHENRY testified that she lived at 131 Liberty street, and lived there fourteen years. She knew the defendant. He had lived there two years and she saw him every day. He was, in her opinion, a sober honest man.

UNDER CROSS--EXAMINATION she testified that she had never seen him drunk. She saw him walk in and out every day going to and from his work. He took a drink occasionally. She had never seen him under the influence of liquor.

That deponent is
