The People                      Court of General Sessions, Part I.
vs.
William H. Ford.              Before Judge Gildersleeve.

June 7, 1887.

Indictment for grand larceny in the first degree.

James Smith sworn and examined.                      I live 418 West 29th Street, I was in New York on the evening of the 16th of May and about quarter of nine in the evening I was on Sixth Avenue near 31st Street; an unknown man came up to me and shook hands with me and said, "how do you do, I haven't seen you in a long time." I said, "you are mistaken, I do not think you have got the right man"; he said
"O yes, wont you come and have a drink"; we went across the street and he introduced Ford; we went in and had a couple of drinks, we remained in the saloon about half an hour then we walked down between 24th and 25th Streets, I was linked with them in the middle; the unknown man asked me to have another drink; I had my check and money in the vest pocket and Ford took it out, the check was for fifty dollars, Ford ran and this other unknown man across the street, the unknown man knocked me down on the sidewalk and I hollered police. The check now shown me is the one that was taken from me. I was dated New York, May 16, drawn on the Shoe and Leather Bank to my order by Nelson J. Waterbury. The endorsement on it of James Smith is not in my handwriting and when it was taken from me it was not endorsed, I gave no authority to anyone to endorse my name on it. I went next morning to Nelson J.
Waterbury's and told him the check was stolen from me; he gave me a note to go down to the bank to have it stopped,
I was not more than half an hour gone when Ford came in with the check, Officer Hardy arrested him and I identified the prisoner at head-quarters among ten other persons.

Cross Examined. I said in Jefferson Market I really thought the prisoner was not the man but he looked much like him, I am an ignorant man and a man told me he would give me fifteen dollars if I would say that and it would take me out of the city. This man gave me his name as Anderson and he said he worked in the Custom House; at this time the prisoner was locked up, I got the fifteen dollars, I was ignorant of the law because I never was in Court before, I swore I thought the prisoner was not the man when I was promised fifteen dollars, I thought it would be settled.

Martin Hardy sworn. I am a detective officer and went to the Shoe and Leather Bank on the morning of the 17th of May and arrested Ford there, the cashier told me that he presented a stolen check of James Smith's, the check shown me is the one.

James Smith recalled. I had $1.75 with the fifty dollar check. After the other man knocked me down I put my hand in my pocket and all was gone.

James H. Miller sworn and examined for the Defence. I publish Miller's Sporting Bulletin at 24 West 23rd Street, I have known Ford since 1880, he has been in my employ, I knew him in Chicago and I employed him last summer, he has been strictly honest and he has had plenty of opportunities to steal from me if he wanted to. I know his hand-writing and the writing on the check now shown me is not his.

0538

William H. Ford sworn. I am twenty-six years old and live 110 West 33rd Street. I was employed by Mr. Miller for the last three years off and on at different times. On the 10th of May about half past eight o'clock I went down to 28th St. and Broadway and met Mr. Harris, we went in and had a cigar and afterwards went into Bang's saloon and had a drink, we staid there probably two hours and a half until it was ten minutes to twelve, I went up as far as 33rd St. and Broadway with Harris and left him there, I crosstover to Sixth Avenue and 30th St. and picked up a check signed by Nelson J. Waterbury and endorsed by James Smith, the check was muddy and seemed damp, I took it home with me and next morning I took it down to the Bank, I handed the check in the window and the gentleman remarked it looked as if it had been in an ash barrel all night. He asked me if my name was Smith and I said no, that it was Ford; he said, "Smith will have to get the money." I said, "I found the check, I didnot come to get the money but to have it returned to Nelson J. Waterbury. He told me to wait a minute, I waited a little while and Officer Handy came in and they read the note to Handy received from Waterbury stating that Smith had been robbed of the check the day before. The officer placed me under arrest and took me to Head-quarters, I had never seen James Smith before I went to Police Head-quarters. I was put with eight or ten men and the complainant pointed me out; in the Jefferson Market Court the complainant said, "I cannot positively identify him, Officer Handy said, "this man can identify him" and the Justice put me under a thousand dollars bail to appear in the General Sessions.

0539

I recognize the gentleman now pointed out as the one who took the check from me at the Bank.

Gilbert D. Sayres sworn. I am Paying Teller of the Shoe and Leather Bank, I remember on the morning of the 17th of May the Defendant presenting this check at the window, it was soiled and I made the remark to him that it looked as if it had been in an ash barrel all night, I had been informed beforehand that the check had been lost and notified to stop it and in order to gain time I talked with the Defendant, he said his name was no Smith but Ford. I asked him if there was anybody around who could identify him and he said no. After I had left the window to go to the officer at the door the Defendant called my assistant and said, "call back that gentleman, I do not want the money on the check, I found it;" that was the first he told me about having found the check. When he was arrested by Officer Handy he said he desired to return it to Mr Waterbury.

Louis Hensel sworn. I am a bar-keeper at Bang's saloon 38th Street and Broadway, the Defendant was in the saloon the night before his arrest from half past nine to half past eleven o'clock.

The Jury rendered a verdict of guilty of petty larceny.

deposes and says, that on the 16th day of May 1887 at the City of New York, in the County of New York, was feloniously taken, stolen and carried away from the possession and of deponent, in the ~~night~~ time, the following property viz:

Good and lawful money of the United States to the amount and value of one dollar and seventy five cents and a check drawn on the First and Leather National Bank payable to deponent and signed by Nelson ~~Watkins~~ of the value of fifty dollars together of the value of fifty one and 7/8 dollars $51.75 the property of deponent has a probable cause to suspect, and does suspect, that the said property was feloniously taken, stolen, and carried away by William Ford (now here) and another man whose name is unknown and not yet arrested from the fact that on about the hour of 9.45 o'clock PM said date deponent was walking down 6th Avenue and at that time deponent had said money and check in the pockets of his vest and when deponent arrived at the corner of 6th Avenue and 31st Street the said unknown man not yet arrested came up to deponent and accosted him saying how do you do I have not seen you in a long time he then called the defendant Ford and introduced him to deponent he then asked deponent to go and have a drink. Deponent and the defendant and the said unknown man went together to the corner of 7th Avenue and W 2nd St where they went into a saloon and had several drinks. They then left the saloon together and walked down 7th Avenue defendant walking in the middle with the defendant on one side and the said unknown man on the other. Linked arms with defendant the said unknown man then asked defendant if he had any money, when defendant told him he had this check, and when they got between 25th and 26th St the defendant took his hand into defendant's pocket and took said check. Defendant then called police when the said unknown man struck defendant and knocked him down they then ran away. Defendant then searched his pockets and discovered that said sum of money was also missing. And defendant is informed by Martin Handy Detective Sergeant. That between the hours of 10 and 11 O'clock on May 17th the defendant presented said check at the National Store and Leather Bank for payment. When he the said Handy arrested him and took him to Police Central Office. Defendant has since seen said check and fully identifies it as the check which the defendant took from his pocket. Wherefore defendant charges the said defendant and the said unknown man not yet arrested with being together and acting in concert with each other and feloniously taking stealing and carrying away the aforesaid property from the pockets of the cash then and there worn by defendant as a portion of his body clothing.
