Anthony Cornstock of 150 Nassau Street New York City being duly sworn deposes and says, that on or about the 27th day of February 1884, John Doe, and Richard Roe ^{known as Ketchum} ^{otherwise}, whose real names are unknown, but who can be identified by deponent and Albert Greere and Willis D. Blackwell did unlawfully contrive and propose a lottery and assist in contriving and proposing said lottery, which said lottery was set on foot for the purposing of disposing of property by lot and chance against the peace and dignity of the people of the State of New York, and against the form of the Statute of the State of New York in such case made and provided.

Deponent being further sworn deposes and says that on the 27 day of February 1884, he visited the premises occupied by the said John Doe, Richard Roe, Albert Greere and Willis D. Blackwell situate and known as 167 and 169 Duane Street in the City of New York aforesaid, and there was shown by said John Doe a

the said Green, Blochwell and Richard Roe being present in the premises a certain lottery in the manner and form as follows. The said John Doe in the presence of Richard Roe and Albert Greene, did show to deponent a box containing three apartments and a ^{paper} bag, which bag contained chewing gum ^{or candy}, but up in small pieces of about the size of a small raspberry, ^{each piece being wrapped with a piece of paper, and wrapped} with these pieces ^{and} was a small paper containing a number.
 This number calls for a prize, which was placed in the said box. The top apartment of which contained what the said John Doe informed deponent were the capital prizes. On the front of each of these apartments were numbers corresponding to the numbers in the packages of chewing gum, and each of these numbers were prizes which the said John Doe informed deponent. The children who bought the chewing gum ^{according to the numbers they should draw} for a penny would get.

The said John Doe further said, that they had other kind of prizes, or candies put up in the same way, some of which had confectionery ^{prizes} candies, and some which had Harmonicas, and some which had Knives and Revolvers, and that each of these contained prizes which were distributed in the same manner as the chewing gum.

prizes, which deponent saw. The said John Doe informed deponent that the regular price of the packages was 75¢, but afterwards said, that in quantities they sold them for 70¢ each.

Deponent told the said John Doe that he would take one ^{box} of the Panorama with revolving gun, two with Patterson and one of the Sheffield Knives prizes, and one of the Harmonica prizes, which the said John Doe by the direction of Richard Roe put in a paper and deponent paid the said Richard Roe at the rate of 75¢ per box. The said Richard Roe was called by the said John Doe and asked the price, and the said Richard Roe informed deponent that the price was 80¢. Deponent said he had understood that they were but 75¢ and handed the said Richard Roe a five dollar bill in payment for the said five boxes, ^{and the said Richard Roe then} and went to the office where a person known to deponent as the ^{one of the firm of Green & Blackwell} said Willie B. Blackwell, was sitting in the front office, and while the said Richard Roe was getting change from the cashier, the said Blackwell came out and stood beside and behind the said Richard Roe. At the time that deponent paid the money and had the conversation with John Doe and Richard Roe, a person known to ^{of the firm of Green & Blackwell, proprietors of this place} deponent as Albert Greene, stood within a few feet of deponent throughout the entire transaction. Deponent further says, that he is informed and verily believes, that at, in and upon said premises occupied by the said John Doe, Richard Roe, Willis B. Blackwell and Albert Greene aforesaid, situated and known as 167 and 169 Duane Street in the City of New York aforesaid, the said John Doe, Richard Roe, Albert Greene and Willis B. Blackwell now have in their possession with intent to use the same as a means to commit a public offense, and to sell, several hundred boxes similar to the ones herein before described, containing candies and chewing gum; said packages of candy and chewing gum containing numbers which said numbers represent shares, shares and interest in prizes accompanying said ^{and property to be disposed of by lot and chance in a lottery} chewing gum and candy, and which said candies and prizes are schemes devised and extended by the said Albert Greene, Willis B. Blackwell, John Doe and Richard Roe to dispose of property

by lot and chance, and particularly to be placed in confectionary stores, the said chewing gum and candy there to be sold to children at one cent each, the children thus drawing prizes as represented by the numbers contained in the packages of chewing gum, thus purchased and thus offered for sale by the said unlawful schemes of the said John Doe Richard Roe, Albert Greene and Willis B. Blackwell. Depovent personally saw a large number of said packages at, in, and upon the said premises and in the possession of said John Doe, Richard Roe, Albert Greene and Willis B. Blackwell.

Wherefore, depovent prays, that the said John Doe, Richard Roe, Albert Greene, and Willis B. Blackwell may be arrested and dealt with according to law, and that the schemes thus being used to contrive and propose lotteries, and in the aiding and assisting in the contriving and proposing of said lotteries, may be seized and further dealt with according to law.

Greenfield, Jane Doe and Richard Roe whose real names are unknown, but who can be identified, did at the City & County of New York aforesaid unlawfully contrive Deposant further says, that he called at the place of business number 44 ~~Barth~~ Street, of the said Nelson

Greenfield, Jane Doe and Richard Roe aforesaid, and while there had conversation with Jane Doe in the presence of Nelson Greenfield as follows. Deposant asked the said Jane Doe if they had prize chewing gum, the said Jane Doe replied, they had, and then took down some boxes and placed the same upon the counter containing packages of chewing gum together with articles of jewelry, finger rings &c. As the said Jane Doe was showing to deponent the said box and goods, the said Greenfield came and stood opposite deponent, and the said Jane Doe did in the presence and hearing of said Greenfield then display another package containing a bag, said to contain 150 pieces of chewing gum, and a piece of paper containing a number with each piece of chewing gum, and the piece of gum and paper being then and there wrapped in another paper. That these 150 papers containing the chewing gum and numbers were in a paper bag. The said Jane Doe informed deponent in the presence and hearing of the said Nelson Greenfield, that there was a capital prize connected with this scheme, at the same time displaying a box which contained papers and other articles together with a list of prizes, and the said Jane Doe did further inform deponent in the presence and hearing of the said Greenfield, that the capital prize was the pipe, and that ^{in getting the chewing gum} the capital prizes were ^{to be} kept separate, ^{from the others at first} and the way to do was to keep the little

0570

0571

package containing the capital prizes out from the other prizes, ^{at first} so that the children would not draw these first, for if they drew them first they would not be so eager to buy more of the gum.
 That each little package was to be sold for a penny a piece, and that the number in each package would draw whatever prize was opposite the same on the little card containing a list of the prizes. That the Pipes were the capital prizes, and that the numbers called for some of the prizes that were in the box. Depovent asked how much they were a box, and the said Jane Doe replied 75¢. Depovent then said, that he would take two of the smoking prizes, and one of the other prizes that Jane Doe informed depovent the capital of which was a Gold Locket.
 In the box with the Gold Locket was various other prizes, and also a bag, in which was represented to be 150 pieces of chewing gum, each containing a piece of paper with a number. Depovent further says, that the said Nelson Greenfield was present when the packages were thus described and delivered, and that depovent handed ~~the depovent~~ the money first towards the said Jane Doe, who then gave depovent a paper with an amount marked upon it, and told depovent to hand it to the Cashier opposite, That deponent then handed the said Richard Roe $2.25, and the said Richard Roe received the same and put it in a desk behind which he stood. That deponent asked the said Richard Roe to give him a bill. The said Greenfield then asked ^{the said Roe} what are you doing. deponent replied, making out a bill for me. said Greenfield said, what do you want a bill for. deponent replied, so as to show where these goods came from, and to show what the amount is. The said Greenfield then directed the said Richard Roe to make out a bill, which was done, and the goods done up and delivered to deponent in the presence of said Nelson Greenfield and deponent also received at the Cashier's desk, a card bearing the name of Nelson Greenfield as one of the proprietors of the establishment of E. Greenfield's Sons & Co

Deponent further says, that
