DESCRIPTION:

Mizrachee, Jose

DATE:

03/14/92

I knew Mirachi certainly as far back as the winter of 1887 for in or about December ^{of that year} I collected some money for him. ~~my note book shows that~~ I lost sight of him and at this moment I cannot remember seeing him again until about December of last year; I have been reminded that I found him in my house late at night, on my return from a certain ~~Confirmation~~ family reunion on the occasion of a confirmation of one of the boys; this would place the date Dec. 19th '92.

To the best of my recollection, my contact with Mirachi is as follows.
On the night I first saw him, ~~in~~ as he spoke to me about a case he had against Messrs. Goldfrank and Frank of this city ^{or an ~~other~~ company} and stated that my brother Rev. Dr. De Solomonde, had tried to get a lawyer, either the lawyer of the United Hebrew Charities or Mr. Greenbaum of 170 B'way to take it up for him, but he was told his case would not hold. At first I misunderstood him and thought his claim was for an actual loss. I reasoned that if he lost on one transaction, was it not reasonable to suppose he gained on others; and if so, was he a fit person to assist in these days when the tremendous influx of Russian exiles is taking the resources of the United Hebrew Charities and when there are so many other calls on private or congregational funds.

I said nothing to him on these points, as far as I remember, but simply looked upon him as an ordinary applicant for aid. It was very late at night and there was nothing for me to do but to say I would do what I could for him and he would call another time. He was, as always, persistent, and said he was sick, that he would die here and it would cost us more to bury him than to send him south where he wanted to go, - I think he said it would cost us a hundred dollars. This ultra-ordinary logic amused me and I joked him on it. He went away apparently satisfied.

In accordance with my promise, I wrote the United Hebrew Charities, asking if they would do something toward sending Mirachi south to Laredo.
Mr. Chas. Frank, the superintendent, replied that they would do nothing for him until he returned a letter of Rev. Dr. Pottheil; of which he was making improper use.

When Mirabhi returned I told him this. He replied rather angrily I thought in his remarks concerning Mr Frank or the United Hebrew Charities. I of course, advised him to comply with the request and return the letter. He went away without doing so. He called again, I cannot say after what interval, and I again urged him to take my advice and return the letter. I think he said he did not want the letter, that he had other letters, but I know he said he had torn that letter in four or five pieces.

I must have told him again I would write again and say so on his behalf, for he left, and I wrote again to Mr Frank, saying that Mirabhi had stated that he had torn up the letter he wanted.

I do not remember having any answer to that, unless it was one, saying that the United Charities ~~would~~ refused to do anything for him. He called again - how many times altogether I cannot say.

He told me he belonged to me and not to the Germans and that it was my duty to help him. By this he meant that he was a Portuguese Jew, and as I was minister of the Portuguese Congregation he had a special claim on me. As a matter of fact, the United Hebrew Charities is supported by Germans and Portuguese Jews and is not allowed to make any distinctions ^{in dispensing their charity}. Personally, very many, if not indeed, most of those whom I assist, are Germans. ~~for~~ Certainly it is, Mirabhi himself made no distinction, for both the ministers whom I have already mentioned, are ministers of German ^{Hebrew} Congregations.

However, I did not feel disposed to help him because he was a Portuguese, but because he was a poor man, apparently.

I was at a loss to know what to do, one Friday when he called, when I suddenly remembered that Mr Hyman Blum, President of the Mt Sinai Hospital, had once very kindly sent a young man a ^{ticket} free, by means of his influence with a Steamship Company. I thought I would trespass on his kindness again and accordingly I gave Mirabhi a letter addressed to that gentleman, telling him to take it to Mt. Sinai Hospital Sunday next, when there would be a meeting of the Directors of that Institution and Mr Blum would no doubt be present.

On Sunday a Monday Mirabhi brought me back a letter from his slum, stating that his husband was sick, but that she would give $5 towards a ticket for the man. I remember he said in our conversation, that Mrs. Slum had told him I was rich and could help him. The remark struck me as strange and I rather doubted it.
I told him I ~~did~~ did not know what more to do for him, and he must have seen from my manner, that I was really puzzled to know how to ~~get~~ get together money for his passage. Either then or on another occasion, he suggested that I should get the sexton to call personally on members of the congregation on his behalf. But I knew this was impossible, for ~~wholly~~ the sexton was not favorably impressed with him, and people do not like to be troubled in their offices or stores.
I told him I would try again for him and would write some friends, maybe I could collect some money for him. I told him to meet ~~me~~ me on the next Saturday evening, ~~at the synagogue~~ at the synagogue. ~~There~~
~~as soon as there was a~~ ^{for sometime} receive in rooms or in the vestibule there.
I told him this because I did not want him to come to the house, for he terrified the inmates by his ~~voice~~ conduct. Thus, they told me, that one night he turned out the gas in the hall. Naturally the servants were frightened. One night ^{I think the first of his last series of visits.} I ~~wisely~~ found him late in my dining room, waiting for me. Another night, my wife actually ^{said she} wished to leave the ~~opera~~ ^{half} because she ^{after service} feared Mirabhi was home waiting for me.
The Saturday night came and I spoke on Mirabhi's behalf, to the Vice President, the President being absent. He ~~told~~ me to give him a couple of dollars, and a couple to another poor man whom I had also told to be there. Mirabhi would not accept the money, though I urged him to do so. I could not understand his refusal; certainly he could not have been in the ^{actual} want which he had ^{previously} represented himself to be in.
I again advised him when I met him outside the building, but to no purpose.
A few days afterward he called ^{here} at the house and said he would take the two dollars. I think I had ^{in the meantime} given the money to some ~~other~~ poor person on the synagogue's account, but I gave Mirabhi two dollars out of my own pocket.

He went away. - I think I was then he told me he was sleeping on ⁽⁴⁾ bare boards - I told him to see me again the next Sat. By evening of the Synagogue. Towards the end of the week he sent me a letter asking if he might call at the house instead of at Synagogue. I think the reason he alleged was ~~inaccessibility~~ ~~that I had understood from him~~ that he did not like to go to the building, for his experience with the President and Sexton some years before was not the pleasantest. Similarly, on one occasion when I gave him a letter to the United Heb. Charities, he came back with it in a day or two, declaring he could not go, would I write for him?

I did not answer his letter, as he had put no address on it. I received from one of my friends a letter from him, and had taken occasion to see him, & mark.
He called Friday but after I had left for Synagogue for Sabbath service.
He went to Synagogue and spoke to me afterwards - saying he had not a Cent and was sleeping on bare board.
I knew he could not wait for Sabbath, if he was among fear as I imagined he was - he soon left me, apparently friendly.
Saturday evening he was in ~~trouble~~ and in the vestibule I told him that little success I had had, but had not heard from all - what I had I would have to see Frank towards purchasing a ticket for him - he asked me what I had said to him, I told him and he became excited and called them lies. In the course of the walk he said I should pay him for keeping him so long here - I told him without that was not my fault, for the fault was of whom I wrote did not answer me at once. It was a novel charge to make of course, but I turned the conversation by the subject of his alleged loss on the package of goods I & F had sent him by express. I told him he had received the goods, but sold them, all of which he acknowledged, and though it did seem hard that ~~the goods had been lost~~ he had been caused to wait for three months for his food, I did not see what he could do.
Galling in this way we ceased have, when I thought why should I trouble any more with such a man, - better give him the $10 and let him go, and reaching the door I entered ~~from~~ and remembering the ~~man~~ ^{man}

~ rather fear he caused the inmates, I was about to close the door and let him wait for me ^{outside}. But in a perfectly calm tone, he said it was cold or he was cold, & I let him in.

was cold, & I let him in. I passed along to hall to the further end, through a glass sliding door, shut & pulled it after me, and ran upstairs to get the money. I was half up before he opened the door and called to me. I answered and ran down stairs having ~~waited~~ taken the money from my desk ^{all} within hardly a minute. I met him at the glass door standing and said here was the money. He did not take it but began arguing with me in his usual fashion, that he must be kept and so forth. Why he did not take the money and go, I do not know. At last I ~~told him~~ stopped him by asking him to listen to me and let me speak. I then told him to take his choice, either take the money and not see my face again ^{remembering that another minister had done so to him} or I would call a policeman. I left him at that end of the hall and I walked to the street door end. I opened the street door on the hope that it would induce him to go and hold up the money, saying let simply, take it and go. He ~~then~~ asked how much was it. Remaining at the door I said never mind how much it is, take it and go. (He said I must pay him for the time I had made him lose. Although I knew that I was not to blame for his being there and that it was not my business to collect for every man that ^{I think it was at this moment that he said damn the settle near by.} comes along. I ^{reminded him by saying,} how much is your time worth, thinking he would name some small sum. To my astonishment he said a hundred dollars. ^{He sat down on the sofa and I think he said "I don't go."} I repeated that it was my fault if the gentlemen to whom I had written had not responded better and leaving up to him, quietly put my hand on his shoulder, saying again you had better take this, and go. He stood up and moved a step or two, with my hand, one hand and my left hand on his shoulder ^{perhaps} for half a minute. He put his two hands on my shoulders and I at once stepped back and ~~remained~~ a few steps from him. He moved toward the door a step or two, I following him, ^{at first I saw his hand open} remaining silent while he ~~became~~ spoke in a very excited tone - as if at a loss for what vile name to call me, he called me Calba, or dog, - I did not reply, for whether my selfpossession angered him yet more, or whether he had come intending to kill, I ~~thought~~ ^{heard} he threatened was heard & threaten in the vestibule of the Synagogue that he would ⁽⁶⁾ kill me or kill all of us - That I know not. All I know is that he suddenly said "five hundred dollars" I think he added or I kill you - certain it is, he stepped backward, flung back his coat drew a something, ^{gun} only the glistering of the barrel - aimed quickly, but it struck me without approach at deliberation, somewhat low and fired.

My only answer was ~~what~~ what have you done - I walked ~~down~~ away, and went upstairs -

1. Dr. Goetheil (601 Madison Avenue) states that at or about the time Mirachi first came to me, he had given him a letter and had procured a ticket which latter he countermanded, on learning Mirachi's unworthiness.

The son of Rev. Dr. Kohut 39 Beekman Place, had to put Mirachi out of the house with the aid of a ~~detective~~ policeman.

Chas. Frank, Superintendent of the United Hebrew Charities 128 Second Avenue, has Mirachi's record.

J. Greenbaum, 170 B'way, ~~may~~ knows of him in connection with his alleged case against Messrs Goldfrank and Frank of this city.

Messrs Goldfrank and Frank, one of them, was seen by me on behalf of Mirachi, and to save me a bad record of him in Laredo or San Antonio, that he sold a ticket they bought for him etc.

Letters etc. enclosed

1. From Rev. Henry Cohen, testifying that Mirachi attempted to go upstairs in his house (in his absence, insulted servant) etc.
2. Editor of San Francisco paper: that Mirachi after being assisted by societies there, demanded more money of him, was put out of the office, and again appearing, he drew a pistol on the Editor.
3. From London Eng. tending to prove that if the same Mirachi, he is a professional beggar.

Rev. D. Pereira Mendes N.Y.

My dear Sir. - allow me to congratulate you upon your almost miraculous escape from the hand of an assassin.

I have received yours of March 23rd and hasten to give you the required information concerning that wretched Chirachi. You may not be aware that I have the honor of being the President of the First Hebrew Benevolent Society of San Francisco, an institution existing since 1849. In that capacity I often come in contact with imposters of the kind of Chirachi. As I have only gleaned my information from newspapers, I can not be certain about that fellow in New York being the same person I have assisted here several times, but by the description given in the press I am morally convinced, that Mirrachi is the identical person who threatened to shoot me in my office of the Jewish Times and Observer. He is rather tall and slim speaks English, tolerable, but better versed in Hebrew. After assisting him several times, I became convinced that he was an impostor. I then declined to give him any more money. He became abusive, so that I had to tell him to leave my office. After several days he again made his appearance demanding at the same time money to go to Denver, Col. I declined and as quick as lightning he drew a weapon. I made my escape through another door, and Mirrachi disappeared. Of course I could not make the above statement under oath without seeing the arrested party.

I am delighted to hear that you are rapidly recovering. May the Almighty further protect you, which is the sincere wish of Yours truly

Mr. Saalburg.

My dear Sir,

I take the liberty
of asking you what is right for me to do in the matter of Joe Mirachi, who shot me on March 5th.

I am still under the care of the Surgeon, Dr. McBurney, 40 West 36 Street.

The wound is not yet quite healed; but he advises that

I should leave New York in a few days time - for about a month, at least, to recruit my strength, leaving Maxine attention the house requires, & my wife.

Saturday is my Sabbath, Monday and Tuesday of next week happen to be Holy days when I could not attend Court.

But in my present weakened condition, I do not think I could appear, any way.

My friends wish me to leave as soon as possible, which would be Wednesday or Friday, the available sailing days for Panama, the only harbor there I can go to for home. Comforts and for living consistently with the demands of that section of Hebrews to which I belong.

What is right for me to do? Another point is this - I had the sorrow of losing my only child, an infant, about a week ago. His wet-nurse is leaving us. She heard Misonaki and the rights of his shooting me, and identified him the afternoon the detectives brought him. Would she be required as a witness? I fear we may lose trace of her. What do you advise in this connection?

With respect,

Very truly yours,
A. Pereira Mendes. A. R.

Tried APRIL 21ST, 1892.

Indicted for ASSAULT in the first degree.

Indictment filed MARCH 14TH, 1892.

APPEARANCES:

ASSISTANT DISTRICT ATTORNEY BARTOW S. WEEKS,

For THE PEOPLE.

JOHN G. HEINZELMAN, ESQUIRE,

For THE DEFENCE.

2

HENRY PERIERA MENDES, THE COMPLAINANT, testified that he lived at #6 West Ninth Street. He knew the defendant, Mizrachee. He first met him, according to his recollection, in 1887. He lost sight of the defendant in 1887, after he had given him some money that he had collected for him. To the best of his recollection, he did not see the defendant again until December, 1891. He, the witness, returned one Saturday night, late, from a family reception, to his home, and found the defendant seated in his dining room. The defendant said that he wanted assistance. He, the witness, said that he would try to do something for him, and the defendant went away. He, the witness, wrote to the United Hebrew Charities, to obtain assistance for the defendant, and tried in other ways to get money for him. The defendant came many times to his, the witness's, house, prior to March 5, 1892. He frequently assisted the defendant. He first saw the defendant on March 5, 1892, at the synagogue, at about half-past six o'clock in the evening, at evening service. The defendant attended the services at the synagogue. After the services, he, the witness, met the defendant in the vestibule of the synagogue, and he, the witness, told the defendant what he had done for him, and what success he had had. The defendant walked along with him, the witness, towards his, the witness's, home. He, the witness, told the defendant that he, the witness, would hand the money that he had collected for the defendant to the secretary of the United Hebrew Charities, to purchase a ticket to send him away, or to do what they liked with it. On the way the defendant said, "What did Mr. Goldfrank say about me?" Mr. Goldfrank belonged to a firm that he, the witness, had been to, to obtain assistance for the defendant. He, the witness, told the defendant what Mr. Goldfrank did say, and the defendant became angry and declared that what had been said was all lies. Then the defendant said to him, the complainant, that he, the complainant, would have to pay him for the time that he, the complainant, had caused the defendant to lose. He, the complainant, asked the defendant what he meant. The defendant said that he, the complainant, had been the cause of his staying around New York so long, because he, the complainant, had taken so long to collect money for him. He, the complainant, explained that it was not his fault, and that he, the complainant, had written to a number of gentlemen for assistance, but that they, of course, had taken their time to reply. He, the witness, tried to change the subject of the conversation, so as to quiet the defendant, who was very much excited. Knowing that the defendant had made himself very unpleasant to the inmates of his, the complainant's, house, when he, the complainant, reached his home, he entered his front door, he was about to close it, telling him to wait until he, the complainant, could get the money that he had collected. The defendant said that it was cold, and asked him, the complainant, to allow him to go into the hall, and he, the complainant, allowed him to do so. He, the complainant, walked through the hall to the glass door at the rear of the hall, and closed the door after him, the complainant, and ran up stairs to get the money for the defendant. He heard the defendant call after him. He believed the defendant only called out his, the complainant's, name. He, the complainant, ran down to the hallway again with the money. The whole proceeding did not take more than a minute or a minute and a half. He found the defendant standing at the glass door, at the rear of the hall. He said to the defendant, "Here is the money that I have collected for you." The defendant grumbled, and the complainant said, "There is only one thing that I can say to you. Don't speak so much. Let me speak. You must take your choice. You must either take this money that I have for you, or else I must call a policeman." The defendant kept on grumbling and talking loud, and he, the witness, walked to the street door and held it open, and also held out the money to the defendant, saying, "Here is the money that I have for you. You had better take it and go." The defendant said, "How much is it," and he the witness, said, "Never mind how much it is. You had better take it and go. That is all I have for you." The defendant said that he wanted to know how much it was, and sat down on a settee in the hall, saying that he would not go. He, the witness, then closed the door and went up to him and put his hand on his shoulder, and said, persuasively, "You had better take the money and go. What is the use?"

The defendant then stoop up and seemed to be about to put his hand on his, the complainant's, shoulder. He, the witness, stepped back, and kept at a little distance from the defendant. The defendant moved towards the street door, and became more and more angry, and called him, the witness, in Arabic, "Dog." He, the witness, took not the slightest notice, and then the defendant drew back his coat and drew a pistol. The barrel of the pistol was shiny. He, the witness, was conscious that the defendant took somewhat of a deliberate aim, and shot at him, the witness. He, the witness, after the shot, said, "Now what have you done?" He, the witness, turned away and walked quietly along the hall and up stairs. The bullet wounded him, the witness, at the lower end of the abdomen, and lodged in the peritoneum. The bullet was cut out by the surgeon. Just before the defendant fired the shot, and before he threw back the lapel of his coat, he said, "Give me a hundred dollars, or I will shoot," and then stepped back and fired. He fired but one shot. The defendant was brought to his, the witness's, house about a week after, for identification, He, the witness, was still under the care of Doctor McBierney, and he, the complainant, was present at the trial against the advice of his doctor.

In cross-examination the witness testified that the synagogue was at #5 West 19th street. When he first saw the defendant at the synagogue, the defendant was perfectly calm and collected, and continued to be until he told the defendant what Messrs. Goldfrank & Frank had said about him.

CHARLES JACOB testified that he was a detective officer attached to the Police Central Office. He first heard of the shooting of Doctor Mendes on the morning of the 6th of March, 1892. After hearing of the shooting he made a search for the defendant. He first found a trace of the defendant down Oliver street. The defendant seemed to be unknown to everybody. He finally learned that he had some friends living in Oliver street. These friends had heard or seen nothing of him. Detective Sergeant Heidelberg and the witness finally learned that the defendant had been living in a lodging house in the Bowery two or three days before the shooting. They went there and found a satchel. In the satchel was a Jewish praying shwal, and three or four cartridges, and several time-tables on different railroads. They learned that the satchel had been left there by Mizrachee, but he did not return for it. They found Mizrachee's name written on the time-tables in lead pencil. They then traced the defendant to Philadelphia. He, the witness, was sent by Inspector Byrnes to Philadelphia, to look for the defendant. He, the witness, was there nearly three days, and finally found the defendant in Arch street, Philadelphia, peddling plated jewelry. He the witness had a young man with him who knew the defendant, and he pointed the defendant out. The defendant was then placed under arrest. The arrest was made at the corner of Eighth and Arch streets. He, the witness, could not recollect the precise day of the arrest. The defendant positively refused to return to New York, and he, the witness, had to obtain a requisition. The defendant asked what he was arrested for, and he, the witness, told the defendant. The defendant said, "I don't know, Doctor Mendes. I never saw him in my life. You are making a mistake." He, the witness, said that he would be responsible for any mistake that he made. After he locked the defendant up in Philadelphia, he asked him if he would come on to New York voluntarily, if he was in his company. The defendant told him that he had a right to stay in Philadelphia and that he was going to use every right that he had, and he would not go to New York. The defendant, even after he was surrendered by a magistrate, threw himself on the floor, and he, the witness, had to obtain assistance and lift the defendant bodily into a patrol wagon and take him to the train. At the Police Central Office in this city, Inspector Byrnes ordered Sergeant Heidelberg and the witness to take the defendant to Doctor Mendes's house. They obtained a coach and took him there. Doctor Mendes was lying on the bed, and they took the defendant into the room, and the doctor identified him. The doctor said, "You see, Mizrachee, you see what you have done," and the defendant made no answer at all, and, when they got the defendant down stairs, he still persistently denied that he had ever seen Doctor Mendes.

CHARLES HEIDELBERG testified that he was a detective sergeant, attached to the Police Central Office. He went to Philadelphia with Detective Jacob to assist in the arrest and extradition of the defendant. His recollection of it was that it was on the Saturday following the shooting that Mizrachee was brought back to New York. The Saturday following the shooting would be the 12th of March. He, the witness, had a conversation with the defendant, after his arrest, and asked him what his name was, and the defendant said that his name was not Mizrachee, but Solomons, and he, the witness, asked the defendant, "How is it that you have those letters in your possession---one from Dr. Mendes?" And the defendant said they were given to him by a fellow lodger in Philadelphia. He also said that he had been in Philadelphia for a month. He said that nobody had ever seen him with Dr. Mendes in his life. He did not know Dr. Mendes. When he, the witness, went with detective Jacob in a carriage to Dr. Mendes's house, with the defendant, on the stoop, he, the witness, said to the defendant, "If you know Dr. Mendes, you had better tell the truth now," and the defendant replied, "Dr. Mendes don't know me and I don't know him." After they came from the complainant's room, the defendant still persisted in saying that he did not know Dr. Mendes, and added, "That man tells a very bad lie about me. I don't know him at all."

FOR THE DEFENSE, JOSE MIZRACHEE, THE DEFENDANT, testified that he did not know Dr. Mendes, and he had never seen him before he was arrested and taken to the Doctor's house. The Doctor's story about him was a lie. He, the defendant, did not shoot Dr. Mendes, and did not meet him in the synagogue or accompany him to his home. He went to the synagogue about a year before this trial, and three or four men called him bad names and hit him and broke his chest, and he had suffered ever since. These men were named Phillips, Levy, and Allis. He, the defendant, was a Frenchman, born in Algeria.

In cross-examination, the defendant testified that he was thirty-three years of age, and had been in the United States about eight years. He came to the United States from France--from Havre. He did not know the name of the ship he came on. He landed in Philadelphia and remained there about two weeks, and then he went into the country, selling French jewelry. Three months later he went to Vera Cruz and remained there a short time, and then went elsewhere in the neighborhood of Vera Cruz, peddling goods all the while. From Vera Cruz he came to this City. He came by railway to New York. He did not come direct. He spent about a hundred dollars on the road, stopped at several places, Chichauha, and ElPaso. He had been in New York about two months. He stopped for some time in New Jersey, in Newark. He lived there in a boarding house. He was taken sick and taken to an hospital in Newark. Then he went to Philadelphia and peddled his goods. He bought some goods in New York, from a Mr. Newburgh. He did not know in what street it was. Mr. Newburgh had a store. He had some credit with Mr. Newburgh, to the extent of fifty dollars. He could not write. Whenever he paid for fifty dollars worth of goods, he was entitled to a credit of fifty dollars more. He recollected his arrest in Philadelphia. He remembered when detective Jacob put him in prison in Philadelphia for ten days. He was selling his goods at the time.

IN REBUTTAL, DORA HOFFERMEYER testified that she was formerly a servant in the employ of Dr. Mendes. She had often seen the defendant at Dr. Mendes's house, during the five months that she was employed there. On the night of the fifth of March, she heard the defendant's voice in the hallway of Dr. Mendes's house. She heard the report of the pistol, and saw the defendant's hat and coat as he left the house.

deposes and says, that on the 17th day of March 1892 at the City of

New York, in the County of New York, was feloniously taken, stolen and carried away from the possession of deponent, in the ~~the~~ time, the following property, viz:

One Silver watch on a Gold Chain and six dollars in gold and several moneys of the United States the whole valued at about Sixty dollars

$60.00

the property of Deponent

and that this deponent

has a probable cause to suspect, and does suspect, that the said property was feloniously taken, stolen and carried away by Rose Montague (murderer) from the fact that deponent had said property in a closet in said premises. That he missed it. That deponent went to a pawn office with Officer Phelan and defendant and that said defendant was identified by ~~Admiral~~ ^{Admiral} ~~Admiral~~ ^{Admiral} as the person that pawned said property which deponent subsequently identified as the property of deponent stolen as aforesaid. Deponent therefore charges the defendant with having stolen said property and prays that she be held to answer
