The People } Court of General Sessions. Part I
 Mary White } Before Judge Martine. Dec. 18. 1888.
 Indictment for grand larceny.

Emma Nance, sworn and examined.
 I live 18 East Fifty Sixth St. and have resided there eleven years in the family of John R. Dos Passos as housekeeper. I was there the 8th of this month; the defendant was employed by me in Mr. John R. Dos. Passos's house on the first of December as a laundress; she was there for one week and as her work was not satisfactory at the end of that time she was dismissed. It was between half past nine and ten o'clock in the morning when I discharged her. I discharged her in the dining room and went out instantly. I paid her for her service and went out and returned at one o'clock; the waitress told me something when I came in to lunch; she told me Mary White was still in the house. I rang the bell and asked Mary why she did not leave? She came to the head of the stairs and looked over the banisters of the fourth story. I was at the second story. She said she was getting ready to go; this was about half past one. Afterwards I went up stairs and met Mary White coming down stairs with a bundle, so large that she was unable to get down readily. That was about two o'clock. I said to her, "What have you got in that bundle? She says, "I have my clothes?" I said, "O no, Mary, you cannot have all those clothes because when you came into the house you had a very small bundle." She says, "My cousin has brought me these things during the week." I said, "Mary I must see what you have in your bundle before you go out." She says, "You cannot see;" then I went and rung for a messenger boy and sent for a policeman. I locked the front door and told her I should send for a policeman. I went up stairs and heard her passing through the hall. I did not go on the fourth story but remained on the third. The front door bell rang and the messenger boy came and I told him I wanted a policeman and the policeman came in about half an hour; when he came she was at the foot of the stairs and wanted to go out. I stated the fact to the policeman in her presence of meeting her with the bundle and preventing her from going out of the house with it, and I took him up stairs to show him the bundle, and when we went up stairs the bundle was not in her room; she had taken it to the room that she had taken the things out of. I did not see her tie up the bundle. I took the policeman up to the top room where she had got the things from the trunks. When I went into the trunk room with him I found the things that belonged in the trunks scattered all over the room. I saw the sleeves of an ulster overcoat which belonged to Mr. John R. Dos Passos hanging out of the bundle where I first saw her on the stairs. I think it cost in London twenty three dollars; it was a new overcoat and only worn from London to New York; it was bought from Harrison Jones, Regent St. London on the 29th of July. I did not see Mary White go into the trunk room for I was out all the morning. I was in the trunk room that morning about nine o'clock to get some curtains out and it was then in order. When I went in there at half past two there was a dozen and a half of silk handkerchiefs thrown loosely on a trunk, three gentlemen's silk mufflers, this ulster was in a trunk and other things had fallen on the floor between the trunks. I did not see the defendant unloose the bundle. She was taken to the station house and searched and in her bosom three silk handkerchiefs were found the property of John R. Dos Passos. I also found loose in the trunk room three suits of gentlemen's under flannels and three silk lady's waists. The waists were worth ten dollars each; they were in the trunks at nine o'clock in the morning and when I went up in the afternoon they were spread around the room. The defendant was on the floor where the trunk room was half an hour and there was no one else up there but her. Cross Examined. He had four servants the time the defendant was employed there and one of them slept in the room with her. I never had any words with the defendant; she was a very pleasant servant in the house.

John W. Coby, sworn and examined, testified. I am an officer of the 23^d precinct and on the 8th of Dec. I was called into Mr. Dos. Passos' house. I saw the defendant and she refused to go up stairs with me, but I finally took hold of her and said she had to go; we found no bundle but saw the clothes all thrown out in the room; she said the ~~stuff~~ ^{stuff} ~~was~~ ^{was} hers that she had in the bundle, which was a wrapper and an apron, belonged to her. She said she did not take the things; she was searched in the station house and the silk handkerchiefs found upon her were claimed by the previous witness to be the property of Mr. Dos. Passos. The defendant pleaded guilty to petty larceny.

Robert Finck, 103 East 16th Street.
I live with my parents. I am sixteen years of age. I attend the Public Grammar School in 13th Street, near 6th Avenue. I have known the defendant since last July.
We met at Tuxedo, N. J. The defendant is a horse trainer. I used to go out riding on horseback with him. On the 22d of November, 1888, at about ten o'clock A. M., I went to Mr. Dan Gardt, the defendant's employer, ^{who is a friend of my father's} at 1162 Broadway. When I arrived there I had my watch in my vest pocket fastened to a chain hooked into the top button hole of my said vest. Mr. Dan Gardt wanted me to take his horse out into the country, but he was too busy to speak to me when I came there, and he requested me to wait. He had to go out and I waited for him in his room until half past three o'clock in the afternoon. During all that time there was no one in said room except myself, and the defendant, and for about ten minutes a woman who cleaned the room. About fifteen minutes to three o'clock I looked at my watch. It was there still in my said vest pocket hooked as afore-said. About ten minutes after three o'clock I commenced to wrestle with the defendant and we continued the wrestling for about fifteen minutes. About five minutes later I left the said room for home. At the corner of 27th Street and Broadway, that is three doors from 1162 Broadway, I wanted to look at my watch and found that it was gone together with the chain and a chain attached to it. I went right back, looked carefully all over the sidewalk, the stairs and the halls of Mr. Van Gardt's residence, and also through Mr. Van Gaudt's room, but could not find my watch or chain. I asked the defendant whether he had the watch, but he denied it. He helped me search for the watch in the said room. When I returned to Mr. Van Gaudt's room, I found it locked, and the defendant opened it only after having asked me a great many questions. He had his coat buttoned up, while at every previous meeting between us, he had his coat open. The watch and chain are worth about $100. It was a keepsake from Mr. Dexter Wallace.

0406

0407

Ingene Finck, 103 East 16th Street, Stock broker. I am the father of the complainant. On the 10th of December, 1888, in Mr. Van Gaudt's room, the defendant admitted in my presence that he had taken my son's watch and hidden it in the leaves back of Mr. Van Gaudt's place at Trondale, N.J. On the night previous Mr. Van Gaudt came to my home and brought me the back cover of my son's watch. He stated that he had found it in his room when moving the piano. He also stated that the defendant had to him confessed the taking of the watch.

Thomas F. Hayes, Detective, 19th precinct. On the 10th of December, 1888, I arrested the defendant. He stated to me that he found complainant's watch in Mr. Van Gardt's room, and that he had taken it to Norrdale, N. J., and hid it in the leaves behind Mr.
Van Gardt's house. Two or three days afterwards the defendant stated that he had taken the watch from Norrdale to New York, but had lost it through a hole in his pocket.
