The People } Court of General Sessions. Part I George Price } Before Judge Cowing. July 17, 1889 Indictment for an attempt at grand larceny in the first degree.

Robert Bottke, sworn and examined testified. I live 4 Greenwich St. New York and am a carpenter by trade; upon the night of the 12th of July I had in my possession on my person three dollars and seventy five cents in a pocketbook.
 It was toward midnight and I was in the Bowery in this city in the Bow ery. I do not know exactly near what cross street. I bought hot corn from a dealer and I was about to pay for the hot corn. Then I saw I have not got so much change. I took out my money out of the pocketbook and gave him a dollar bill to change. - the one who sold the hot corn - and he could not change it and he returned the dollar bill to me. Then I looked in my pockets and found change, fifteen cents, to pay the hot corn man. George Price at that time was standing in front of me about one pace away from him. I put my pocketbook in the left side of the pants pocket. Price stood at my left side in front. I was about to turn

1007

and I felt the prisoner's hand in my pocket, in the left side of the pantaloons pocket in which the money was. I put my hand to the pocket and he pulled his hand out. I tried to get hold of him but he run away; he could not get the money, he only pulled his hand out because I got hold of the money from outside. I called out on the corner, "Hold, hold this man," and the policeman did not know what was going on. The prisoner passed the policeman running; the officer afterwards rapped with his club and I was running after him and I caught him. He ran one block in one direction and then he turned the corner and run another block and then I caught him. I don't know the name of the street through which he ran. He put himself close to the house and I caught him. He said to the policeman in English, who was immediately on hand, "I have nothing." Cross Examined. I had four dollars that evening; I paid 25 cents for the hot corn, leaving me with $3.75. Did you have any one else with you that night? Yes, sir,

a man and two girls. I made the man's acquaintance in Atlantic Gardens, he spoke German to me, and we left the Atlantic Garden together. I do not know who the girls are. I was not intoxicated that night, but I had three or four glasses of beer. I had no whiskey. I cannot tell how late it was when I got to the hot corn stand, it was toward midnight. I was on my way home. I was not going to take the two women home with me. What did you intend to do with the two women? Those two girls were not with me, they were with the man whose acquaintance I made in Atlantic Garden. What was the prisoner doing when you came up to the hot corn stand? I cannot tell what he was doing; he was standing there. I did not see him eat hot corn. Had there been any crowd around the stand that night? Several were standing there but I could not tell how many. Had you been fooling or playing with the women? He was standing decently there and eating our hot corn, there was no pulling about. Did one of the women sit on your lap while you were at the hot corn stand? No, we were all standing - only one girl sat down. Did you sit on her lap? No. Did you see the prisoner's hand in your pocket? I only felt that it was his hand. Immediately when I felt his hand in my pocket I tried to get hold of him and he commenced to run away; then I shouted out, "Hold him, hold him." By M. Parker. The very moment as I understood that you felt the hand you clapped your hands on it and you turned around and grabbed for him and he ran, is that it? Yes that is it.

Timothy Hayes sworn. I am an officer attached to the 14th precinct. About two o'clock in the morning I was standing on the corner of Houston St. and the Bowery; there was a train coming at the time and I saw two men run down the Bowery on the east side. They were running towards the Elevated Station on Houston St.; as I thought, and heard them making a noise. Price, the prisoner, was ahead and the complainant was the second man. I could not understand what was said going along; the complainant was the second man, he said something when he came down to me as regards his pocketbook - thief. So when he shouted out "thief", "my pocketbook", I followed the prisoner and I rapped several times. I followed him through Houston st. and through Second Ave. to First st., and where I got around the corner of First st. we lost sight of him for a few seconds. We stayed there, the complainant and myself. Finally we turned around, we saw him standing in the doorway of a grocery store - with his shoulder up to the ~~edge~~ of the window. The complainant saw him first, he says, "This is the man". I says, "you are the man I have been after; he says, "I took nothing". Had you accused him of taking anything yet? Nothing up to that time. Then the complainant said, he did not lose his pocketbook, but he said he had his hand in his pocketbook. I took him to the station house.

Cross Examined. How far was this hot car stand at the time you were standing when you saw this man running? Very near a block. I saw no person around there. He was running as fast as he could. You have no doubt that the man that you lost sight of was the same man ^{to} you arrested in the doorway? No, not the slightest; he was only about a yard from me when he ran past me. There were lights around there - an electric light in the corner.

George Price, sworn and examined in his own behalf testified. My home is in Chicago. I have never been arrested before and never have been in a station house in my life. I was at the hot corn stand on the Bower; there was another fellow with me. I saw the complainant; there was another German with him; they both spoke German and both eat hot corn. Two women were with him also. I was there three minutes before the complainant came up; the women were pulling him over the stand; they sat down; there was a chair alongside the stand; one of the women sat down in it. She was under the influence of liquor, she was talking loud. She sat down awhile, he pushed me aside and sat down alongside on the rump of the chair. They were joking him all the time because I believe the girls could not understand him. The complainant tried to get hold of her to pull her along. He did not want to buy any more hot corn. She said she wanted some hot corn. I stayed there eating hot corn. At last he wanted to go away with his friend.

Her lady friend got up and held him.
They were jerking around. There was a crowd come around, and all of a sudden he turned around and made a grab at me. I jumped back, he came at me. I was under the impression it was a row and I jumped on the sidewalk and ran away. Then I was caught on the corner I was standing in front of a fence that projected out from the sidewalk, the second door from Second Avenue on First St. As they came up to stop me. I said, "I have not done nothing". I saw the officer with him; they got speaking German.
The officer said, "You had your hand in his pocket." I said, "No, sir, I have nothing." They took me down to the station house. Then I got there

I made my statement to the sergeant behind the desk. The complainant spoke in German to another policeman and the Sergeant told me that I had my hand in his pocket and was taking his pocket book. I was put down. I did not hear the complainant halloo "thief". I have been a waiter since I have been in New York; the last place I worked at was at the creamery on the Bowery near Houston St. I am troubled a good deal with my feet; it is customary for waiters to have sore feet. Cross Examined. I have been in the city two years. I am 22 years of age. I have had difficulties with waiters and have had black eyes. I was born in Chicago and was never arrested there. I did not notice any officers on the corner of Houston St. If I had seen him I would have stood for protection. I was going to stand anyway because I could hear the officer a little before I got there. When I got to the station house the officer claimed that I had passed him but I never saw any officer when passing the corner. If I had seen him. I would have applied to him for protection. I never put my hand near the complainant's pocket. The officer and the complainant said, the first thing you said was, "I took nothing!" No sir, I says, "I done nothing." They are mistaken. I lived at 202 Allen St. previous to my arrest, which is about a block from where the occurrence took place. I lived there three weeks. I was standing up against an iron railing

Timothy Keyes recalled. The prisoner was right up close to the railing on the corner of the window.

George Price recalled. I ran because I did not like to get into an altercation. I could not get work as a ~~waiter~~^{waiter} with a mark on my face. I worked three nights before this. I was coming on this night from seeing a friend of mine at 106th St.

Timothy Keyes recalled. The defendant said he did not hear me rap. I was about a hundred feet behind him where I rapped. I rapped with a club and it could be heard six or eight blocks. The jury rendered a verdict of guilty.
