Leopold Goldschmidt being sworn says. I have made an autopsy on the body of deceased Maria McKeever at No. 520, 8th Ave. Found two stab wounds on on the right side of the abdomen, both situated on a line drawn three inches to the right of the median line, the upper three inches above, the lower three inches below the Umbilicus; the upper transverse, the lower oblique corresponding to a line drawn from the Umbilicus to the Sacrum; both wounds presenting sharp cut edges, the upper one half of an inch, the lower three quarters of an inch in size, the upper barely penetrating the lower penetrating the abdominal walls, passing through the Omentum and small intestine about 2 4 inches above the Caput Coli, causing a large opening of about an inch and a half in the same. General extensive and diffuse peritonitis over the entire peritoneal surface, extensive hemorrhage in both abdominal and ~~pelvic~~ ^{pelvic} cavities. Heart somewhat enlarged and fatty, lungs, Liver, Spleen, Kidneys and all other organs examined and found normal.
 From appearances presented at the Autopsy it is my opinion that Death was caused by Peritonitis and Internal Hemorrhage due to a Stab wound of the Abdomen penetrating the small Intestines.

Court of General Sessions

The People

vs

who is charged with homicide

Thomas McKeever

Statement on behalf of the prisoner

The prisoner is charged with the homicide of his wife, on October 9th 1881. The facts proved at the inquest are shortly these. About 8 o'clock on the morning in question deceased was waiting at a butcher's shop in West 36th Street. The prisoner walked quickly into the shop, made two thrusts at her, with a small pocket knife, striking her in the abdomen; not a word was spoken by either of them. The poor woman lingered until the following Wednesday when she died. The cause of death, as stated by the doctors being Peritonitis, & internal hemorrhage due to a stab wound penetrating the small intestines. Prisoner was arrested within a few moments of the occurrence. He was then almost penniless & utterly friendless, but his sister who is a domestic servant in the family of a gentleman at Belfast Ireland, desired E. H. Moran

0505

Counselloer at Law of No. 106 Broadway New York, to do what he could for the interest of the prisoner ^{and} accordingly information has been obtained, which can if necessary be proved on oath, ^{and} which is now submitted to this Honorable Court:

The prisoner who is only about 36 years of age is a native of Ireland, being the son of a laborer there. That insanity exists in the family is beyond question, for his fathers own brother John M^r Keever was for some years confined in the Asylum for the Insane at Philadelphia, ^{and} died there a hopeless lunatic, ^{and} his fathers sister Ann, after being for a long period an inmate of the Lunatic Asylum, at Belfast Ireland, was discharged as cured, but a relapse taking place, she was again sent to the asylum, by the County authorities, ^{and} died there. Prisoner learnt the trade of a brick layer ^{and} served seven years apprenticeship at Belfast. His old master gives him an excellent character as will be seen by the letter from him hereto annexed.

Prisoner came to this country in the year 1869, ^{and} shortly afterwards met with the deceased, at the house of her married sister, where he was boarding, ^{and} after an acquaintance of less than three weeks, they were married. There is no desire to unnecessarily assail the character of the poor woman now in her grave, but it is a fact which can be proved, ^{and} which throws considerable light on the subsequent history of the prisoner, that she had before marriage, been living with a Russian who called himself a doctor, as his mistress.

After the marriage, prisoner ^{and} his wife unfortunately went to live with her relations, ^{and} prisoner asserts that it was entirely owing to their interference that his wife was induced to leave him as she did within a few months of their wedding. Prisoner then went back to Ireland, where he obtained employment, ^{and} from there he wrote to his wife, urging her to join him; there is but little doubt that she would gladly have done so, but for the persuasions of her sisters. After a short time prisoner again returned to this country ^{and} implored his wife to go back with him. She consented, ^{and} they lived apparently happy together, for upwards of a year until a child was born. Prisoner then in an evil hour, sent for his wife's sisters to come ^{and} stay with her, the result being that within a few days a general row took place, ^{and} one night on the prisoner going home from his work he found his wife ^{and} child gone ^{and} his house stripped. He ascertained that his wife was at her brothers house, but was unable to see or communicate with her,

His home being thus broken up, prisoner again returned to Ireland, ^{and} between then ^{and} the fall of this year he crossed ^{and} recrossed the Atlantic, no less than eight times, being as he says, unable to keep away from the woman for long together, ^{and} she refusing to live with him, giving as a reason, that her friends would not let her. Prisoner at various times requested Rev. Father Donnelly of 32nd street ^{and} Rev. Father Dougherty of 36th street, to use their influence with his wife, to persuade her to return ^{and} live with him, but she refused, ^{and} it was only after ~~she arriving~~ From the deceased ~~own lips~~, that the child then with her was the child of this

Russian doctor, with whom she had gone back to live, that the prisoner abandoned all hope.

This seems to have so worked upon his feelings that he undoubtedly behaved like a man who was out of his mind. He persisted in waiting day after day outside the deceased's lodgings, he forced himself into the house of her married sister, he accused her brother of hiding her away from him and although he had then good and constant employment, had $4⁰⁰ per day, he spent his time crying in a maudlin way, and talking the most incoherent nonsense. The result of all this was, that in the early part of last year, prisoner was arrested by a policeman, whilst sitting down in the street, his condition was then examined into, and he was sent to the New York County Asylum for the Insane at Ward's Island. Whilst there, his wife on more than one occasion went to see him and so far from having any angry or bitter feelings towards her, he spoke of her and to her in a most affectionate manner, and upon his release, stated that it must have been owing to the intercession of his wife.

Prisoner was discharged from the asylum on September 25th 1880; the authorities deeming it best, that under all the circumstances, he should return to Ireland, took a passage for him; a day or two before his discharge, prisoner expressed a wish to be allowed to pay a visit to his wife; this being acceded to, one of the officers accompanied him to the lodgings she had formerly occupied; being unable to find her, they went to her married sister who stated that she had left the country, and would probably never return again. Prisoner was quite satisfied with this, stated that it was best for all parties that it should be so. One of the officers from the Asylum saw him off, and he reached Ireland in the early part of October 1880. He then stated to his friends, and to the Roman Catholic priest of the church he attended, that his wife had gone away and he should not

0510

see her again. Soon afterwards prisoner's only brother died at Cork, ^{and} his death seems to have greatly affected prisoner, who without the slightest reason insisted that the death was owing to poison ^{and} desired the authorities to have the body disinterred. Prisoner seems to have been unable to settle down to anything, ^{and} much against the wish of his aged father insisted upon returning to this country where he arrived on the morning of Friday the 7th of October last. He stayed at a house in Washington Street, ^{and} in answer to inquiries made by the officials at Castle Garden, stated that he had no relatives in this country ^{and} that his wife was living somewhere in Europe, but he did not know where. On the Saturday, prisoner went in search of work, ^{and} applied to one of his old masters here who states that at first he thought he had been drinking, but afterwards came to the conclusion "he was a bit queer", ^{and} so refused to employ him. Early on the Sunday morning, prisoner left his lodgings stating that he was going in search of a Mr McNally a builder who had previously employed him, ^{and} who lived somewhere in West 36th Street, but he did not know exactly where; as he was going along the street, he passed by the butcher shop in question. A few minutes before he had stopped to make inquiries as to the address of Mr McNally ^{and} then had in his hand a pocket knife, with which he was cutting some cake tobacco. On reaching the shop prisoner caught sight of his wife, ^{and} in a moment burst in, ^{and} committed the assault which resulted in her death, although he persistently declares that he has no recollection whatever of anything that happened after he saw her.

Under these circumstances Mr Moran ^{and} Mr Skintzing who has been consulted as counsel in the matter have come to the conclusion that although the prisoner was undoubtedly insane as late as September 1880, yet that they would not be justified in asking the Court to say that at the time of the occurrence in question he was in such a state of mind as to be relieved from the consequences of his act, but they do respectfully submit to this Court that having regard for all the facts and circumstances attending this said case, the interests of justice will be fully met by a plea of guilty of manslaughter being accepted.

I am willing to make a true statement.
I have not lived with my husband for the past eight years, he did not support me, I have not seen him within a year. I am only back from Europe, where I have been on business. This forenoon between 7 and 8 o'clock I went to a butcher by the name of Allen in West 36 Street between 8 & 9 Avenues. My back was turned towards the door, when my husband came in. I did not see him and without saying a word he stabbed me three times, in the chest and in the abdomen.
The butchers in the store and some ladies were present.
After it was done, the butchers in their excitement threw axes at my husband, ran after him and secured him. The name of my husband is Thomas M^c Keever.
We are married thirteen years. Justice Otterbony
