I have examined Officer Barron in this case. He testifies that at about 8½ P.M. he and officer Collins went to the defendant's saloon and officer Collins knocked on the side door. It was unlocked and after looking at him the defendant admitted him. ^{Officer Barron} He followed him in and found seven men standing at the bar with glasses in front of them. He told the defendant that he was violating the excise law and he said he knew it but that he was not selling anything. He pointed to the glasses on the bar and asked him what they were doing there. Defendant then became confused and made no reply.
