Dear Sir:

In relation to John Mack, whose character you requested me to investigate and who is now in the "Tombs" awaiting sentence. I beg to state that I made a thorough investigation and I find that his right name is John Lange that his mother lives on the N. E. cor. of 103rd St. and 2nd Ave. for past three years, before that she lived at 44th St. and 3rd Ave. I have been unable to learn, that Mack, alias Lange had ever been arrested before for any criminal offense. I found out, that he has been arrested several times for disorderly conduct so much so, that his folks have partially disowned him for that reason.

Yours very respectfully,

Indictment filed April 29th, 1890.

Indicted for abduction.

A p p e a r a n c e s:

Assistant District Attorney Jerome for the People.

Mr. Astarita for the defense.

PHILOMENA COCCHI testified that she was between 11 and 12 years of age. She lived at South Norwalk, Conn.
She had lived there with her father and mother. She would be 12 years of age on the 12th of February, 1891. She knew the defendant. The defendant boarded in her father and mother's house at South Norwalk, Conn. She came to New York on April 9th, 1890, with the defendant. She ran away with him from her home. The defendant said to her,
"I am going away to-morrow and if you want to come with me
you can go. " She, the complainant, said, "Yes, I will go with you." She went with the defendant to his mother's house, at 113th Street and First Avenue. They left South Norwalk at about ten o'clock in the evening and they reached the defendant's mother's house at about one o'clock in the morning. She staid in the defendant's mother's house for two nights and almost two days. She slept with his mother one night and with the defendant the other night. She had sexual intercourse with the defendant. That was the night before the police officer came and arrested the defendant.

UNDER CROSS EXAMINATION, the complainant testified that she did not say in the Police Court that she ran away with the defendant; she said there that he had asked her if she wanted to go with him and she had said yes, that she would go with him. She told no one that she was going to accompany the defendant to New York. Defendant's mother was frightened when she saw her, on account of her age, and asked her why she had come with her son, and she, the complainant, said that she was tired of staying in the country. She knew a man named Giorgio. He had been one of her lovers. She also knew a man named Peirelo. He was also a lover of hers. She could not tell how many lovers she had had altogether. She could not remember all of them.

Her father had caught her with a man named Joe in sexual intercourse and her father had had the man arrested and fined. She intended to get married to the defendant in New York, but when they got here his mother said that she was too young to be married, because the law did not permit a girl to marry under the age of 16 in New York. She, the complainant, had never been married to any man. The defendant paid her fare to New York. In South Norwalk he asked her if she would marry him in New York and she said that she would go with him and when she got to New York she would see about marrying him.

GELSUMINE COCCHI testified that she was the mother of the complainant. The complainant was eleven years and two months old. She did not consent to her daughter leaving South Norwalk with the defendant or any other person, nor did she consent to her child marrying the defendant or any other man. Her daughter had never been married.

UNDER CROSS EXAMINATION, the witness testified that she kept a boarding house for Italians in South Norwalk, Conn. She sometimes had as many as sixty boarders. She had had a man arrested for intimacy with her daughter.

He was one of her boarders. After her daughter ran away from home she received a letter from her saying that she had run away with the defendant and that she was going to marry him in the following week.

RAFAELE COCCHI testified that he was the father of the complainant. The complainant was about eleven years and three months old. She was born on the 13th of February, but he could not remember the exact year. He had been married 15 years, but he had an older child than the complainant. He kept a boarding house for men in South Norwalk, but no women were allowed to board there. His older daughter was dead.

DR. WALTER H. SNOW testified that he was a practicing physician in the City of New York and had been in practice for about ten years. He examined the complainant on April 22nd, 1890, and found that there had been a full and complete penetration of the genital organs.

OFFICER BENJAMIN TESSARO testified that he was attached to the Police Central Office and was an Italian by birth. He arrested the defendant on April 11th in the defendant's mother's house, at 419 East 113th Street. He was accompanied by two officers from South Norwalk Conn. He, the witness, arrested the defendant on the strength of a dispatch from South Norwalk to Inspector Byrnes and charged the defendant with abduction. The defendant said that he came to New York with the complainant to get married and that he did not want to run away with her, but that she made him do it.

UNDER CROSS EXAMINATION, the witness testified that the complainant told him that she left South Norwalk Conn., with the defendant voluntarily and that she wanted to marry him and that she loved him.

OFFICER AUGUSTINE J. WILSON testified that he was an officer of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. He had a conversation with the defendant after his arrest in the Second District Police Court--at Jefferson Market---after his arrest. He, the witness, asked the defendant what he was going to do with the girl and the defendant said that he intended to marry her.

For the defense MARY FURENTINA MARMERO testified that she was the mother of the defendant. He was not quite 13 years of age. She remembered the coming of her son and the complainant from South Norwalk Conn., to her home on or about April 11th, 1890. She was frightened, and she asked the defendant who the girl was. The defendant said that the girl belonged to him. She asked the complainant how old she was and the complainant said that she was fourteen years and six months old. She, the witness, told the complainant that the law would not allow her to marry her son until she was sixteen years of age, and advised her to go back home. Then the complainant told her, the witness, that she had written to her mother to come and take her back home. During the time that the complainant was in her, the witness' house the complainant had slept with her, the witness. At no time, to her knowledge, did her son have sexual intercourse with the complainant. The defendant's character was good.

JOSEPH ANGILONI testified that he lived at 422 East 112th Street. He had boarded with the complainant's mother in South Norwalk.

Counsel for the defendant offered to prove that the witness had been arrested in Connecticut for having sexual intercourse with the complainant and had been fined, but the evidence was excluded.

GIOVANNI MARMERO, the defendant, testified that he did not want to bring the complainant to New York with him but she said, "John, I must go with you; do take me; Don't be afraid of anything, because I am fourteen years old; do take me." She also said, "John, if I will go with you to New York, will you marry me? My father will say nothing." The complainant kept urging him to take her with him day and night, and she cried so much that he made up his mind to bring her with him to New York. He took her to his mother's house intending to keep her there until she was sixteen years of age and then marry her. He told her that he would marry her when she was sixteen years of age. He had had no sexual intercourse with her.

UNDER CROSS EXAMINATION, he testified that the complainant loved him but he did not love her. He brought her to New York to find out whether he could love her before he married her.
