The People } Court of General Sessions. ^{Part I}
 William Stewart } Before Judge Cowing.
 July 9, 1889 - Indictment for grand larceny in the second degree.

Lottie Creamer, sworn and examined, testified. I live No 87 West Third St. I know the defendant a little over a year; on the 24th of June I lived at No 97 Macdonough street; he was working in that house for me; he did cooking for me; on the 24th of June I had a black velvet dress in my ward robe. I paid $110 for it; it was not a year old. I arrested the defendant on that day. I went out in the morning about ten o'clock and did not come back in the afternoon till about five. I met him coming out of my room door with the dress on his arm. I took it away from him. He said he intended to take it to buy himself some clothes, he intended to pawn it. I went next door and got a boy in the grocery store to get a padlock to put on the door. I could not find any officer then. I got the boy to watch it and I came back with an officer;
 he had his things in the stationery

0233

tub when I came back. He was back there again, it was dark, he was down in the basement. Then he was arrested by the officer. I went to the Police station and to the Court the next morning. The pawn tickets now shown me were taken from the defendant in the station house. I went to the pawn brokers and identified those goods. The bed spread was mine and the curtains; the tickets called for them, and they were in my room. Cross Examined. The defendant had been working for me three or four months. I gave him three dollars a week. I had one floor in this house, it was raided, it was a tenement house and the defendant was arrested with the other people. After he was discharged he returned to me. The house was 'pulled' two weeks before he stole my dress because Mr. Randolph the landlord was locked up over two weeks. I met him coming out of the door with my dress in his arm and I immediately accused him of stealing it. I am sure there was no one else present.

George I. Sherwood sworn. I am attached to the Fifteenth precinct and I arrested the defendant on complaint of Lottie Cramer. I had no talk with him. I took him to the station house, I searched him and found those pawn tickets on him for a spread and a pair of curtains. I went to the pawnshop with the woman and she identified them as hers. I am one of the officers who raided the house; it is a tenement house. I cannot remember whether the defendant was one of the persons who was arrested at that raid. I did not see them all.

William Stewart, sworn and examined in his own behalf testified. I ran on the steamer Kaaterskill last summer, and as soon as I left her I went to live in the house of the complainant. I got out of employment; after my boat laid up I got out of employment. I could not get anything to do until the Centennial came. I managed to pay the rent of my room, and all that time I was living in the same house of this lady. I was three days on the Steamer Kanterkill; they used it as a hotel boat; they paid me two dollars a day for working there; they took the boat off and they ran for a passenger line to the Catskills. I was about being put out of my room for not paying rent and she (the complainant) said: "Well, you can come down and do my work." I had no wages. I got 25-cents at a time; the woman was in hard circumstances. I went there to live. cooking for her. I had full charge of her Keys and her room I used to clean her room up for her. She would get up in the morning and eat her breakfast about nine o'clock and I would not see her again till ten or eleven o'clock. On this day in question when I went to clean her room she had that dress and several things lying around. I said to myself, I will put these things away. There was nobody there, and for fear she might lose something, I unlocked her wardrobe and I had to move her velvet dress. I laid it on the chair and put everything in the wardrobe except the velvet dress. So I put everything in the wardrobe. I put the body in the wardrobe, and while I turned round to get the skirt to put it in the wardrobe in Miss Lottie comes with a white gentleman. She said, "What are you doing?" I said, "I am putting your things away." She said, "You are a liar, you are going to steal my dress. I will have you arrested. She gave me the curtains to pawn herself. I pawned things very often for her. One of the tickets is in her name. I gave her the money, and she gave me the money to get some breakfast. She told me to put it away, but without thinking any harm about it I put it in my pocketbook. The property mentioned in those tickets I pawned at her request. I got the money and got something to eat for her. Mr. Silverstein made a mistake in one of the tickets; he knows me well going backward and forward, he made a mistake by putting my name on the ticket. One of the tickets is in my name and the other is in Lottie Crearner's. It is not true what she states that she caught me carrying this dress away and that I said that I intended to pawn it to buy some clothes. She said, "Well, I pity you, and if luck comes my way I will give you something to get some clothes when the time has come for you to go on the boat. I have never been convicted of crime in my life. I did not have any part of her dress on my arm, it was lying on the chair. I had the keys of her room; she would leave them with me in the morning. Then she came I was in the room; she put me out and she made me put up my things. There was no agreement made for wages; she used to give me a dollar, 50 cents, 25 cents just as she had it to spare.

0236

0237

Cross Examined: She took pity on me; she said, "Well, you are out of work and Mr. Randolph is pretty hard on his tenants, and you might as well come down and work for me; "she told me that I could make it my home. I have known her three years; she took me in and gave me money whenever she had it. She treated me very well, I have no fault to find with her; she was friendly with me all the way through; we never had a quarrel. I was at the ward robe putting her things away. I had put that dress and a couple of others away I had taken out the velvet dress out of the wardrobe to make room for a couple more dresses. I put two dresses away and one of them she has on now. I had done the same thing to her ward robe many a time before; she gave me the key; she had implicit confidence in me and allowed me to do that often. she had seen the dress in my hand and she never complained of it before. It was my place to put the things away; if there had been any thing gone I would be responsible for it. I was not going out of the door with her dress on my arm; she accuses me wrongfully. It is false when she said that I told her I was going to pawn it. I guess the curtains were pawned about the 10th of May; she took them from the bureau drawer; they were not hanging up; the drawer was never locked. She did not have any money at that time. I knew of two instances when she sent me to pawn things. I knew one day she sent me to pawn a jersey with Mr. Silverstein; she lost the ticket and I had to make an affidavit about it. When she lived in 82 West Third st. I pawned several articles. I cannot let you see the tickets because she always has the tickets. I pawned that spread and got 50 cents for it and she gave me 25 cents. I was arrested the time the house was raided. We went to Jefferson Market and we were all discharged. That was about two or three weeks before this affair. I slept in the front basement. I am not a married man.

0239

0240

Lottie Crearner recalled. I have heard Stewart testify. I never authorized him to pawn those goods. I never told him to keep the pawn tickets for me. There was a lady friend stopped with me for three weeks and he tried to make me believe that she took the curtains which I missed. I could not find the key to lock the bureau drawer and I put them in the bottom of the middle drawer; they were thick and would not all fit in one drawer. I never pawned those things in my life. I have sent him to pawn jewelry for me. I put the velvet dress in the back of the drawer because I did not want to wear it until the fall. He did my cooking and general housework. There was two pieces to the velvet dress and he had both of them on his arm coming out of the door. I took the dress and a bunch of keys out of his hand.

The jury rendered a verdict of guilty. He was sent to the State prison for two years and six months.
