I respectfully refer this to the judge presiding, calling attention to the withdrawal of the charge by the defendant & the reasons given for the same. My own views are too well known to require repetition, as to the propriety and duty of the authorities charged with the enforcement of the Criminal Law, to save a person when it can be properly done under such circumstances as lead to the conclusion that a useful & honest citizen may be made where another could never be. I am the accused in crime or prevent his returning to honest career. The method by which this can be done is entirely for the judge.

I ask that the defendant be discharged on his own recognizance.

PEOPLE ON MY COMPLAINT, VERSUS

George P. Sauls

October 29th 1890

As complainant in the above case, I beg to recommend the defendant to such leniency and clemency as the Court and District Attorney may see fit to show; but I expressly assert that my reasons for so doing are not controlled by any advantage to myself.

The defendant was in the employ of our firm (of which I am a member), for six months prior to the commission of the act mentioned in the complaint. He had always been a most exemplary young man. He is one of a family of eight children and has always contributed liberally to the support of his father and mother. His family have made restitution to my firm. He is now occupying a position of trust, is giving the best satisfaction and I have no greater to believe that he will henceforth lead a perfectly correct life. I should not hesitate to take him in our employ again. I want to give him every chance and save his family who are eminently respectable from any further shame by reason of his acts. I therefore would ask, if it be proper, that defendant be discharged. I respectfully withdraw my complaint.

New York, October 14, 1890.

Indictment filed October 3rd, 1890.

Indicted for burglary in the third degree.

APPEARANCES.

Assistant District Attorney Jerome, for the People.

Messrs. Sullivan & Blake, for the Defense.

ROSIE COHEN, the complainant, testified that she lived at 149 Rivington Street, one flight up from the street, occupied the front apartment of three rooms. There was only one entrance from the hallway of the house to her apartment, and that was the door leading from the hallway into the kitchen. On September 26th, 1890, at about half past nine in the morning, she went out to make a purchase. She left jewelry in her bureau drawer. The bureau was in the front room near the window. She pulled down the blinds before she went out and when she returned the blinds were up. When she went out, the door leading into the kitchen was secured by a patent lock and a padlock. She returned at about half past ten o'clock. The padlock had been forced off the kitchen door. The door was partly open. She saw the defendant standing at her bureau. He was ransacking the bureau, and had put some of the drawers on the floor. She halloed "Thief, Thief". She was then inside of her room. The defendant closed the door opening into the hall and bolted it and put down in the bedroom the jewelry and other articles that he had in his possession. Then Betsy Scheuer came to the door and knocked and the defendant opened the door and said to her, the complainant, "Don't make so much fuss. Don't call so much. I am a Hebrew and I didn't do anything." She, the complainant, said, "No, I would not, but this is the second time that my place is robbed. I lost $2.00 from the bureau before." Then she, the complainant, called for Mr. Greenberg, the landlord, and he held the defendant, and a little girl went for a police officer, and he came and arrested the defendant. She found the jewelry that had been in her bureau drawer on the floor in her bedroom behind the door.

Under cross-examination the defendant, the complainant said, tried to get away, but she told him that she would not let him go, and she and Betsy Scheuer held him until the police officer came.

ABRAHAM GREENBERG testified that he was owner of the house at 149 Rivington Street. He was standing on the front stoop of the house at about 9 o'clock on that morning -- September 26th, 1890. He had been sweeping the hall, because he kept no janitor. He saw the defendant enter the house. He, the witness, had never seen the defendant before that morning. Shortly after 10 o'clock he saw the complainant enter the house, and a few moments afterwards heard her crying for help. He, the witness, went up stairs and found the complainant's door fastened and heard her screaming inside. He, the witness, went around by the fire escape and got into Mrs. Cohen's apartments. By the time he got in the defendant was standing in the hallway held by Mrs. Cohen and Mrs. Scheuer. The defendant said to him, the witness, "Mr. Greenberg, I am a Jew. I am a poor fellow. Let me go." The officer found a jimmy and a chisel in Mrs. Cohen's bedroom, under a table.

OFFICER JOHN McCULLAUGH testified that he belonged to the Municipal Police of the City of New York. When he reached the complainant's door, he found the defendant in Mr.

Greenberg's custody. Mr. Greenberg handed him, the witness, a padlock and a screw-eye. He, the defendant, when asked where he got them, said that when Mr. Greenberg caught hold of him, he, the defendant, reached out to prevent himself from falling, and caught hold of the padlock, and it came off in his hand. He, the witness, took the defendant to the station house. He noticed marks of a metal instrument having been used on the screw-eye, and he returned to the complainant's apartment, and searched, and found the chisel and the jimmy.

For the defense, Edward Schultz, testified that he was a painter and glazier, and lived at 52 Chrystie Street. On the 25th day of September, while on his way to his work at 169 Hester Street, a man asked him if he was a glazier and painter and he said he was. He, the defendant, had on his overalls and carried a pot of paint. Then the man said, "You can go at Mr. Greenberg's house, in Rivington Street. He has some work for you to do." He went there, next morning, to look for the work. He found the complainant's door open, but he knocked at the door, and asked for Mr. Greenberg. He got no answer and he looked inside, and then he suddenly heard the complainant and Mrs. Scheuer hallaoing, "Thief, Thief." He, the defendant, tried to explain to the complainant, but she was very much excited.

Mr. Greenberg caught hold of him, and commenced to beat him, and sent for an officer. Mr. Greenberg was pushing him, the defendant, around the hallway and he, the defendant, caught hold of the padlock on the complainant's door, and it came off in his hand. He, the defendant, was never inside of the complainant's bedroom, and he did not steal any of her property. The chisel and jimmy did not belong to him.

Under cross-examination the defendant testified that he did not know the man who had told him he could get work at Mr. Greenberg's house. He met him in Hester Street, near the Bowery, on the previous afternoon. He, the defendant, had never been convicted of any offense.

HENRY BERNSTEIN testified that he lived upon the interest of his money, and had known the defendant for about four years. He had employed the defendant as a painter, and his reputation for honesty was good.

WOLF EDELSTEIN testified that he kept a soda water stand at 112 Hester Street. He had known the defendant for five or six months and had never heard anything against his character.

JOSEPH BURGER, carpenter, testified to the same effect, saying that he had known the defendant for 11 months.

D A V I D A L E X A N D E R testified that he was a painter and glazier, and that he knew the defendant, and that his reputation was good. On September 25th he and the defendant were engaged by Mr. Bernstein, at 169 Hester Street, at a job of painting. At dinner time they went to 52 Hester Street, for dinner. They met the man who told the defendant of the work at Mr. Greenberg's house, on their way back from dinner.

Under cross-examination the witness gave an entirely different description of the alleged man from that given by the defendant in cross-examination.

S A R A H B E R N S T E I N testified that the defendant and Alexander were working for her, doing a job of painting, at her grocery, on September 25th, 1890, at 169 Hester Street. She, the witness, was not related in any wise to the witness Henry Bernstein.

B E T S Y S C H E U E R, called in rebuttal by the people, corroborated the complainant's testimony.

The People vs. Louis Schubert

Louis Pollock, patrolman, 10th precinct. On the 7th day of October, 1890, at about three o'clock in the morning, while on my post on the corner of Hester and Elizabeth Streets, I heard a noise like a pistol shot in the direction of Grand Street. I ran towards that street and when I arrived at Grand Street, I heard another shot. I thereupon ascertained that the shots had been fired off in the house 231 Grand Street, and while I tried to open the outer door of said house, two more shots were fired through the said door. The balls did not strike me. In the Station House the defendant said that he fired the shots, because some body was following him.

fendant is employed there

Louis Schubert, 231 Grand Street, Watchman in the banking business of F. Milder at said place.
I fired the shots alleged in the complaint herein, because I believed that burglars wanted to break into the house. I heard repeated efforts to open the outer door of said house. If I had known that or imagined that the complainant was a police officer, I would not have fired the shots. I have been in this country since the month of May this year.
