Testimony in the case of James Conner
filed Sept

1885

14-27
The People } Court of General Sessions. ^{Part I} vs }
James Connerford } Before Recorder Smyth.
Sept. 25. 1883.

Indictment for assault in the first degree, Thomas Costello. I live at 94 Henry st. in this city; on the 15th of Sept. I saw the defendant there. I had some trouble with him between 8 1/2 and 9 o'clock in the evening. I came home from work and went to my bed room and he said I should get out. I told him I would get out when my week was up.
I paid in advance; he followed me into the bed room; he ran into his own room and I saw him pick a hatchet off the sofa. I closed the door and he tried to force it open but I held it against him. He quieted down in a couple of minutes, I sat on the bed and took my coat and hat off; he broke open the door and forced the door in and hit me on the head with the hatchet before I could defend myself; he cut me and made a wound on my head I could not go to work for three days. I got it dressed at the hospital. I rented a room off his wife; he had nothing at all to do with the rooms. About three or four minutes elapsed when I went to sit on the bed and his entrance into the room the second time when he struck me. He did not say a word when he struck me and not a word after it. We had a struggle, I took the ax off him, and a policeman came after a little while and arrested him. I suppose the policeman heard him halloo murder; the policeman has the hatchet. (Hatchet shown) That is the hatchet Cross Examined. There is another boarder beside me at that house; the complainant has a wife and daughter. I did not keep company with his daughter. I never said in the presence of the defendant to his daughter, "Don't you mind the old fellow interfering with you." The defendant's room was five or six steps from mine. I think a young man named Prindle was there when he struck me; he came when the struggle was between me and him; he tried to pacify him I suppose. I could not positively say that he was there when I was struck on the head. The young man is not in Court.

Patrick Higgins sworn. I am an officer of the Seventh Precinct and made the arrest in this case on the night of the 15th of Sept. in 94 Henry St. I was on patrol on that night and I heard cries of "murder." I ran towards the place where I thought it came from I entered there on the second floor and saw the complainant and defendant there; the complainant was cut and blood was running down the side of his neck on his clothes. I asked him what the trouble was? He told me he got struck with a hatchet by Commerford. I looked around for the hatchet and found it in the bed room. I placed the prisoner under arrest, and took them both to the station house. I saw the cut on the head of the complainant. His head was dressed at the station house that night by the doorman, and the next day he went to the Chamber St. hospital and had it dressed. James Commerford, sworn and examined in his own behalf testified. I live at 94 Henry St. on the top floor. Costello has a furnished room in the house. I ordered him out about two weeks before the quarrel and he said he would go out when he pleased, it was none of my business. He told my daughter not to mind me anyway, that I was no good. He told me he would take my life after the assault. He struck me first. I was going to lay the axe in the pantry, and as soon as I did he opened the door and he knocked me down; we had a scuffle, and the axe accidentally struck him.

I did not mean it. This was not in his room, it was at the door in the hallway. I hallowed "murder" for somebody to come and help me. My wife was down stairs and she did not come up. I got away from him and ran down to the next room to another party and shut the door. He ran after me and said, "I will have your life". My wife had me arrested once, she wanted to get me out of the way I suppose. Cross examined. The charge was disorderly conduct; she abused me and I had to pay something back. I was not inside Costello's room that day at all. I did not tell him to go out. I did not come back to his room with a hatchet and did not force the door open; he struck me without any provocation. I was going to put the hatchet in the pantry. I did not strike him with the hatchet that I know of.

Patrick McLaughlin sworn I live in Brooklyn, I am in the junk business at 57 Prince St. I know Cavanaugh about two years. I never knew of his being in trouble before. I was never in the penitentiary. I was fined ten dollars once for being drunk. The jury rendered a verdict of guilty of assault in the second degree.
