The People, Andrew Byrne vs.

226 Avenue B
New York, 1881 -

Sir,

On the 11th of last April I was most brutally assaulted by a gang of ruffians on the corner of 13 St. and 9 Ave. Three of them were arrested and held for trial, but nothing further has been done although I have made frequent applications of your Office, both personally and in writing, to have the cases brought to trial -

The parties openly boast that the matter is all "fixed," and will never be heard from. They also threaten to kill me first opportunity, and only about a week ago waylaid me for that purpose.

That their boasts are not all empty may be inferred from the fact that there is 0627 a similar charge against one of them over 5 years old in the same court, by the same complainant, which has never been tried; and the latter case although occurring over six months ago has never yet got as far as the Grand Jury.

Whatever redress or protection the law may afford me I am fully deter-mined to have, and as I do not like the idea of waiting another 5 years, and perhaps getting killed in the meantime, I am obliged to appeal to yourself, and would most respectfully ask you to inform me if the cases will ever be tried, and if so at what time.

Your early reply will be esteemed as a great favor.
