BROOKLYN SUGAR REFINING CO. :
vs. :
COGSWELL, MAHLER & VANTINE. :
----- x

The defendants in this case were arrested for stealing sugar from Austin, Nichols & Co. The method pursued was for Cogswell (driver for Brooklyn Sugar Refining Co.) to take loads of sugar from said Brooklyn Refinery to be delivered to Austin, Nichols & Co. in New York, but instead of so delivering the goods he disposed of same by selling them to one Collin Vantine, a large retail grocer in Spring-st, for $12 per bbl (and afterwards dividing this money equally with Mahler, Austin, Nichols & Co's receiving clerk) and then driving his truck in the vicinity of Austin, Nichols & Co's store he would go to their receiving department and after handing Mahler (Austin, Nichols & Co's receiving clerk) the weights of the sugar he had sold and delivered to Vantine, Mahler would enter said weights on his receiving books (the same as if he had received the sugars in Austin, Nichols & Co's store) and give Cogswell a receipt for the sugar, which receipt Cogswell would take back to the Brooklyn Refining Co. as his voucher that he had delivered the load of sugar to Austin, Nichols & Co. These receipts while being given by Austin, Nichols & Co's authorized agent were bogus or fake receipts, but Austin, Nichols & Co. paid for said sugars believing they had received them (it being the custom for Austin, Nichols & Co's auditor to check bills to be paid by them from the receiving books kept by Mahler and his associates).

POOR QUALITY

0636

All three parties were arrested in June 1889, the Brooklyn Refining Co. being by order of the Court the plaintiffs and all three defendants were admitted to bail under bond of $1500 each. When arrested by Inspector Byrnes' officers, Mahler and Cogswell confessed to the theft and each of them made a written statement to Inspector Byrnes in the presence of one or two of his officers (See exhibit No. 1 & 2 hereto attached). Vantine confessed to nothing but admitted that he had two barrels of sugar and these were obtained by Officer Heidleberg who arrested them; but Austin, Nichols & Co. cannot identify the sugar and have no direct evidence against him (Vantine).. Subsequent information which has reached Austin, Nichols & Co., and the fact that their entire force of employees in their shipping department are looking forward to the disposition of this case, it would be extremely unfortunate and dangerous if Mahler and Cogswell should not be punished to the full extent of the law as they in reality were the ring leaders in the plot, instigated and planned the way and method of stealing and selling the goods (and then dividing the amount of money received for same between themselves (equally)).

Since Mahler and Cogswell have been about town under bail they are reported as making many statements and doing much talking (of how they would surely be acquitted) which has come direct to the knowledge of Austin, Nichols & Co.'s employees in their shipping department, and for the general safety of merchants engaged in the grocery trade and other branches of business it is very desirable as an example that both Mahler and Cogswell should be severely punished. Subsequent information convinces Austen, Nichols & Co. that Mahler is a rascal and thief and that his confession to Inspector Byrnes does not cover the entire amount of goods stolen, but presume it covers all which can be proven against him.

June 15th 1889.

My name is Henry Mahler; I am 24 years of age; I reside at #44 South 6th Street, Brooklyn, E.D. I make the following statement of my own free will and accord:

I have been employed by the firm of Austin, Nichols & Co. grocers, #61 Hudson Street, since 1883. At the time I was first employed I was placed in the packing room, where I remained for about one (1) year, when I was promoted to the position of market. I filled that position about six months when I was appointed receiving clerk for the firm. I have known George Cogswell, who is a driver for the Brooklyn Sugar Refinery Company, about 5 years. He approached me and said that if I would do as I was requested by him he would be able to dispose of a great deal of sugar which could be stolen from the firm. I began stealing from the firm of Austin, Nichols & Co., about 2 1/2 years ago. At that time Cogswell was given a load of sugar by his employers to deliver to the firm of Austin, Nichols & Co. The number of barrels in the load was 25. When he arrived at my department he only had 24 instead of 25 barrels. I asked him where was the other barrel. He told me he had sold it to some Italian in Roosevelt Street. He didn't tell me how much he received for it but gave me $5. for my share of the proceeds. I then signed a receipt for 25 barrels when I only received 24. Next he took 5 barrels; this was about 2 months after. He didn't tell me where he disposed of them but gave me 25 dollars for my share of the proceeds. I then signed the receipt for the full load of 25 barrels, when there were only 20 in the load. The next time we did it was in July 1887. We suspended our stealing as the firm was taking stock. But just as soon as the firm were through taking stock he took 10 barrels in the same way; This was about September 1887. He gave me $50. as my share of the proceeds. The next occurrence was about Christmas 1887, at which time he took the same amount, 10 barrels, and gave me the sum of $50. I signed the receipt for a full load of 25 barrels when in reality there were only 15. We did not do any more stealing then until March of the next year. In March 1888 he took 15 barrels of sugar and disposed of them and gave me the sum of $75. as my share. I signed the receipt for the full load of 25 barrels, when in reality there were only ten (10) delivered. We did no more stealing after that until the month of July 1888, at which time the stock was again taken. As soon as that had been completed Cogswell and myself arranged to take some more sugar, and in October Cogswell disposed of 25 barrels of sugar in some way and gave me as my share of the proceeds $125. At that time he presented the receipt to me for the full amount of sugar which I signed, but the firm did not receive the load of sugar for which I signed the receipt. In March 1889 Cogswell was given a load of sugar to deliver to the firm of Austin, Nichols & Co. and he came to me and informed me that he had disposed of the said load of sugar for which he paid me the sum of $150. He presented to me the receipt for the load of sugar and I signed it, when in reality the firm

0639

did not receive any of the sugar referred to. The next time was in the latter part of May. In the latter part of that month Coggs well was given a load of Cut Loaf sugar by his employers to deliver to the firm of Austin, Nichols & Co. At that time he came to my place of business and told me that he had disposed of the sugar and handed me the receipt and asked me to sign it. I declined to do so and ordered him to bring the sugar back. He only brought back 10 barrels and said he had disposed of 15 barrels to a grocery store in Spring Street near Mulberry. He delivered the 10 barrels to me and I received at that time from him the sum of $75. and signed the receipt for the full amount of 25 barrels. He generally paid this money to me in a saloon in Duane Street near Greenwich. The places owned by one Erdmann and one Fisher. It is my best judgement that in all there were about three hundred (300) barrels taken. During the past three (3) years while I have been acting for this man Coggs well in defrauding the firm of Austin, Nichols & Co. by signing receipts for sugar not delivered it is my best judgement that there were about three hundred (300) barrels of sugar stolen. The sugars stolen were Granulated Yellow Extra C and a small quantity of Cut Loaf. The greatest part of the sugar taken was Granulated. A man named Tom O'Brien came to my place of business at the time the last load of sugar was taken and disposed of by Coggs well and demanded the sum of $10. I said I didn't have any and he said if I did not give it to him he would expose the manner in which Coggs well and myself had been disposing of the sugar. I denied that there was any truth in his statement and he then informed me that it was he who had delivered the last load to the place in Spring Street by direction of Coggs well. I borrowed ten (10) dollars and gave it to him, and didn't see him again until the following night when I got home and he then and there demanded $20. more. I gave it to him. The Saturday after that he called at my house and demanded $10. more. I gave it to him. Since that time I have given him sums of money amounting to $30. He approached Coggs well for money and demanded $20. but Coggs well refused to give it to him and I gave it to him to keep him quiet. Coggs well said the man in Spring street always scraped off the marks from the barrels so that they could not be identified.

July 15th 1889.

My name is George H. Cogswell; I am 40 years of age; I reside at #114 Division Street, Brooklyn, N.D. I am employed as driver by the Brooklyn Sugar Refining Company, which concern does business at the corner of South 1st Street and Kent Ave. Brooklyn, N.D. I have been employed by this firm about 8 years. I have known Mahler for about 12 years. About 3 years ago Mahler who is employed by Austin, Nichols & Co., asked me if I could dispose of some sugar by selling it, sugar that had been sent by the Sugar Refining Company to Austin, Nichols & Co. He arranged with me that as soon as I would have a load to deliver to the said firm, that I should take one or more barrels and sometimes a truck load, and leave it at some place where I was to arrange to sell it, and I was to go with the receipt to him and he would sign it, after I had disposed of either the whole truck or some portion of it. I would then return the receipt to the Brooklyn Sugar Refining Company. The first barrel of sugar I sold was the one I sold to an Italian in Roosevelt street for 12 dollars, this barrel was one of a load of 25 which I had received from the Brooklyn Sugar Refining Company to deliver to Austin, Nichols & Company. I went to Mahler and delivered to him the other 24 barrels, and he gave me a receipt for the full load of 25 barrels. I gave Mahler 5 dollars as his share of the proceeds of this 66 after I sold this barrel to the Italian, a man whose name I do not know, but whom I know to be employed in New York as a truck driver, came to me and took me to VanTine a grocer at 37 Spring Street, and introduced me to him. I went in and said to VanTine, "I am the man that was sent here to you to see about taking a load of sugar from me" He said "I am the man and any time you have a load of sugar drop it in front of the store, drive away and come around the next day and I will pay you $12. for each barrel that you deliver to me" To the best of my recollection I brought to him three (3) full loads, each load containing 25 barrels. In the latter part of May I got 25 barrels of cut load cube to deliver to the firm of Austin, Nichols & Co. but instead of doing as I was directed I delivered 15 barrels of the load at VanTine's in 37 Spring Street, and the other 10 barrels I took to Austin, Nichols & Co.'s and delivered them to Harry Mahler, the receiving clerk, and received from him a receipt for the full load of 25 barrels, which I had received from my firm to deliver. This receipt I delivered to the firm. About the time that the employees of Thurber, Whyland & Co. were arrested I went to Mahler and told him we had better stop for a while. We would also suspend our stealing while the firm of Austin, Nichols & Co. were taking stock. This was done at the request of Mahler. About Christmas 1887 I took 10 barrels and left them with VanTine in 37 Spring Street and gave Mahler 50 dollars as his share. On three different occasions I gave Mahler the sum of $150. as his share of the proceeds of a full truck load of sugar that I received from my firm to deliver to Austin, Nichols & Co. In March 1889 I also gave him $150. as his share of a full truck load of sugar consigned to Austin, Nichols & Co. on each and every instance where I sent sugar

I sold it to this man Vantine, with the exception of one barrel I sold to the Italian in Roosevelt Street. Sometimes there would be a mark "A & C" on the lid of the barrels, and sometimes on the bilge of the barrels there would be the letter "G" meaning Granulated, and sometimes "F.G.", meaning Fine Granulated, painted in red. These marks Vantine told me were scraped off to prevent the barrels from being identified as the property of Austin, Nichols & Co. I delivered all the sugar myself except one load which O'Brien delivered for me. One day last March I was coming over the river with a load of sugar, O'Brien jumped on the truck and I told him I was going to sell this load of sugar to a man at No. 37 Spring Street, and offered him $10. if he would deliver it for me which he did. I took the receipt and went down town and had it signed. When he got the truck unloaded he came down and met me. The next day I went to Vantine and received from him the sum of $600. To the best of my judgement the number of barrels stolen is about three hundred (300).

New York, June 16th 1889.

I Thomas O'Brien, of Number 113 North Second Street, Williamsburgh, New York, says: I have known George Cogswell about 18 years; I have worked with him as a driver for the Brooklyn Sugar Refining Company. On or about March 12, 1889, I was standing around the Brooklyn Sugar Refining Co's premises awaiting employing, when I was met by Cogswell, who asked me to take a ride with him to New York. I got on the truck with him and when on the ferry boat crossing from Williamsburgh, he took from each barrel of sugar which he had on his truck, the weights of each; and informed me that he was going to sell the load of sugar, instead of delivering it to Austin, Nichols & Co., to whom it was consigned; he then asked me if I would deliver the load of sugar to a grocer named Ventine, at 37 Spring Street, we drove to Mulberry Street and when within two hundred feet south of Spring Street he stopped the truck containing the load of sugar and left the same in my charge, while he absented himself about ten minutes, at which time he returned and told me to deliver the sugar to a grocer at 37 Spring Street, he further told me that some of the clerks there would assist me to unload the truck; I did as he had directed and as soon as had unloaded the truck, the grocer Van Tine handed me a piece of paper with some numbers on it for a receipt which I gave to Cogswell, when I met him at the corner of Hudson and Franklin Streets where he told me to drive to as soon as I delivered the sugar; I gave him the piece of paper which Ventine had given me and he laughed and gave me ten dollars. He, Cogswell then informed me that he had called on Henry Mahler being duly sworn deposes and says that he is one of the defendants named in the above proceeding. That immediately upon his arrest he voluntarily gave information relating to the crime committed by him and others, and in every way within his power sought to protect those whom were wronged by his conduct and that of the others associated with him. That deponent prior to the time set forth in the indictment had led an honest and upright life, and had neither been charged nor arrested, nor had he committed any offence against the laws of this or any other state. That at the time of the commission of the offence he was twenty-one years of age, and through evil associates and influences he was led to commit the crime charged against him. That no member of his family prior thereto, or since, had ever been guilty of committing an offence against the laws. That he bitterly repents his transgression of the law and has lived ever since an honorable life. Deponent further says that he is a married man living with his wife and child in the City of Phila-

That he is very anxious to be relieved from the only cloud hanging over him and solemnly pledges to so live and conduct himself as to continue to be a decent and respectable member of society. Besides all this he has an aged mother for whom he entertains the strongest possible love and affection.

Deponent further says that he desires to plead guilty to the charge, to throw himself upon the mercy of the court in order that the indictment may be disposed of.

City and County } ss.:
of New York,

Herman Doscher
of No. 51 South 4th Street, Brooklyn, aged 42 years, occupation Shipping Clerk being duly sworn deposes and says, that on the 24th day of May 1889 at the City of New York, in the County of New York, was feloniously taken, stolen and carried away from the possession of deponent, in the day time, the following property, viz:

Fifteen (15) Barrels of Cut Leaf Sugar, in all of the value of three hundred and thirty dollars the property of The Brooklyn Sugar Refining Company

and that this deponent has a probable cause to suspect, and does suspect, that the said property was feloniously taken, stolen, and carried away by George H. Cogswell and Henry Mahler, both now here, for the reasons following, to wit: That deponent is Shipping Clerk for said Company. That on said day deponent shipped two loads of Sugar comprising fifty Barrels, to the firm of Christian Nichols & Company on the Corner of Hudson and Jay Streets. That deponent is now here informed by James C. Nichols, a member of the firm of Christian Nichols and Company, that said firm did not receive fifty Barrels shipment, but that they only received thirty-five barrels of sugar out of the whole number shipped.

That the defendant Cogswell is a driver in the employment of said Brooklyn Sugar Refining Co., and had charge of the sugar so shipped on said day to said firm of Austin Nichols & Co. That defendant is further informed by said James C. Nichols that the defendant Mahler is the Receiving Clerk of said firm. That defendant is informed by Officer Heidelberg, here present, that the defendant Cogswell admitted to him, said officer, that he, Cogswell, delivered 15 barrels of said sugar, so shipped as aforesaid to said firm, to Collins Pansine, at No. 37 Spring Street, and received from said Pansine the sum of twelve dollars per barrel, said sugar being worth at the time the sum of twenty-two dollars per barrel. That the defendant, Cogswell, further admitted to said officer that he, Cogswell, gave half of the money so received from Pansine for said sugar to the defendant Mahler. That the defendant Mahler, admitted to said officer that he, Mahler, receipted for said fifty barrels of sugar as having been received by said firm when he knew that only 35 barrels had been received; and that he had received from the defendant, Cogswell, one half the money obtained from the sale of the sugar so stolen.

That deponent is further informed by officer Heidelberg that on the morning of the 17th instant (he said officer found two (2) barrels of said stolen sugar in the possession of said Van Dine at No. 37 Spring Street.

That deponent, therefore, charges the defendants Cogswell and Makler with having stolen said property, and deponent charges the defendant Collin Van Dine with having knowingly and feloniously received said property, (he Van Dine, well knowing at the time that said property was stolen.

That deponent is informed and believes that said defendants have at other times stolen in all about three-hundred barrels of sugar shipped by deponents Company to said firm and and that all of said stolen property, except one barrel, was sold by them to said Van Dine.
