The People
vs.
Thomas Welsh .

Court of General Sessions, part I.
Before Recorder Smyth.

January 12, 1836.

Indictment for assault in the first degree.

Stephen Baker sworn. I am steward on board of the brig Charles Dunkin, she belongs in Halifax, Nova Scotia, she was lying at Pier G, foot of Counties slip in this city on the 19th of December, the defendant was mate on that ship one voyage with me, I shipped at Boston with him one voyage to the West Indies about two and a half months before this happened, we went from New York to some port in St. Domingo and we came back here to New York, I saw the defendant on the morning of the 19th of December after he turned out, I was in the galley attending to my cooking, it was about a quarter to six in the morning; he said to me, what in the hell are you making so much noise for? I said I am not making a noise. He said, you son of a bitch I will let you know whether you are making a noise and he made a rush at me right by the galley door; he says directly after that, you son of a bitch I will split your brains open. He then turned and went for the ax, I was by the door, I stepped out on the back and the next minute I saw him have the ax and the blow struck me on the head I dropped my head down and he struck me in the eye and he struck me across the back; the doctor told me there was a piece off my back bone; it was the back of the ax that he struck me with when he struck me on the head but after that I could not tell you whether it was the handle or not for I had my head down. The ax now shown me is the one that he used. I went in and tried to wash the blood off my face. I did not see the defendant after I came out of the galley, I remember an ambulance coming about half an hour after that, I was helped in, I think it was by two detectives, I was taken to the Chamber Street Hospital first and then I was transferred from that to the New York Hospital where I remained about two weeks and a half. When I was discharged I went to the Police Court and made a complaint.

Cross Examined. I got up that morning about five o'clock. One of the captain's children was sick the night before with croup, I made no noise that morning when he said for me to keep quiet because the captain's children were sick, I did not come out of the galley to quarrel with him. When I came out of the galley I did not intend to fight him, I was about my cooking, I do not suppose I was there more than two seconds before he struck me with the ax. We never fought until at the forward hatchway. I have a block there upon which I split wood, it is not a fact that I grabbed him by the lapel of the coat that morning, I put up my hands to keep him away, it is not a fact that we both grappled and fell and that I received the wounds on the side of my head when I fell down, I did not renew the quarrel after I came out of the galley, it did not seem over five minutes, the whole of this occurrence. It is not a fact that subsequent to the time when this quarrel first commenced when the mate was walking up and down poop deck that I went behind him and assaulted him and that it was then he struck me down, I never said a word to him, he did not knock me down.

Edward O'Grady sworn. I am a police officer attached to the third precinct and remember the 19th of December last. I went on board this brig lying at Pier 6, East River at eight o'clock with Officer VanRanst about eight o'clock, the ambulance was telegraphed for, Baker was in the galley with his head bandaged up and his hand under his chin, I asked him who assaulted him and he said Thomas Welsh, he said he had left the ship and went on the dock, I looked for Welsh on the ship but did not find him and found him at a quarter to eleven that morning corner of Counties Slip and South Street, he was in company with the captain, I asked him if he was the party that had trouble with Baker and he said yes they had a little difficulty, I asked him if he assaulted him with the ax and he said he did not. Welsh's head was bandaged so that I could not see the scars on his forehead, I saw no scars or marks on Welsh, there was a large lump and mark under Baker's eye, he was taken to the Chamber Street hospital and from there transferred to the New York Hospital. The ax was found on board the brig and was handed to me by a sailor that was there. We took the ax to the property clerk and it remained there from that time up to the present. The complainant was assisted into the ambulance, he complained about having pains around his body.

Horace VanRanst sworn. I am an officer attached to the 3rd precinct and was with Officer O'Grady when he went on board this ship. I saw Baker there, he looked very bad, I never thought the man would be able to get out again, I noticed the blood all streaming from his head.

and there was a big lump under his eye, he was assisted into the ambulance. I had a conversation with the defendant and told him the charge Baker made against him. He said they had a scuffle and he must have fell and struck his head on the ax. Welsh had no marks on his face.

Thomas Welsh sworn and examined in his own behalf. I have been mate of this vessel since the 20th of August and have been going to sea thirty-two years. I was never arrested for assault or for anything in my life. I do not know what time the cook got up that morning but I have often told the man not to make so much noise when he got on deck because the captain had his wife and children on the ship and he had to go to the scuttle which a boy ten years old could lift easily without injuring himself and he used to chuck it around and make a noise. This morning in question I said to him, can't you get along without making such a noise as this? He says, what is the matter with you, I told him I would not allow him to make any such noise as that in the mornings and his answer was, you cannot help yourself. One word borrowed another, I tried to get into the galley and he shrunk out, I left the galley and walked forward to have a look at the ropes because it was late the evening previous when I made the ship fast and this man followed me out of the galley as far as the fore-castle and I could not get any further unless I went overboard; he grappled with me and we had a scuffle, I struck him with my hands and he struck me, he fell down where those barrels were, the ax I never saw that morning, I left him lying there, I walked the quarter-deck afterward with my hands in my pockets, I did not care about having any rows with anybody, after he went in the galley to his work he came aft again, he says to me I will make you ^{pay} ~~up~~ for this, and resumed the quarrel again and I struck him on the main deck and knocked him against where the bulwarks are at the main hatch and that is the last I know of it, I cannot remember whether he assaulted me the second time before I struck him or not; it was a continued quarrel between both of us. This second time when he came up to me he struck at me again, he grappled me the first time before I struck him, I went to Mr Williams office after that, I did not try to get away, the captain and I were walking together when I was arrested, I am positive I did not see the ax that morning and I did not use it on the complainant.

Cross Examined. The ax is the cook's ax which is used for chopping wood in the galley. It was my place to speak any man on board the ship whenever unnecessary noise was made, I did not strike him in the galley, I went in there to argue the point with the man and he followed me out, I walked around to where the other hatch is and when I turned around the man was along side of me and grabbed me, he struck me all around the face very likely, I don't know where the man struck me, I hit him in the face I suppose, I think the man fell and I walked right away to the other end of the ship, I did not see any blood on him at that time, I never took notice that he had a black eye. The second blow that I gave him knocked him down, I did not feel the second blow very much which he gave me. After I left Mr Williams' office I stood on the corner of South

Street talking to a good many men. I did not take any breakfast that morning until I got to Police Headquarters and sent out for some. I do not think I made the remark to the officer that the complainant must have fallen upon the ax and cut himself in that way.

Horace NavRanst recalled. The ax now produced is the one that was got on board of the vessel, it is in the same condition now as when I got it, I have not washed it since.

Byrne Galludet sworn. I am a medical doctor connected with the New York Hospital, I remember Stephen Baker being received in the hospital on the 10th of December last, I treated him, he was in a condition of general weakness, that is, his pulse was low and his general surface was cold and he gave the general symptoms of having received a severe shock to the brain. That was all the external signs of violence about him except a mark on his scalp on the left side if I remember, rather long cut with considerable blood underneath the skin; the other symptoms indicated that he received a severe shock to the brain or as we call it cerebral concussion but he did not show the symptoms of extreme shock, he had no paralysis, his sensations were normal, he was conscious, he had a slight loss of power and sensation in his left arm and there was a special line of pain and tenderness along the spinal column extending a little below the neck. There was a combination of a contusion and a lacerated wound upon his head which I should think must have been made with some blunt instrument.

I think there was a swelling over the left eye. The jury rendered a verdict of guilty of assault in the second degree.

Amos Wilson

To this Honorable Court and the Honorable District Attorney.

City and County of New York:

William Koebler your petitioner being duly sworn says:
that he made the charge upon which the above defendant was indicted for assault in the second degree on the 21st day of January, 1886, that since said indictment was found deponent has caused to be made an inquiry as to the general character and reputation of the said defendant Amos Wilson and has found that he is a man of good habits and good character and standing in the community.
That upon a thorough investigation he has also found that when the defendant fired the pistol on the 15 day of January 1886 about 3 o'clock P. M. of that day in the slip between piers 2 & 3 East River New York City, while standing upon his boat "Lieut Genl Grant" he the said defendant fired said pistol not at this deponent, nor at any other person but against the side of an Iron Ship lying in said slip and without any felonious intent of doing this deponent or any other person any bodily harm and that the only object the said defendant had in firing off said pistol was to frighten the persons who were in the act of casting off the line which held the said boat "Genl Grant" in safety at her moorings and which was then rightfully fastened to said Steamship lying nearly adjoining said boat "Grant".

 That this deponent is now informed that said line was being wrongfully cast off from said Steamship and had it been cast off, there would have been great danger of doing great damage to the said canal boat "Grant"

That deponent is by occupation a Steward and was present at the time of the occurrence set forth in the affidavit upon which the indictment was found herein by the Grand Jury, that he resides at N° 87 Degraw Street Brooklyn N.Y. and has resided in the City of Brooklyn for 12 years last past

That deponent has ascertained that the defendant is a boatman and has followed the water for a livelihood for 10 years last past and is a married man and has as above set forth never heretofore been in any difficulties or been charged with any criminal acts.

Wherefore this deponent respectfully asks this Honorable Court that he may be permitted to withdraw the charges of felonious intent of the defendant to do him grievous bodily harm made in his affidavit dated January 16, 1886 upon which with other evidence the Honorable body the Grand Jury indicted the defendant of Assault in the Second Degree on the 21st day of January 1886

Amos Wilson, now here, who illegally fired off and discharged the contents of one barrel of a pistol at deponent, which pistol he, Amos, held in his hands aimed and pointed at deponent.
That deponent was in the act of shifting a line fastening a Canal boat to a Steamship lying at Pier 2 East River when the said deponent, who stood on board of the Canal boat, said to deponent: "Make that line fast you son of a bitch or I'll put a bullet in you," and a moment before his saying so deponent heard a shot and saw the pistol in his hand. That deponent was so assaulted

with the felonious intent ~~to take the life of deponent~~ to do him grievous bodily harm; and without any justification on the part of the said assailant

Wherefore this deponent prays that the said assailant may be apprehended and bound to answer
