City and County of New York, SS:

William J. McCormick being duly sworn deposes and says; that he is a detective of plain, attached to the 13th Precinct, this city; that on the 9th day of September, 1937, the apartments of a woman named Pauline Smith, at No. 390 Eighth Street in this city, were broken into, and a suit of clothes and a silk dress of the value of eighty dollars were stolen. Mrs. Smith on discovering the robbery immediately reported it to the Station House, and left with the Sergeant in charge, a blacksmith's tool which she had found in her rooms; that deponent was directed by the Sergeant to investigate the burglary, and went in search of the owner of the said tool. Deponent found that it belonged to a blacksmith named Moran, in Lewis Street, and from the description given deponent by the said Moran, of the man who had borrowed the said tool, deponent concluded that Higgins was the man. Deponent subsequently learned that the said Higgins discovering that he was suspected of the burglary in question, caused himself to be arrested, under a fictitious name, for disorderly conduct, in the 10th Precinct. Higgins was committed on this charge by Justice Duffy, to the Island for fifteen days. Deponent saw Justice Puffy on the morning following, and received his discharge, and re-arrested him on Blackwell's Island on the morning of Thursday, and upon his being received at the said facility, he admitted in the presence of the Warden and two keepers of the prison, that he, with one of his named Charles W. Davis, had committed the burglary. In the evening deponent arrested said Davis.

Deponent further says that he did not charge the said Higgins with a burglary committed on the 6th of September, as he, the said Higgins, in his application states, but, on the contrary, charged him with a burglary committed on the 8th day of September; that the statement of the said Higgins in his said application to the effect that he exhibited his discharge papers to Justice Puffy, on his examination, is wholly false and untrue. On the contrary, he admitted to the Justice that he did commit the said burglary. That the statement in his said application, that the Justice discharged him, is also false and untrue - he having searched him for examination. That the statement in his application to the effect that he went home to his mother and told her what had happened &c., is also false and untrue. - he, the said Higgins being at the time on Blackwell's Island serving a term of fifteen days. That the statement in his application, that he was arrested while leaving the ferry, is also false and untrue - deponent having arrested him on Blackwell's Island, - this being the only time that he was addressed on said charge. That the statement in his application to the effect that the pawn-broker could not identify him, being also untrue, as the said Higgins having told the pawn-broker that he accompanied the man who had pawned the article.

Deponent further says, that at the Court of General Sessions, this defendant was willing to plead guilty to said charge, but that the said Davis, his accomplice, would not so plead, and that on that account, they were returned back for trial.

Deponent further says, that to the best of his knowledge, information and belief, each and every of said statements in his (Higgins) said application are wholly false and untrue. The said name, Higgins, under which he was convicted, being a fictitious name, his real name being John Howell; and that he has already served four terms of imprisonment, he being arrested by deponent in 1884, for burglary, for which he served a term of five years.

Charles W. Davis and David Higgins.

Court of General Sessions, Part I.

Before Recorder Smyth.

Indictment for burglary in the third degree.

Tuesday, October 11, 1937.

Pauline Smith sworn and examined, testified. I am married and live at 706 East 8th Street, I keep a fishing tackle store and my room is over the store; on the 9th of September I had in my bed-room a silk dress and my boy's suit, which were worth seventy dollars and which were stolen. I have two rooms upstairs, I left the room at eleven o'clock in the morning and everything was in order, the clothing was there when I locked the door and went down into my store. At four o'clock in the afternoon I returned to my room, the door was closed, I found a pillow taken off the pillow-case, I went into my son's bed-room and I found an iron tool on his bed, that was not there when I locked up and it did not belong to me; the tool looked like a little knife on the top and about an inch thick, like a big file. I found five marks on the door, the door was locked, I have got a psring lock; there is only one door through which anyone could get in. I saw that the ward-robe door was wide open, which I left closed when I went down stairs, I locked and found that my boy's suit and my silk dress were gone; Officer McCormack got my boy's suit back but I never got my silk dress.

Cross Examined. I saw the defendant, Davis, standing on the corner in the morning, opposite my house, I looked at Davis because I was curious to see why he was standing there so long, I did not see the other prisoner.

William J. McCormack sworn. I am an officer of the 13th precinct and arrested the defendants; on the 9th of September Mrs. Smith came to the Station House and reported the burglary and brought the tool with her which she said had been left on the bed, I traced the ownership of that tool, to a blacksmith in Lewis Street and from a description of the man who borrowed the tool from the blacksmith corresponded exactly with the prisoner Higgins I learned that he had been arrested and I procured his discharge from Judge Duffy from the Work House and I arrested him on the charge of this burglary. He says, what is this trick for? I says, it is for that burglary in 6th Street. He says, "you got me right." I said, "yes, I have got you dead right." He says, "who has been giving you this?" I said, "it is all right, I have got everything straight." He said, "the man that done this is Davis and he is trying to put me in a hole"; I brought him down to Court and had him arraigned before Judge Duffy and he told the judge that Davis was the man who done the job and he, Higgins, pawned the goods. He told where he pawned them at 279 Stanton Street, I went there and procured the suit of clothes which Mrs. Smith identified as her boy's.

Bernard Horan sworn. I identify ^{Higgins} ~~him~~ as the man who came into my shop and borrowed this knife, as he said, to open a can of tomatoes, I never saw the knife till the detective brought it back, I cannot positively say that Higgins was the man but he looks like him.

Magdeline Pulking sworn. I live at 310 8th Street, Davis was in my store between eight and nine in the morning and another man came in and they were fooling me.

Benjamin Aufses sworn. I am a pawn broker at 279 Stanton Street, I recognize the prisoner Davis as the one who pledged the suit of clothes with me in the early part of September, Mrs. Smith's son came with the officer and identified them, the man who pledged them gave the name of Higgins.

Charles W. Davis sworn. I live at 153 Vanderbilt Avenue, Brooklyn, I have been in the State Prison on a charge of burglary but I had nothing to do with this burglary, I did not pawn this property and know nothing about it. I got out of prison on the 19th of November, 1885.

David Higgins sworn and examined. I am going on thirty years old and was in the State Prison for three years and seven months and returned the 5th of September last. I know nothing of this burglary and did not borrow the tool from the blacksmith, I was arrested for drunkenness and sent to the Work House, the officer arrested me from there and took me into a liquor saloon and gave me whiskey, I told him I knew nothing of this burglary.

The Jury rendered a verdict of guilty of receiving stolen goods against Davis and of burglary in the third degree against Higgins.

Indictment filed September 12th 1887.

New York, September 26th 1887.

APPEARANCES: For the People, Assistant District
Attorney, Ambrose H. Purdy.

For the Defendant, Frederick B.
House, Esq.

Edward L. Snyder, a witness for the people, testified:

I am in the wine and liquor business. About the first of July this prisoner, Michael Dolan, called at my place of business, No. 131 Front Street, and presented a paper having upon it the names of a good many persons as contributors to the Bartenders Union. I simply read the heading of the paper; he told me that he was collecting for the Bartenders Union and I gave him $10. I beleived his story, and presumed he was the proper representative of the Barkeeper's Union. I am sure that is the man who visited me. Afterwards the regular collector for the Bartender's Union, called on me, and I informed him that I had paid $10. to this man, and I found out this man Dolan, was not authorized to collect.

0531

-- D E F E N S E . --

Mr. House:- ~~The Kiff. Council~~ hat he is not a member of the Association known as the Bartender's Union, or is a collector, nor authorized to collect.

Michael Dolan, the Defendant, testified:-

I did not visit the place of business of the last witness, who testified here . I never presented any subscription list to him. The man is mistaken when he says I did. I served a term of nine years in the Eastern Penitentiary in Philadelphia for burglary. I was in Philadelphia in the a early part of last July from the 5th to the 18th. I came home on the 19th.

Cross-examination.

I was arrested once before a short time since, for personating an officer, and I was discharged on the ground that it wasn't any crime to ~~sell~~ tickets, and represent myself to be a policeman. I was also arrested once before for ~~selling~~ tickets. I came out of the penitentiary on the 16th of October, two years ago.
