 vs P. Mortensen } Court of General Sessions. Part 7
 Indictment for larceny and receiving stolen goods. } Before Judge Cowing. July 6. 1881

Samuel Lewis, sworn and examined testified. I am the complainant and live at 61 Market St. I remember the 23^d of June when I lost my watch; it was a small gold Dutch watch. I had it in my vest pocket through the button hole; the chain was a metal chain worth about four dollars. I was lying on a lounge 61 Market St; it is a sailor's boarding house. I just came that morning. I belong in New York and came from Liverpool. I went to sleep about 7 o'clock in the evening with the watch in my pocket and when I woke up after eight it was gone. I did not see the prisoner in the house that night; the watch and chain were gone. I saw it the next day in a watchmaker's shop in Catherine St, but there was no chain there. The next morning the prisoner told me that he took the watch and pawned it in Catherine street somewhere, I don't exactly know where. Cross Examined. I bought the watch about six years ago and paid thirty five dollars for it. There were only two men in the boarding house at the time I fell asleep in the sitting room that night. Patrick Moran, sworn. I keep a store in No 19 Catherine St. and sell watches, jewelry and musical instruments. I remember the 24th of June. I guess it was the night of the 23^d of June I saw him

Tell us what happened between you and him? He came in and asked me would I buy a watch I asked him to let me see it. I says, "Where did you get it?" and he looked around and said, "I bought it here. I looked inside the watch and then I saw that he did not buy it off me because I have a private mark inside the watches that I sell. I said, 'You have not bought it here,' he said, 'I bought it on this street some place. How much did you pay for it?' I paid eighteen dollars. 'That is about the value of it and I kind of believed him. He says, 'Give me six dollars and I will take it back in a week, I need some money to night.' I said, 'No, I'll tell you what I will do, I will give you five dollars and I will charge you a dollar for putting a fly spring in it.' He said, 'All right,' he gave me his name; he said, 'Good night, you won't forget to have it for me.' I put a card on it. The next morning Officer English came around. I told the officer I gave him five dollars and he gave me a dollar for repairing it. Cross Examined. You never had seen this man before? Not until then. What time of night was it? It must have been about 9 o'clock. Did the officer come in with him the next morning? He did, sir. What is the value of that watch? The value retail is about eighteen dollars. Where is it now? I do not know, sir, the officer has got it, I guess.

Patrick English, sworn and examined, testified. Have you got that watch officer? Yes sir. Where is it? At the property clerk. Did you arrest the prisoner? Yes sir. Did he make a statement to you? He did, sir. What was it? He said he took the watch and sold it in Catherine St. I took it from this man. Cross Examined. What did you say to him? I asked him where it was? He said he did not know but he would come along and show me; it was some place in the Bowery. When was this conversation, before or after you made the arrest? At the time I made the arrest. Hans P. Mortensen, sworn and examined in his own behalf testified. Where do you live? I live where I am at home in Denmark. How long have you been in this Country? I have been sailing out of America about nine years. Tell us what you know about this watch? I was in the house that night between six and eight o'clock, I don't know exactly which. I was there with the intention of getting my supper. Supper was over. What is this, a sailors boarding house? Yes sir, and I went into the corner saloon, I had a lunch and a glass of beer, and when I came out I walked down Monroe Street. A fellow came up and asked me if I wanted to buy a watch? I said, "No, I did not want to buy it." I thought it was one of those brass things, I was taken in once before; he kept bothering me. I told him I had no money to buy a watch. He said he would give it for what I had. All I have is a little over two dollars, I said. I gave him two dollars. I went to Catherine street and sold it. Do you know this man that was on the stand, the man who said he was a jeweler? Yes sir. After I sold the watch I went into the corner saloon there and I had one or two glasses of beer. A fellow at the door asked me if I did not want to play checkers? I said, No, I had one or two glasses of beer, and from that time I knew nothing till the next morning. I found myself in some alleyway without a coat or without a cent in my pocket. They must have dosed me. I was not sober, I was not drunk. I took myself home. I asked the jeweler if the watch was worth five dollars? He said, yes. He said he would not buy it, but he would let me have five dollars on it. Did you tell him that you bought the watch there? I do not remember if I told him anything of the kind. I had been drinking that day and the day before. I came ashore on Tuesday. The officer and the man who lost the watch ordered me out of bed. I told him I had the watch in my possession but I did not tell him I stole the watch from Lewis. The jury rendered a verdict of guilty. His Honor sentenced the prisoner to the State prison for the period of two years.
