C H A R G E

Opinion of the Jury:

This defendant, John Alitta, is charged with stealing the sum of Eighty dollars from this complainant. A person who steals money between Twenty-five and Five hundred dollars in amount commits the crime of grand larceny in the second degree.

According to the complainant's statement she placed in the keeping and custody of this defendant, as her agent, about Eighty dollars. If that is true defendant was bound to return it to her, and if he appropriated it to his own use with the intention of defrauding her of that money, he committed the crime of grand larceny in the second degree.

According to her story, after she had entrusted this money to ^{the} defendant, he put it in his trunk and after a few days they left the place they were stopping at and procured lodgings in Sullivan Street. Thus it appears that they lived first at Bertini's place and then took up their lodgings in Sullivan Street; and the complainant claims that the prisoner went back to Bertini's after they left and took the trunk and her money and went off, and she did not see him again until nearly two years after, when she had him arrested.

If it is true, and it is for you to determine whether it is or not, that he took this money with the intention of stealing it, and with the intention of depriving her of her property, then he is guilty of grand larceny. One of the people's witnesses swears that about a year after the loss he met the defendant at his place of business, and the defendant told him that he, the defendant, took the money and he intended to pay it back as quick as he could get it; if that is true, that is an acknowledgment that he had it, and if he did have it and appropriated it to his own use with the intention of depriving this complainant of it he is guilty of grand larceny in the second degree.

The defendant denies that he ever had any money of the complainant's and gives as a reason for leaving that from jealousy he was obliged to leave her and he wanted to go back to see his wife - to go to Philadelphia, - and that the night before she had threatened his life, and for these reasons he left; and he denies taking any portion of this money.

You have heard the witnesses on both sides and observed their manner of testifying, and it is for you to determine which one of the witnesses you are going to believe.

If you believe the defendant's statement that he did not take her money it goes without saying that he should be acquitted.

8

Defendant claims that this woman from jealousy resorted to this prosecution against him because he refused to live with her; that is the theory which the defendant has set up, and it is for you to determine how far it is borne out by the evidence in this case. If you have a reasonable doubt in this case as to his guilt or innocence taking the whole of the evidence into consideration you will give defendant the benefit of the doubt and acquit him; but if you have no reasonable doubt, and believe he feloniously and fraudulently appropriated this money to his own use with the intention of depriving this complainant of it, then your verdict will be guilty as charged in the indictment. The case is with you.
