To the Memory of a Friend

We miss thy voice while early flowers are blooming,
And the first flush of blossom clothes each bough,
And the spring sunshine round our home is glowing,
Soft as thy smile - thou wouldst be with us now!

With us! - we wrong thee by the earthly thought -
Could our fond gaze but follow where thou art,
Well might the glories of this world seem naught
To the one promise given the pure in heart.

Get wert thou best seen here - oh! ever blest
In thine own sunny thoughts and tranquil faith;
The silent joy that still overflowed thy breast,
Needed but guarding from all change, by death.

So is it sealed to peace! - on thy clear brow
Never was care one fleeting shade to cast,
And thy calm days in brightness were to flow,
A holy stream untroubled to the last!

Farewell! thy life hath left surviving love
A wealth of records and sweet "feelings given,"
From sorrows heart the faintness to remove,
By whispers breathing "less of earth than heaven."

Thus rests thy spirit still on those with whom
Thy step the path of joyous duty trod,
Bidding them make an altar of thy tomb,
Where chastened thought may offer praise to God!

A Farewell Song.

I go sweet friends! yet think of me
When springs low voice awakes the flowers,
For we have wandered far and free
In those bright hours — the whole to hours!

I go but when you pause to hear
From distant hills, the sabbath bell
On summer's wind float silvery clear
Think of me then I loved it well!

Forget me not around your hearth,
When clearly shines the ruddy blaze;
For dear hath been its hour of mirth
To me, sweet friends! in other days.

And oh! when music's voice is heard
To melt in strains of parting woe!
When hearts to tender thoughts are stirred,
Think of me then! I go, I go!

Twine the laurel wreath for me!
 Mingle roses rose thurine!

Twine

Twine the laurel wreath for me
 O

Sleep, My Darling!
Sleep my darling sleep, and I will keep
Over thy slumbers and thy dreams,
Till through the quiet night, until the morning light
Awakes thee with its glorious, shining beams.

Oh me! this fitful life! this weary, weary strife!
Oh! but for one hour's rest like thine!
Tis not for such as me this blessed rest to see
Until I've crossed oblivion's dark line.

Then sleep, my darling sleep, while I wake and weep
Over my dead ambition's grave!
And may'st thou never work, into thy heart to take
These sorrows which I'd give my life to save!

Twine the laurel wreath for me!
There's not a rose therein!
For for me life hath no roses—
Naught but bitterness and pain;
Round my heart the cypress binds her,
Twine the laurel for my brow!
Till the roses from my pathway
Drooped and faded long ago.

For the laurel is an emblem
Of the fame which I would win;
I had the cypress of the sorrow
And the bitterness within.
Once, methought the brightest roses
Bloomed along life's path for me;
Now I bid thee twine the laurel—
There's no rose upon life's tree!

Will you think of me when I am gone,
When friends are round thy way?
I care not for the anarchy
Of the giddy and the gay.

The autumn leaves are
Sweeter than the birds
Of December.

Henry Gunston

And when it fades as roses will
Thy cast is not away.

Give ear unto the Lord, O ye mighty, give unto the Lord glory and strength.

Give unto the Lord the glory due unto his name: worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness.

The voice of the Lord is upon the waters; the God of glory thundereth;
The Lord is upon many waters.
