you scold me, " and then Rocco Capodeno struck the complainant with his fist in the neck and knocked the complainant down and when he tried to get up and run, the other defendant, Pasquale Baraglio, took a knife and cut the complainant. He cut him right alongside of the eye and downward towards the chin. After the cutting he, the complainant, ~~he~~ and the defendant ran away. Both the defendants ran away. The complainant saw the knife in the defendant's hand when he received the cut. The complainant did not run after the defendants because he was afraid. A couple of the complainant's friends saw a policeman and told the policeman to arrest the defendant. This occurred about 11 o'clock in the night time. The complainant never saw any of the defendants before.

Under cross examination, the complainant testified that nobody was with him at the time of the cutting. He, the complainant, had a friend in Pell Street who lived at No. 11 and was about to visit his friends. There were no other Italians there except the two defendants, and when the complainant passed them, ^{both} ~~the two~~ of them were talking together in Italian and then they called him a bad name and cursed him, ~~the complainant~~, and he, the complainant, asked them what they cursed him for. He, the complainant, did not see any other men run away towards the Bowery, and the only persons he saw running away were the two defendants who ran towards Mott Street. There was no moonlight that night, but there was gaslight there.

-----000-----

On the re-direct examination, the complainant testified, that the defendants called him a "stinking Chinese son of a bitch." It took seven stitches to sew up the cut which was inflicted by one of the defendants, and his nose was cut also.

-----000-----

OFFICER FRANKLIN W. LAKE, of the 6th. Precinct, being duly sworn, testified that he arrested the defendants in Mott Street. He arrested the defendant with the assistance of another officer, - officer Murphy. They were on special duty and they heard some one hallow and a Chinaman was crying, "Murder" and he, the witness, and the other officer ran in the direction where the noise came from and a Chinaman there said, that some Italians had killed his friend, and he, the officer, then saw a Chinaman there bleeding, - Bleeding very badly. He took the two prisoners to the station-house and the complainant identified them. He, the witness, arrested Baraglio and officer Murphy the other one. The defendants said, "Me do nothing;" that is all they had to say. The two defendants were running towards Mott street at the time he and the other officer made the arrest.

0563

-----000-----

Under cross examination, the officer testified that he saw no other persons running up towards the Bowery, at that time.

-----000-----

LEE SING, the witness called for the people, being duly sworn, testified that he saw Charles Lyng, the complainant, on the 26th. day of December last, on a Sunday night, when the complainant was cut. He also saw the two prisoners; they were about two houses away from where he was, and then he saw one of the men knock the Chinaman down. After Capedeno one of the defendants, knocked the Chinaman down he saw the other Italians take something in his hand and cut the Chinaman's face, and then the Chinaman halloed "mur-der", in the Chinese language. The witness then came up towards them and asked what was the matter.

The two prisoners then ran away and he ran after them and one of the Italians took his fist and said something in Italian to the witness; this one was Pasquale Baraglio. The witness then halloed "murder" in English, and ran after them; the Italians ran into 47 Mott Street and by that time the two officers came and arrested them. The two defendants were the men that he saw that night and who knocked the Chinaman down and cut him.

-----000-----

Under cross examination, the witness testified that he was about two houses away from where the assault occurred, and that nobody was with the witness at the time. There were no other persons on the sidewalk or in the street besides the two defendants at the time the Chinaman was cut.

-----000-----

ANNIE DEVINE, a witness called for the people, corroborated the testimony of Le @ Sing, the former witness.

-----000-----

Under cross examination, the witness testified that she was married to a Chinaman, and that she went out to a restaurant to get something for her husband and when passing No. 23 Pell Street, she saw the two Italians knock the Chinaman down.

0565

-----000-----

For the Defence, Rocco Capodeno, one of the defendants, being duly sworn, testified that he was a barber by trade, and kept a place at No. 130 Avenue C., and he was a married man having two children. On the night in question about half past 11, before he was arrested, he was at No. 23 Pell Street and from there he went to No. 47 Mott Street to see a friend of his by the name of Vito Mana. He and Baraglio, the other defendant, came out of No. 23 Pell Street and Baraglio was standing on the stoop of that house and two other young men were standing on the sidewalk. He, and Baraglio then went over to a wagon that was standing there, on a "call of nature" and four Chinaman passed and nobody said anything to them and then the two other young men struck the Chinamen, the complainant, and knocked him down on the sidewalk and said to him, "Why don't you buy an English hat." He, the witness, knew the two young men who knocked the Chinamen down and their names are Rocco Metes and Niccolo Capedena. Rocco Meter, knocked the Chinaman's hat off and then the Chinamen and the two Italians were standing there looking at it. The Chinaman struck Niccolo Capedano with his head and Capedano fell down and got up again on his feet and as soon as he got up he cut the Chinaman with the razor. He, the witness, did not know where Niccolo Capedano was at present, but he used to be in Mulberry Street and lived at 140 Mulberry Street, but the witness did not know where he lives now.

-----000-----

Under cross examination, the witness testified that Niccolo Capedano was no relation of his, and did not know whether Niccolo Capedano had gone to Italy or not. The witness did not see the other man, Rocco Meter, since; and did not know him. And he only knew that his name was Rocco Meter because somebody had told him. He, the witness, and Pasquale Paraglo the other defendant ran away because they knew there was trouble there and they were so confused that they did not know what to do and they did not say anything. He looked for the two men Rocco Meter and Nicolo Capedano but could not find them.

-----000-----

8

CARLO OLSIO, a witness called for the defense, being duly sworn, testified that he lived at 118 Avenue C., at present, and on the 26th. of December, he lived at No. 23 Pell Street. He lived in Pell Street, at the time of the assault. On that evening Rocco Meter and Nicollo Capedeno were standing in front of the house at No. 23 Pell Street. The Chinamen passed and Rocco Meter called them "a son of a bitch," and one of the Chinamen hit Rocco Meter with his fist and Rocco Meter hit the Chinaman back also with his fist, and then the Chinaman went up to Nicollo Capedeno and butted him with his head and Capedeno fell to the ground. Nicollo Capedeno then got up and he seized the Chinaman by the head with one hand and with the other hand he cut him with a razor:

-----000-----

Under cross examination, the witness testified that he was a laborer. Pasquale Baraglio and Rocco Capedeno did not strike the Chinaman. The two men who did strike the Chinaman ran towards the Bowery. He, the witness knew the two prisoners about a year.

-----000-----

0568

VITTO MANGONA, a witness called for the defence, being duly sworn, testified that he kept a grocery store and that he knew Nicollo Capedena, but had not seen him since last Christmas.

-----000-----

ALLESANDRO BARBATO, being called as a witness, for the defence, was duly sworn and testified that he knew the defendant Rocco Capedena for about 222 months, and his reputation was that of a quiet and peaceable man.

-----000-----

PASQUALE BARAGLIO, one of the defendants, being duly sworn, testified that he lived at No. 47 Mott Street and on the 26th. of December last he lived at No. 118 Mulberry Street. He corroborated the testimony of Rocco Capedena and stated that he did not assault the complainant.

-----000-----

VINZENZO CALIA, of No. 49 Mulberry Street, testified that he knew both the defendants and their reputation for peace and quietness was good.

-----000-----

10

MARCELLUS H. BARL, , a banker of No. 55 $\frac{1}{2}$ Mulberry Street, testified that he knew Pasquale Baraglio, one of the defendants and that his character for peace and quietness was good, and that he was a hard working man.

-----000-----

OFFICER JEREMIAH J. MURPHY, called in rebuttal, for the people, testified that he was attached to the 6th. Precinct. On the 26th. of December while on duty, he saw the two defendants running quite fast and he joined in the pursuit and assisted the other officer in making the arrest.

-----000-----

Under cross examination, the witness testified that he was the first man that caught hold of Rocco Capadenoso and after he had secured him one of the Chinamen said, that Capadeno had killed his friend. He, the witness, and the other officers then brought the defendants back into Pell Street and this complainant was there, bleeding considerably. The defendants were running very fast.

AHR HING, a witness called in rebuttal for the people, testified that he lived at No. 26 Mott Street, and kept a grocery store. He saw the officers running after the defendants and recognized them as the same parties and also recognized officers Murphy and Lake, as being the officers in pursuit of the defendants.

APPEARANCES.

Assistant District Attorney Ambrose H. Purdy, for the People,
Mr. Berlinger, for the Defence.

-----000-----

KATE SINGLETON, the complainant, being duly sworn, testified that she lived at No. ~~311 East 65th Street, and~~ that she was an actress by profession. She was playing at the 3rd. Avenue theatre. On the 14th. of February last, she left her pocket book in her dressing room while playing in this theatre and when she returned to her dressing room
she missed her pocketbook which contained some old coins valued at about $50. The Prisoner Henry Bropson had raised a disturbance early in the evening and had stabbed the captain of the supes and was dodging around about her dressing room, and she, the complainant, met him coming out of her room when returning from the stage. She examined her pocket in her dress and found that her pocketbook had been stolen which contained some old coin and other valuable things and a pair of earrings - a pair of rhine stone ~~at~~ earrings.

-----000-----

Under cross examination the witness testified that she had many more old coins and that she was in the theatrical business for the last 20 years. Her dressing room was one flight of stairs up from the stage, the first dressing room opposite the stairway.

-----000-----

OFFICER WILLIAM CARROLL, being duly sworn, testified, that he arrested the defendant on the 14th. day of February in the 3rd Avenue theatre He was called into the stage entrance and there were quite a number of people there around the defendant and he was asked to arrest the prisoner and he took him to the station house. The prisoner was searched in the station house and some old coin was found on his person.

For the defence, Henry Bropson, the prisoner, testified that he lived at No. 592 2nd. Avenue, with his mother, and that he was in the express business, and at the time of arrest he was employed as the assistant gas man at the 3rd. Avenue theatre. His duties were to go all over the house to look after the gas and to light the lamps and sometimes to go into the dressing room. He, the prisoner, did not steal the coins nor the pocketbook, but he did find a pocket book where it had no business to be in the passage way about 35 feet away from the complainant's room and that he kept the pocket book in his hands holding it and he was going up on the gallery and looked ~~at~~ it to see what was in it, and threw it away, and then he was arrested.

Under cross examination he testified that the pawn ticket which was found in his pocket was purchased by him from another man. He, the witness, did not know that it represented a coat that was stolen. He gave 25 cents for the ticket. He, the witness, had been drinking that evening and was under the influence of liquor.
