The defendant said, "are you the boss?" and he, the complainant said that he was, and the defendant said, " There is some work to be done Have you a couple of men on hand now? There is some work that has to be done in 16th. Street. " The defendant didn't know the number, but asked him, complainant, to go with him to the corner of 16th. Street and he would show him, the complainant, where the house was. He, the complainant, went to the corner, and the defendant said that the house that he meant was the green house in 16th The defendant mentioned the name of Hudson as the owner of the house, but he, the complainant, knew the landlord and told the defendant that he must have made a mistake. The defendant said that he had made a mistake in the house and wanted him, the complainant, to go further around the corner so that he could show him the house. He, the complainant, saw his wife going into his store and he said to the defendant, "wait a minute" and went back to his store and Farrell followed him there, when he found one Kelly, jointly indicted with Farrell, in his store, and seized him. Farrell tried to take Kelly away from him. His complainant's wife was also in his store when he entered. She had hold of Kelly. Then Farrell said, "what is the matter with that young man," He, the complainant took Kelly out on the sidewalk and Farrell tried to take Kelly away from him. Then Sargeant Grainger came up and Farrell disappeared. He, the complainant, had seventy-seven dollars in his safe on that day. The safe was behind the counter in his store. The door was unlocked. He had seen the money in the small drawer of his safe about a quarter of an hour before Farrell came in. A man then came in and called for change for a five dollar bill, and he, the complainant, gave him three silver dollars and two paper dollars, and the man said, " can you give me two two-dollar bills in paper and one dollar in paper; I want to send it away in a letter." Then he, the complainant, went to his safe and got the money. He put the $5 bill in his safe with the other money after he had given the change to the man.. Nobody else came in after the man got his change until Farrell entered.

UNDER CROSS-EXAMINATION. Complainant testified that he had never seen Farrell before the day in question but he had no doubt as to his identity. He saw him, next after the day in question, in Inspector Byrne's office, when he picked him out of a number of men. He put the money into the safe three days before. His brother put it in the safe. He, witness, saw him put it in the safe. The money belonged to the firm of Kreitzburg & Bittolph.

MARY KREITZBURG, testified that she was the wife of the complainant. On the 5th of April, 1888, she left her home at 267 Avenue A., intending to go to the butcher's shop to buy some meat. She had a baby in her arms. She entered her husband's store at 264 Avenue A. as she usually did when she went out on an errand. It was then about half past 10 o'clock in the morning. She saw the man Kelly, who was jointly indicted with the defendant, kneeling behind the counter near the safe door. She asked him what he was doing there and he said that he was watching. Then he came around the corner of the counter and she caught hold of him. When her husband came into the store, she asked Kelly what he wanted, and he said that he wanted six yards of wall paper and tried to break her hold of him. Sh was holding him by the coat. Then Kelly said, "wait, let me go, I will be back in a minute." Before her husband came in, he, Kelly, gave her a push and tried to get away from her. He also gave her a push on the breast. Then her husband grabbed him and she went out for a police officer. She went to the corner of 15th. Street and found a police officer in citizen's clothes, who turned out to be Sergeant Grainger, and she took him back to the store.

CROSS-EXAMINATION. None.

CLARA COSTIDO, testified that she lived at 503 East 16th. Street, near the corner of Avenue A.- about three doors from the corner. She kept a store for the sale of toys and candies there. On April 5th., 1888, she saw the defendant Farrell and another man near her store.

It was then between half past 10 and 11 o'clock in the forenoon. Farrell was then in front of her door and ran over a child. He was running rapidly. He ran past her store towards Avenue B. He came from the corner of Avenue A. and she saw him come down Avenue A. from the direction of 17th. Street.

CROSS-EXAMINATION. None.

NO DEFENCE.

His brother had opened the safe in the morning before he reached the store. His brother went out leaving him in charge of the store and the safe and the money in the safe.

0045

Tried, April 13th., 1888.

APPEARANCES:

Assistant District Attorney Davis, for the People:
Messrs. House and Friend, for the Defence.

HUGO KREITZBURG, the complainant, testified that he lived at 267 Avenue A. and that he was a painter by trade. His store was at 264 Avenue A.. He had a store there on the 5th. of April 1888. In his safe he had seventy seven dollars. He missed the money between 10 and 11 o'clock in the morning. He saw the defendant and the man who was jointly indicted with him, James Farroll, in his store. They were both in the store but not together. At about half past 10 o'clock Farroll entered the shop. He left the shop with Farroll and went to the corner of 16th. Street with him and then returned to his shop. Up to that time, he had not seen the defendant Kelly. When he entered the store, he was inside of the store. He seized Kelly by the collar. His, complainant's wife was then in the store. His wife told him that Kelly had stolen the money out of the safe and thereupon he got him by the collar. The safe was shut, but not locked. He then took Kelly out to the sidewalk to look for an officer. Then Farroll came up to him and said, "what are you going to do to this young man" and then Farroll tried to take Kelly away from him, complainant. Then his next door neighbour caught hold of Farroll and said, "let us bring him back to the store again" Then a police officer came and arrested the defendant. By the officer arrived, Farroll had sneaked away. After the arrest of the defendant by the police officer, the complainant looked into his safe and missed the money . The big door of the safe was ajar, and the door of the little compartment where he kept the money was also open. The $77 were in ten and five dollar bills, and 2's and 1's. He had seen the money about a quarter of an hour before Farroll came into his store . It was then in the safe, in a little drawer in the safe.

UNDER CROSS-EXAMINATION. The complainant testified that he kept putty in his store, and people came in there frequently to buy small quantities of putty. The defendant was searched in the store and none of the missing money was found upon him. His wife went after a policeman He held the defendant for about 3 minutes before the officer came. He, the complainant, assisted the officer in the search. The money that was lost was his, witness' and his brother's but it was in his, witness' care and custody. The defendant said that he wanted some wall paper. He didn't say that he came in to buy some putty.

MARY KREITZBURG, testified that she was the wife of the complainant. At about half past ten o'clock on the morning of April 5th., 1888, she left her home to go into a butcher's shop and it was a habit of hers when she went out for anything to drop into the store to see her husband. When she entered the store she saw a head behind the counter, and she thought it was her husband's head. It was right by the safe. Then the defendant stood up, and she said, "what are you doing here," and he said, "I am waiting here." Then she went back to the door because when she approached the counter, the defendant attempted to make a jump over the counter and she was standing by the door when her husband came up, and she said that the defendant was behind the counter and took the money, and her husband grabbed the defendant. When he was behind the counter he said, "I want 6 yards of wall paper," Then he said, "wait a minute I will be back in a minute." The defendant gave her a push in the breast and she nearly let go of the child in her arms. The defendant gave her another push but she held on to him.

UNDER CROSS-EXAMINATION. She testified that when she first saw the head behind the counter, near the safe, she thought it was her husband's head. When she went towards the defendant, he made an attempt to jump over the counter, so she went back to the door. She kept him in the store until her husband returned, and, when her husband seized the defendant she went out to call a policeman. She looked in the safe after the defendant was arrested, and all of the money was gone.

CLARA COSTIRA testified that she knew where the complainant's store was, at 264 Avenue A.. She had a store near the corner of 16th. Street and Avenue A. Her store was next to the corner. She saw the defendant. She also saw Farroll in the same neighbourhood. She saw the defendant and Farroll together. She saw Farroll running and saw him run over a child and the child fell upon the sidewalk at her door. After he had thrown the child down, he turned the corner of 16th. Street and ran down that street.

CROSS-EXAMINATION. None.

THE COMPLAINANT, being re-called by the District Attorney, testified that Farroll came into the store and told him that he wished to show him some work that was to be done. He said, "there are some rooms to be painted in 16th. Street," but he didn't know the number but he could show me the house from the corner. So they went up to the corner. When they got to the corner, Farroll first pointed out a green house four doors from the corner as the one in which the rooms were to be painted. He, the complainant, knew the landlord, and told Farroll that he must have made a mistake, and then Farroll said, "come around the corner and I will show you the house," Then he, the complainant, turned and looked towards his store and saw his wife coming out and he said, "wait a minute" and ran back to tell his wife to watch the store while he was away.

UNDER CROSS-EXAMINATION. He testified that he knew that he had $77 in the safe, because he saw the money

about a quarter of an hour before Farroll came into the store. A person came into the store and wanted change for a $5 bill. He, the complainant, went to the cash drawer of the safe and handed the man three silver dollars and two paper dollars. Then the man said, "Could n't you give me two bills? Then the man said that he wanted to send two bills in a letter. He, the complainant, opened the safe and made the change, and saw the $77 there.

OFFICER JOHN D. Mc GINNIS testified that he was attached to the Police Central Office. He and another officer arrested the co-defendant, Farroll. Officer O'Heith arrested the defendant Kelly.

FOR THE DEFENCE. JOHN KELLY, the defendant, testified that he was 20 years of age and that he lived at 709 Greenwich Street. He had never been arrested before in his life. He didn't take any money out of the safe or out of the store of the complainants'. He didn't know the co-defendant Farroll and was not in the neighbourhood of the complainant's store with Farroll. He went into the complainant's store because he wanted 5 cents worth of putty to fix a pedlar's wagon that he was going to paint. He worked for John Donagan, of 68 Vandam Street. When the complainant's wife came into the store, he asked for 5 cents worth of putty and her husband was not in the store, and she holloed for her her husband and her husband came in and got an officer and he, the defendant, was arrested and searched right there.

UNDER CROSS-EXAMINATION. He testified that he never been arrested before in his life , and he had never been in Donagan's saloon in Spring Street. He didn't know that Farroll lived at Donagan's house. He never saw the man before in his life. He didn't know where Donagan was at present. He hadn't seen Donagan since the time he was out with the pedlar's wagon on the day of his arrest he saw John Donagan but not Joseph. It was then about 7 o'clock in the morning. He was going to get the putty

in the complainant's place to fix a wagon for Donagan-John Donagan. He had arranged to get the putty for Donagan. He was going to go up to Harlem for a load; he was to get oranges and lemons. He intended to get a couple of cases of oranges and lemons. He didn't have any wagon and he went up to see if that would be ready for the morning and he got there about half past 8 oclock. He went to see a man named Mallon in 121st.
Street. He got up there at about half past 8 o'clock in the morning and when he left he came right down town.
He got off at 29th. Street and Third Avenue and walked down and he came to the complainant's store and thought he would get five cents worth of putty and had been standing by the counter for about half a second when the complainant's wife came in and shut the door and asked if her husband was there. There was no answer and she looked for her husband and he came in and went out and got a policeman. He proved to be a sergeant of police and searched him, the defendant. The wagon that he intended to putty was down at number 68 Wadam Street
He went over the neighbourhood of the complainant's store

to meet a couple of friends of his. They lived in 13th. Street. One of the men was named Macdonald and drove No. 4 Dog Wagon. The other friend was named Mc Nally. He had another friend named Gilford. These two men lived in 13th. Street near Avenue A. He didn't see them because he went right near the Avenue. He could not get the putty at home, because there was no paint shop in Hudson Street, where he lived.

IN REBUTTAL. ROBERT HARKINJUS testified that he was a saloon keeper at 65 Columbia Street. On the 19th of December 1887 he had a conversation with the defendant and the defendant asked him to change some money for him. Further testimony on the part of the witness was objected to , and excluded.

Ward. The stable was in the rear of the lot. On the 28th. day of March he had a horse in the stable. He saw the horse last at about midnight, and he locked the door. In the morning, at about 7 o'clock he returned to the stable and the door was open, and the horse was gone. He afterwards saw the horse in a livery stable in charge of a police officer. There was a bridle on the horse belonging to him, the complainant. He had known the defendant since he was a boy. He had known him to work as a mechanic. He had lived in the neighbourhood until about five years before, but had never seen the defendant in his premises. The door was fastened with a staple and lock- a padlock. The pad-lock was opened out, that is pulled apart. The staple was pulled out and looked as though it had been re-placed after being pulled out. The horse was valued at $250 and the bridle at about 50 cents.

CROSS-EXAMINATION. None.

OFFICER PHILLIP WELLER, of the 25th. Precinct, testified that he arrested the defendant on the morning

of the 21st. of March, at about 2 o'clock. He was going up Third Avenue from 59th. Street and as he reached the corner of 60th. Street he looked toward Second Avenue and saw the horse standing there. He went down, and there were two men fixing the bridle. The bridle was broken and they were ticing it up. He questioned the man who was jointly indicted with Mulligan the defendant, a man named Kennedy, and asked him where he got the horse and he said he found him at Madison Avenue and 70th. Street and he asked him what he was doing there at that time in the morning and he said that he was over at 70th. Street and the Western Boulevard. He, the officer, then turned his attention to Mulligan and asked him where he got the horse and Mulligan didn't answer, and Kennedy said, "he is hard of hearing and you will have to speak louder," and he, the officer, did; and Mulligan said that he found the horse at 70th. Street and Madison Avenue, and he, the witness, asked him what brought him there, and he said they were up to 116 Street between 9th. and 10th. Avenue collecting a bill from a man that he Mulligan worked for. Not being satisfied with the two stories, he, witness, took them to the station house, . He also took the horse. The horse was put in a livery stable. and on the following day the defendants were arraigned in the police court. On the following day, also, the complainant identified his horse, and the horse and the bridle were returned to him. The defendant, Kennedy, said that they lived at 226 East 57th. Street.

UNDER CROSS EXAMINATION. The officer testified that he knew the co-defendant Kennedy, who was tried in another part of the court, the preceding day, and acquitted.

FOR THE DEFENCE. WILLIAM MULLIGAN, the defendant, testified that he was 28 years of age and a brisklayer by trade. He lived at 226 East 57th. Street. He found the horse, strayed, at 70th. Street and Madison Avenue and was going down Third Avenue with the horse and at 60th. Street he went into Thomas Sheridan's liquor store to get a piece of rope to fetch the horse to a livery stable, expecting to get a reward, when the officer arrested Kennedy and himself. He didn't take the horse from Mr. Slattery's stable. He had never been in trouble before, and had never been arrested before- charged with any crime.

UNDER CROSS-EXAMINATION. The defendant testified that Kennedy was with him when he found the horse. He met Kennedy at 65th. Street and Third Avenue, by accident, and Kennedy joined him. He said to Kennedy, "lead this horse down to the Avenue till I get a piece of rope or chord to tie the horse." He didn't get the rope in Sheridan's liquor store. Before he found the horse he was in 135 Street between 7th. and 8th. Avenues. He didn't tell the officer that he had been to 116th. Street. He intended to take the horse to a stable in 59th. Street near First Avenue where the milk wagons were stored. He had known the complainant, Mr. Slattery, since he was a child. He knew where his stable was. He had been to his stable. He had never seen the horse there. When he found the horse, the horse had a bridle on him. He

wanted the rope, because the horse kind of shyed and he was rather afraid of him. He wanted to put the rope on the horse so that he could walk ahead of him. He had been to Slattert's stable about three weeks or so before the occurrence. He didn't see Mr. Slattery there. He didn't go into the stable but he was at the door. He knew that Mr. Slattery kept three horses in Germany. He had several drinks on his way down from 135th. Street. He crossed over from the West side through 79th. Street transverse road. He met Kennedy at Third Avenue and 65th. Street at about half past one. He was on his way home when he saw the horse. The name of the people that he went to see in 135th. Street was Messrs. Orr & Devlin Bricklayers. He went there to get a job. He got there about 4 o'clock in the afternoon. He didn't see the boys because it was raining. He walked down because he had an umbrella and on the way down he took several drinks. He had known Kennedy for about 3 years.

THOMAS COFFEE, testified that he was employed by

the Government in the Guages Department of the Custom House. He had known the defendant for about 22 years and knew other people that knew him. He had never heard a word against his character. He was accustomed to see him about once a week.

JAMES VAN HOUTEN testified that he worked for the Metropolitan Telephone Company, as an instrument setter. He lived in the neighbourhood of Mr. Slattery. He knew the defendant at the Bar for about 3 years, and regarded his character as good.

THE COMPLAINANT, being re-called for the Defence, testified that he had never heard of the defendant being in trouble before, and he knew his character for honesty to be good.

Tried, May 8th., 1888.

APPEARANCES:

Assistant District Attorney Mc Dona, for the People:
for the Defence.

OFFICER DANIEL W. CLARK testified that he belonged to the 27th. Precinct of Police. On the 6th. day of

April, 1888, at about half past one o'clock in the morning, he saw the defendant in a grocery store on the southwest corner of 23rd. Street and Second Avenue, behind the counter. The grocery was situated in the 18th. Ward, and he, the witness, was then attached to the 18th. Police Precinct. He, the witness, was patrolling his post and heard a slight noise. When he got to the corner of 23rd. Street and Second Avenue, he noticed a coat folded up and lying under the window of the store. He then saw that the plate glass in the store door was broken and had fallen inward. He looked into the store and saw the defendant standing behind the counter with his head bent down, and his hands moving, as though he was looking for the till. He, the witness, spoke to the defendant, asking him what he was doing there, and the defendant told him to "go to hell" and mind his own business, and to get out of there.. He then spoke to the defendant a second time, and the defendant repeated what he had previously said and moved towards the back of the store. Then the defendant commenced to throw around different articles and went towards the window at the back of the store and threw a number of articles around the back of the store. He, the witness, drew his pistol and threatened to shoot the defendant unless he came to him, the witness. The defendant refused to do so and picked up a weight and threw the weight at him. The weight broke the second pane of plate glass in the door and narrowly missed the officer's head. Then the complainant came to the window and told him, the witness, to go to hell and go about his business. Then he, the witness, with the assistance of his partner, dragged the defendant out of the store and took him to the station house. On the way to the station house, the defendant said that he was no "stew pigeon" or give away and was well acquainted with Commissioner Voorhis. He, the witness, left his side partner in charge of the store and informed Mr. Freeling of the burglary.

UNDER CROSS-EXAMINATION. He testified that he first heard the noise when he was between 21st. and 22nd.

Street on the west side of Second Avenue. The width of the pane of glass in each side of the window was fully 20 inches. He didn't enter the store at all. the night of the 6th. of April, and securely locked it at about half past eight o'clock in the evening. He didn't miss any property from the store.

UNDER CROSS-EXAMINATION. He testified that he had lived on the 5th. floor, the 4th. floor up stairs. There were 12 flats and about 85 people in the house. His store was connected with the residence part of the building by a door leading into the hall-way of the door opening on 23rd. Street. He locked that door securely. None of the doors were disturbed, but two panes of glass in his windows were broken.

FOR THE DEFENCE. EDWARD J. KING testified that he was in a saloon on the afternoon of the 6th. of April about four o'clock and there were two or three young men in there. They treated, and all got drunk. He left the saloon about 7 o'clock and went over to Third Avenue and got a drink of whiskey at about 10 or 11 o'clock. He was going home, as he thought and he was pretty full and got drinking more whiskey and a friend of his wanted to take him home. He fell on the side walk and he could only remember a passer-by picking him up. He didn't remember what occurred after that. He could not remember anything after 11 o'clock. He didn't remember being arrested by the officer. He remember nothing after 11 o'clock until the next morning when the officer came to take him from the station house. He, the defendant, was all wet and covered with blood and he said, "What's this for?" and the officer said, "I suppose you know the charge." He, the defendant, said, "I suppose for being drunk?" and the officer commenced to laugh and said, "It's for burglary." He, the defendant, said that the officer was mistaken and that he must be only fooling, and the officer commenced to laugh and he the defendant, could remember nothing more.

UNDER CROSS-EXAMINATION. He testified that he left the man who was with him at First Avenue and 23rd. Street. He saw the man take a car. He didn't know the man's name, but knew him by sight. He remembered last seeing his companion at 23rd. Street and First Avenue. His first indication of forgetfulness at 11 o'clock was a complete turning around in his head. He guessed it was the result of whiskey. He remembered that it was raining very hard at about 8 o'clock. He remembered falling into the mud and water. He met his companion in the saloon and they were drinking together. He had seen the man around the neighbourhood and he had known him by sight about three or four months, but he never had known his name. The saloon that he met his companion in was on Third Avenue, but he could not tell the number. He remembered at about 10.30 being in a saloon on Third Avenue and sitting on a keg. He was tired and drowsy. The saloon was somewhere about 32nd. Street.

He had been a driver. He was a bricklayer by trade. He had to give up his trade on account of his back. He was not in employment at the time of his arrest. He had been out of employment since New Year's day, but had a chance to go back to work. Before that, he worked in Grand Street, driving a delivery wagon for Lichtenstein. He had worked for the house 2 years and he had received a notice to go back to work, which he had in his pocket.

JOHN W. LONG testified that he was with the defendant on the night of April 6th. 1888. It was a rainy night and he met the defendant about 5 o'clock that afternoon. They went into several saloons from 32nd. to 23rd. Streets. They were together from about 5 o'clock until about 12 o'clock midnight. He, the witness, left him at 23rd. Street and Second Avenue. They had just come from Duff's liquor store at 23rd. Street and Avenue A. The defendant could not walk and he could hardly stand up. He, the witness, left him because he wanted to go home, and could not persuade the defendant to go home. He could not stand up, and he, the witness, was troubled with rheumatism and could not hold him up. The defendant was pretty drunk. He was lying down in the middle of the sidewalk and got up and held on to a poster and a car came along, and he, the witness, wanted the defendant to get into the car with him, but he would not, and he, the witness, left the defendant standing there.

UNDER CROSS-EXAMINATION. The witness testified that he lived at No. 208 East 28th. Street. On the 6th.

of April, he lived at No. 202 East 32nd. Street. He was not a friend of the defendant, but simply met him in the saloon. He had never been out with him before. He had seen the defendant several times in Mc Gillig's liquor store in 32nd. Street and 3rd. Avenue on the north east side. He, the witness, was a bar tender and was employed by George W. Vanderveer. He had been in his employment about 2 years. He was not then in Vanderveer's employment on the 6th. of April, because he could not work on account of his rheumatism. He had been in the hospital. He had not heard of anybody drinking steadily from 5 to 12 o'clock on a wet night, as a cure for rheumatism. He hadn't drank anything for 3 months before. In his judgment, the defendant was very drunk when he left him.

AUSTIN S. KERNON, testified that he measured glass for the Fidelity and Casualty Company. He inspected the glass in the complainant's window. The glass in the door was 70 inches high by 17 1-8th. inches in breadth and about a quarter of an inch thick. The glass in both sides of the door was broken. In his judgment, the defendant could not have fallen through the glass.

From the position of the glass, and its height above the sidewalk, it was his judgment that the glass could not have been broken by the defendant falling through it, as suggested by counsel for the defence in his opening.

UNDER CROSS-EXAMINATION. He testified that the Company received daily reports of the breaking of glass in doors and windows by drunken men falling against the glass, but he, the witness, believed that from the position of the glass, and its height from the sidewalk, that no sudden lunge or movement on the part of the defendant could have broken the glass.

	: Tried, April 12th., 1888.

APPEARANCES:

Assistant District Attorney, Davis, for the People:

Mr. Berlinger, for the Defence.

ANDREW SLATTERY, the complainant, testified that he lived at No. 38 West 65th. Street and was a truckman. He occupied a stable at that number: It was in the 22nd.

Ward. The stable was in the rear of the lot. On the 28th. day of March he had a horse in the stable. He saw the horse last at about midnight, and he locked the door. In the morning, at about 7 o'clock he returned to the stable and the door was open, and the horse was gone. He afterwards saw the horse in a livery stable in charge of a police officer. There was a bridle on the horse belonging to him, the complainant. He had known the defendant since he was a boy. He had known him to work as a mechanic. He had lived in the neighbourhood until about five years before, but had never seen the defendant in his premises. The door was fastened with a staple and lock- a padlock. The pad-lock was opened out, that is pulled apart. The staple was pulled out and looked as though it had been re-placed after being pulled out. The horse was valued at $250 and the bridle at about 50 cents.

CROSS-EXAMINATION. None.

OFFICER PHILLIP WELLER, of the 25th. Precinct, testified that he arrested the defendant on the morning

of the 21st. of March, at about 2 o'clock. He was going up Third Avenue from 59th. Street and as he reached the corner of 60th. Street he looked toward Second Avenue and saw the horse standing there. He went down, and there were two men fixing the bridle. The bridle was broken and they were tying it up. He questioned the man who was jointly indicted with Mulligan the defendant, a man named Kennedy, and asked him where he got the horse and he said he found him at Madison Avenue and 70th. Street and he asked him what he was doing there at that time in the morning and he said that he was over at 70th. Street and the Western Boulevard. He, the officer, then turned his attention to Mulligan and asked him where he got the horse and Mulligan didn't answer, and Kennedy said, "he is hard of hearing and you will have to speak louder," and he, the officer, did; and Mulligan said that he found the horse at 70th. Street and Madison Avenue, and he, the witness, asked him what brought him there, and he said they were up to 116 Street between 9th. and 10th. Avenue collecting a bill from a man that he Mulligan worked for. Not being satisfied with the two stories, he, witness, took them to the station house, . He also took the horse. The horse was put in a livery stable. and on the following day the defendants were arraigned in the police court. On the following day, also, the complainant identified his horse, and the horse and the bridle were returned to him. The defendant, Kennedy, said that they lived at 226 East 57th. Street.

UNDER CROSS EXAMINATION. The officer testified that he knew the co-defendant Kennedy, who was tried in another part of the court, the preceding day, and acquitted.

FOR THE DEFENCE. WILLIAM MULLIGAN, the defendant, testified that he was 28 years of age and a brisklayer by trade. He lived at 226 East 57th. Street. He found the horse, strayed, at 70th. Street and Madison Avenue and was going down Third Avenue with the horse and at 60th. Street he went into Thomas Sheridan's liquor store to get a piece of rope to fetch the horse to a livery stable, expecting to get a reward, when the officer arrested Kennedy and himself. He didn't take the horse from Mr. Slattery's stable. He had never been in trouble before, and had never been arrested before- charged with any crime.

wanted the rope, because the horse kind of shyed and he was rather afraid of him. He wanted to put the rope on the horse so that he could walk ahead of him. He had been to Slattert's stable about three weeks or so before the occurrence. He didn't see Mr. Slattery there. He didn't go into the stable but he was at the door. He knew that Mr. Slattery kept three horses in Germany. He had several drinks on his way down from 135th. Street He crossed over from the West side through 79th. Street transverse road. He met Kennedy at Third Avenue and 65th. Street at about half past one. He was on his way home when he saw the horse. The name of the people that he went to see in 135th. Street was Messrs. Orr & Devlin Bricklayers. He went there to get a job. He got there about 4 o'clock in the afternoon. He didn't see the boys because it was raining. He walked down because he had an umbrella and on the way down he took several drinks. He had known Kennedy for about 3 years.

the Government in the Guages Department of the Custom House. He had known the defendant for about 22 years and knew other people that knew him. He had never heard a word against his character. He was accustomed to see him about once a week.

JAMES VAN HOUTEN testified that he worked for the Metropolitan Telephone Company, as an instrument setter. He lived in the neighbourhood of Mr. Slattery. He knew the defendant at the Bar for about 3 years, and regarded his character as good.

THE COMPLAINANT, being re-called for the Defence, testified that he had never heard of the defendant being in trouble before, and he knew his character for honesty to be good.
