IS THIS CONVICT INNOCENT?

THE QUICK TRIAL OF LUDWIG SCHAFER BEFORE RECORDER SMYTH.

Schafer Says that Through Ignorance of the English Language He Was Made to Plead Guilty to a Crime He Never Committed—The Complainant Was the Man for Whom Schafer Gave Bonds.

Lawyer Charles Steckler will to-day appear before Recorder Smyth and seek to reopen the case of Ludwig Schafer, whom he saved last Friday from being sent to Sing Sing to serve a sentence of over four years' imprisonment. Schafer, who is now in the Tombs, is a young German medical student, and claims that his imprisonment and conviction are the results of his inability to speak English. He came to this country in September last from the village of Beuthen, in Germany, where his parents are well-to-do and among the most prominent people in the town. Schafer had studied medicine at Bonn and Dusseldorf, and was twenty-three years of age when he left his native land. He came here as a cabin passenger on the Fulda in company with a distant relative, Leopold Freund, a fresco painter, of No. 334 East Forty-second street, who had been visiting his native town of Beuthen.

Upon his arrival in this city Schafer took up his residence in Harlem, and was a frequent visitor at Mr. Freund's house. He spent money lavishly, relying upon further remittances from his home, and soon ran out of funds. Then Mr. Freund invited him to stay at his house, and after some time secured Schafer employment as a nurse in the German Hospital at Madison street and Seventy-first street. Here Schafer worked till Jan. 1. Nov. 18 Mr. Freund was arrested for assaulting Mrs. Lena Florents, of No. 307 East Forty-second street.

He was arrested and taken before Justice Murray at the Yorkville Court and held for trial in $300 bail. Schafer now claims that Freund then sent for him and said: "If you will go bail for me I will give you my paint shop at No. 213 East Thirty-fourth street, with all its contents," and that he accepted the offer. Thereupon he gave the necessary bail bond and Freund was released, and Schafer subsequently sold the paint shop for $43 to Hersch Kowitz, of No. 800 Second avenue.

Meanwhile, Mr. Freund had gone to Europe, and returned to this city Feb. 23, when, as he says, he learned for the first time of this transaction. He thereupon swore out a warrant for Schafer's arrest, which occurred the following day. He was arraigned before Justice Patterson and held in a thousand dollars bail for trial. A complaint was submitted to the Grand Jury and an indictment against him for larceny in the first degree was found. He was taken before Recorder Smyth on Friday last, and after a brief examination, at which he had no particular counsel, and which was conducted through the medium of an interpreter, Schafer pleaded guilty, as he claims, unconsciously and through ignorance of the methods of procedure in our courts. Recorder Smyth sentenced him to four years and five months' imprisonment. After noon the case was called to the attention of Lawyer Steckler, who upon hearing of its peculiar nature, and fearing that an innocent man might be sent to prison through a singular series of accidents, resolved to take it up and see that Schafer had a fair trial.

The convicted man was then in the Tombs and was to be taken to Sing Sing at 7 o'clock Saturday morning. Friday night Lawyer Steckler went to Sheriff Grant and interceded in his behalf, explaining at length the nature of the case. Sheriff Grant was convinced that the interests of justice demanded at least the prisoner's detention, and he issued orders that Schafer should not be removed to Sing Sing for some days. Lawyer Steckler was seen last night by a World reporter, and said: "This is a very remarkable case, and it was only through the merest accident that it was brought to my notice and that I was able to intercede for Schafer in the nick of time. When Freund was arrested he offered to give his paint shop and its contents to Schafer if he would go on his bond, which offer Schafer accepted, and now Freund wants him convicted because he does not give back the property. When Schafer gave the bond he specified the paint shop as the property which he possessed. This was done in the presence of Freund, who then likewise signed the bond. Now, either Freund suborned this man into committing perjury, into swearing that he owned the paint shop, or else he must say that Schafer owned the property."

The law will not restore property that has been conveyed with fraudulent intent. Schafer cannot speak English, and the interpreter in court the day he was sentenced was not the regular court interpreter, but Jacob Dabert, a subpoena server in the District Attorney's office, who has an imperfect knowledge of both German and English. Recorder Smyth does not speak German. Schafer was asked hurriedly: "Did you take the goods?" and answered: "Yes," thinking he would have a chance to explain the transaction. The interpreter told the Judge the prisoner pleaded guilty. The whole thing was an accident, and I am confident that when Recorder Smyth learns of all the facts he will permit the prisoner to withdraw his plea of guilty and have a fair trial."

A reporter of THE WORLD then went to the German Hospital and saw the house surgeon, who said: "Schafer was employed here for a short time last fall as a nurse, and was believed to know something about medicine. We cannot report anything in his favor. Indeed, he was discharged from here Jan. 1 for neglect of duty, and after he left we discovered several small peculations that are attributed to him. Although he was not a drinking man he did drink some of the wine belonging to the private patients, and he also stole shoes and articles of wearing apparel."

Mrs. Leopold Freund was seen at the flat of her husband in Forty-second street; he was not at home. She said: "I never heard before that Mr. Freund had given his paint shop to Schafer or that the latter had gone bail for my husband. When Mr. Freund returned from Europe he was astonished to learn that Schafer had sold the shop, the keys of which had been left with the harbor next door. Schafer persuaded him that he had stolen articles, including a dam

Friday night Lawyer Steckler went to Sheriff Grant and interceded in his behalf, explaining at length the nature of the case. Sheriff Grant was convinced that the interests of justice demanded at least the prisoner's detention, and he issued orders that Schafer should not be removed to Sing Sing for some days. Lawyer Steckler was seen last night by a WORLD reporter, and said: "This is a very remarkable case, and it was only through the merest accident that it was brought to my notice and that I was able to intercede for Schafer in the nick of time. When Freund was arrested he offered to give his paint shop and its contents to Schafer if he would go on his bond, which offer Schafer accepted, and now Freund wants him convicted because he does not give back the property. When Schafer gave the bond he specified the paint shop as the property which he possessed. This was done in the presence of Freund, who then likewise signed the bond. Now, either Freund suborned this man into committing perjury, into swearing that he owned the paint shop, or else he must say that Schafer owned the property."

"The law will not restore property that has been conveyed with fraudulent intent. Schafer cannot speak English, and the interpreter in court the day he was sentenced was not the regular court interpreter, but Jacob Dubert, a subpoena server in the District Attorney's office, who has an imperfect knowledge of both German and English. Recorder Smyth does not speak German. Schafer was asked hurriedly 'Did you take the goods?' and answered 'Yes,' thinking he would have a chance to explain the transaction. The interpreter told the Judge the prisoner pleaded guilty. The whole thing was an accident, and I am confident that when Recorder Smyth learns of all the facts he will permit the prisoner to withdraw his plea of guilty and have a fair trial."

A reporter of THE WORLD then went to the German Ho-plal and saw the house surgeon, who said: "Schafer was employed here for a short time last fall as a nurse, and was believed to know something about medicine. We cannot report anything in his favor. Indeed, he was discharged from here Jan. 1 for neglect of duty, and after he left we discovered several small peculations that are attributed to him. Although he was not a drinking man he did drink some of the wine belonging to the private patients, and he also stole shoes and articles of wearing apparel."

Mrs. Leopold Freund was seen at the flat of her husband in Forty-second street; he was not at home. She said: "I never heard before that Mr. Freund had given his paint shop to Schafer or that the latter had gone bail for my husband. When Mr. Freund returned from Europe he was astonished to learn that Schafer had sold the shop, the keys of which had been left with the latter next door. Schafer persuaded me with the latter next door. While Schafer was in the shop he sold articles, including a dam"

Dear Sir:

According to instructions from you to investigate the character of the above named defendant and the circumstances connected with his pleading guilty to the within charge I herewith make the following report:

I find on investigating the within charges against the defendant that he without any authority whatever took possession of the Artist's materials in the absence of the complainant, disposed of the same and appropriated the amount received therefor to his own use. He went to a barber named Michael Starace, 212 E. 34th St. demanded the key of the shop that contained the above materials telling him that the complainant had directed him to do so, when in fact, the complainant was then in Europe. While living in the complainant's house, complainant missed a valuable diamond ring, when accused of stealing said ring defendant admitted it to the complainant in presence of Detective Sergeant Sheldon. On further inquiry I found that he had offered the said ticket to one of the Attendants in the German Hospital, 76th Street and 4th Avenue, and finally sold the said ticket to another attendant, who is now in Philadelphia. All of which he admitted to the officers who made the arrest. On further inquiry, I find from relatives of his own that he was arrested in Germany for stealing from his employer who was a bookseller in Gleivitz, Germany.; that there was an arrangement made by his parents with said bookseller to settle the matter and for him to leave the country. I further found out that his passport, shows him to be a book seller in Germany. He comes to this country and opens an office at 51 prospect Place New York city, under the name of Louis Schafer, M.D. as a doctor in that place, has his cards sent out broadcast, receives patients, his office hours are from 8 to 9 A.M. and one to three P.M. and at Welanek's drug store, 3 to 4 P.M. - 700 Second Avenue -. We have also prescriptions written by him to patients on the said drug store blanks.

I am further informed that on his arrest by Detective Sergeant Sheldon, and when in court, he was asked by the Clerk if he was guilty - this was asked in the English language - he answered "yes" He was then asked by the Interpreter in the German language if he understood the question put to him by the Clerk, he said "yes".

The above report is herewith respectfully submitted.

Yours &c.

NEW YORK, October 25th, 1888.

John Sparks, Esq.,
Clerk Court General Sessions,

Dear Sir:

Please find inclosed a notice of appeal in the case of The People &c. vs. Ludwig Schaefer.

The appeal is from the judgment and also from an order subsequently made, denying a motion to vacate the judgment. I want therefore to make the affidavits and other papers filed and read on the hearing of that motion a part of my case, and I inclose, for your convenience, copies of those papers, and also a copy of the indictment. You will find the originals on file in your office.

There will be no bill of exceptions. I shall be glad to have you make up the judgment roll and file it as soon as convenient, so that I can put the case on the General Term calendar for the second Monday of November. I have had the notice of appeal ready for some days, but my illness has prevented me from filing it.

Yours truly,

The People vs
Ludwig Schaefer

City and County of New York ss: Ludwig Schaefer being duly sworn deposes and says: I am 23 years of age and unmarried; I arrived in this city from Germany in September 1887, and have been residing in this city ever since.

That I had studied medicine in Germany, partially completed my studies, and in November 1887, I was employed as a professional nurse for the sick in the German Hospital in 77th Street, near 4th Avenue in this city.

That at said time my cousin Leopold Freund (the complainant) was engaged in business as a dealer in ~~paints~~ paints at No: 212 East 34th Street, in this city.

That a few days before the 18th of November, 1887, the said Leopold Freund was arrested, charged with assault and battery by one Mrs. Florett, ~~and~~ of No: 307 East 42¹/₂ Street, in this city and he was taken to the Police Court in 57¹/₂ Street near 3¹/₂ Avenue, in this city.

That on or about the 18th day of November, 1888, the said Leopold Freund had a conversation with me in his residence at No: 307 East 42¹/₂ Street, in this city, on the second floor, wherein he stated to me that he wanted bail in said assault and battery matter in the police court, he said to me, "my shop is yours, it belongs to you, now you can go bail for me," this conversation took place at about ten o'clock in the morning, and at about eleven o'clock, the same morning, I went with said Freund to the Police Court in 57¹/₂ Street, Police Justice Murray presided at said court, and held the said Freund for trial at the Court of Special Sessions in $300.00 dollars bail.

That I offered myself as bail for said Freund and stated to the Justice that I was the owner of said paint-shop No: 212 East 34th Street, I was accepted as bail by the Justice and signed the bail bond as such surety for said Freund.

That said Freund was then discharged on bail as aforesaid.

That I frequently visited the said Freund in the shop, and on or about the 7th day of January, 1888, I sold the said paint shop to one Herck Kowitz of 800 Second Avenue for the sum of $42.00 dollars.

That on or about the 29th of February 1888, the said Freund caused my arrest on an alleged charge of larceny based upon my sale of said paint shop.

That my case was called yesterday, ^{March 9, 1888} in the Court of General Sessions Part One before Recorder Smyth, I did not understand what was said to me by the Court attendants and officers, who all spoke English, and never intended to plead guilty to the charge of larceny against me, I understood them to ask me whether I had said store, to which I answered "yes".

That I was surprised when I learned that I was sentenced to four years and five months in the State Prison.

That I am wholly innocent of the crime of larceny or any other offense that may have been charged against me and am desirous of having a trial
on the indictment formed against me so that I may have an opportunity to establish my innocence.

That it was evidently a misunderstanding on the part of the persons who interrogated me in the Court of General Sessions, when it was stated that I pleaded guilty to said indictment, for if I understood the English language, it would not have taken place.

-----X
The People
vs.
Denis Sheehan
Indicted for Burglary in the Third Degree.
Indictment filed, March 1888.
-----X

Before,
Hon. Randolph B. Martine
and a Jury.

TRIED, March 27th., 1888.

APPEARANCES:

Assistant District Attorney Goff, for the People;
John Heinzleman Esq., for the Defence.

JULIUS ROBICHEK, the Complainant, testified that he was a poultry dealer, and did business at 62nd. Street and Third Avenue. On the 20th. day of March he left his place of business between 6 and half past 6 in the evening. Between 6 and half past 6, he counted the number of turkeys that he had on hand before he left. He had 22 turkeys. They were dead. He also had a pair of green plumes for his house, on his desk. He got home at about 11 o'clock and was told by his father that his store was robbed. He had a number of baskets in his store marked with his name. He fastened the doors of his store and put a big pad-lock on the outer door. When he got to his store at about 11 o'clock, he found that the door had been burst open. The articles that he had named were in the cellar. A door opened from the cellar into the street and he placed the pad-lock on that door. He missed about 11 turkeys and the green plumes. He then went to the station house in 67th. Street and found two turkeys and a basket with his name on. He saw the defendant at the station house. The

I value of the eleven turkeys that were missing was $22.50 and the plumes were worth about two dollars and a half. A basket that he identified in the police court was taken from his cellar.

UNDER CROSS-EXAMINATION. The witness testified that he had one clerk and that his father also assisted in the business. The father had a right to go into the cellar and to sell poultry in the store. His father was not at the store on the 20th. of January; he remained at home.

OFFICER HENRY E. PFEIFFER testified that he was attached to the 25th. Precinct. He knew the complainant's premises at 1,051 Third Avenue, corner of 62nd. Street. The premises were in the 19th. Ward. He, witness, was on duty on First Ave. A citizen gave him some information and he went to No. 328 East 63rd. Street and saw the defendant

I with a basket and two turkeys The defendant was selling the turkeys in a tenement at No. 328. It was then about 8 oclock in the evening. The basket was marked with the complainant's initials and the number of his store. He asked the defendant where he got the basket and the turkeys from, and he said that a man gave them to him at 61st Street and First Avenue. He, the officer, went with the defendant to 63rd. Street and First Avenue and he didn't find the man that he, the defendant, said had given him the turkeys. He took the defendant to the station house and then, guided by the initials and the number on the basket, he went to the complainant's place of business, and found the basement door open. He, the witness, lit the gas in the store and sent a neighbour for the proprietor and he saw that the cellar door had been pushed open and the ice box opened. Then he returned to the station house and reported that the complainant's store had been broken open.

UNDER CROSS-EXAMINATION. He testified that he went to the corner of First Avenue and 63rd. Street at the defendant's suggestion so as to find the man that gave him the turkeys and the basket.

FOR THE DEFENCE. JOHN HORNBY testified that he lived at 221 East 62nd. Street and was a button manufacturer. He had been in that business for over 15 years. The factory in which he worked was situated at 1,228 Second Avenue, between 64th. and 65th. Streets. The defendant had worked for him for two years. The defendant left him because he smoked cigarettes, and he, the witness, objected to that. He had always found the defendant honest and reliable. He had never known the defendant to be arrested for any offence.

MRS CATHERINE SHEEHAN, testified that she was the mother of the defendant and that he came home to supper at about half past seven. She, the witness, had gone to the Avenue to get some articles, and, ^{household} when she returned she found the defendant washing himself. The next thing she saw of the defendant, was, after he was arrested.

DENIS SHEPHERD, the defendant, testified that he was 19 years of age, and lived at No. 336 East 36 Street. On the day of his arrest, he was in the house from four o'clock until half past seven, reading a book, and then he had his supper, and a young man, who worked with him in the shop, came to the door and sent him, the defendant, for some cigars, and he met a man at the corner who asked him if he would sell some turkeys as he was stuck. And he, the defendant, took the basket with the two turkeys in it, to sell them. Then the officer came up and arrested him. He, the defendant, worked steadily, though he had been idle for a few weeks before. He, the defendant gave his wages to his mother, and didn't drink or keep bad hours. The Police Officer asked where he got the turkeys and he said that he got them at the corner, and he went with the police officer to the corner and didn't see the man who had given them to him to sell.

UNDER CROSS-EXAMINATION. He testified that his mother was wrong when she said that he came into his supper between seven and 7.30 o'clock on the evening in question. He was in the house from four o'clock reading. He met the man who gave him the turkeys at about half past seven. He, the defendant, began to eat his supper at about seven o'clock. He left the house at about half past seven and met the man who gave him the turkeys to sell at the corner, as he was going after the cigarettes. The name of the young man who asked him to get the cigarettes was Michael Driscoll. He met the man a few doors around the corner in First Avenue, and the man said that he would wait for him. He, the defendant, had sold turkeys once before. Before he went into the factory, he was a vendor driving a wagon through the streets. The man asked him to get 75 cents a piece for the turkeys. He went to one house on 63 rd. Street. He had never seen the man who gave him the turkeys since and when he looked for the man with the officer, he was gone.

MINNIE STOKES testified that she was 15 years of age. She lived in the same house with the defendant, on the third floor back. The defendant lived on the same floor in the front. Her mother sent her for eggs. As she was passing through the second hall, she saw the defendant and Driscoll standing at the back of the main hall of the house. It was then after supper. She was accustomed to have supper at six o'clock. After she came out of the store, she saw a police officer have hold of the defendant.

UNDER CROSS-EXAMINATION. She testified that she heard the policeman ask the defendant from where he got the turkeys and the basket, and he said that he got them from a fellow around the corner. She, the witness, was acquainted with the brother of the defendant. She also knew his mother..

MICHAEL DRISCOLL testified that he lived at No. 1,215 Third Avenue. He testified that he went up into the defendant's house, and found the defendant and his brother there. He went up to the house about seven o'clock and sat there for about 20 minutes, and then they went down stairs and he sent the defendant for a package of cigarettes. He, the witness, went back upstairs again and then a woman came upstairs and said that the defendant was arrested.

UNDER CROSS-EXAMINATION he testified that he was a button maker. He had been arrested once. The defendant had eaten his supper, when he, the witness, went upstairs.

That he is engaged in business as a dealer, confectioner & caterer at number 792 6th Avenue in this City.

That for about six years and up to about the middle of September 1884 one George L. Simois was in my employ as a collector.

That during the last three or four months of his employment by me said Simois collected and drew sums of money from my customers on my account by virtue of his employment & wholly neglected and failed to turn over the amount thereof to me, and appropriated the same to his own use the amount so appropriated by him being about one hundred dollars.

On or about Sept 5, 1884 said Simois as I am informed by Miss Foster of 163 W 44 St received from her the sum of $4.11 in payment of a bill in that amount which I had sent her in the course of my business for goods sold & delivered: this sum of money

He said Simon has wholly misaccounted for, and has appropriated to his own use.
