That by reason of his poverty he is unable to pay said fine, and that after his arrest upon this charge, he complied with the law and had no more music in his place, the result of which was that his business came to a complete stand still and all the money he had invested in the business was lost.

That he is now sick and suffering with rheumatism, and unable to leave his bed in the cell in the City Prison. He therefore most respectfully prays that this Honorable Court will remit the fine imposed upon him.

The People
Edward Sweeney } Bount General Sessions. Part 7 Indictment for grand larceny in the second degree.
Margaret O'Malloran sworn. I live now in 15 Lewis St. but on the 29th of March I lived at 294 Delancey St. I lost at that time a plush sacque worth twenty five dollars and a silver watch worth ten dollars. I saw the prisoner that day in my house. His wife was sick at the time and he was in there to see her; she came to my house a few days; he was sitting down in the bed at the time with her.
The prisoner was in the room where the plush sacque and watch were. I don't know how he left the house. I had a store; there was an auction there at the time and I was in the store. Cross Examined. I bought a pawn ticket for the watch from the defendant's wife and gave her a dollar for it.
I don't know anything about the defendant taking the things, but Monday morning I got a note with two tickets in it addressed to my sister which said, "I am not the man at all. I have a black monstache" That is all there was in the letter. The defendant came to my house about eleven o'clock, he went away and came back again pretty near one o'clock. It was my sister missed the things first. The defendant said to me, "Would you know your sacque? I says, 'yes'. He said, "I will go and report it to the station house and I never seen him until he was arrested.

Lizzie Rockafeller sworn. I live at 41 Lewis St.; on the 25th of March I was in 294 Delancey St. in my aunt's room, which is one window from the complainant's. It was one o'clock in the day time. I saw the defendant at the lady's window; he went down in the cellar and came up again and when he came out of the window he had a plush sacque on his arm. I am sure the defendant is the man; he ran away as fast as he could. Cross Examined. I saw him put the watch in his pocket, it was a gold plated watch. He looked around to see if anybody was coming.

Mary Brooks sworn. I live 15 Lewis St.; on the 25th of March about one o'clock in the afternoon I was at 294 Delancey St. The defendant's wife was in bed and as I came in from the store she halloed, "Ned, Ned," five times; he was in my bed room and he had no right to be in there. I said nothing to him but I turned to his wife and asked her some thing. Cross Examined. I am not aware that his wife had any of her things in my bed room. My room and the room his wife was in did not join, there is a Kitchen between; I will swear that there was no clean clothes in my room, but there was a valise in the room where she lay.

Then I saw the prisoner he was standing by the bureau in my room; the watch was on it, which belonged to my sister and which was afterwards missing. I looked at it at twelve o'clock and it was half past twelve o'clock. I discovered the watch had been taken fifteen minutes after he left.

John McCauley sworn. I am an officer of the twelfth precinct and arrested Sweeney for this alleged larceny at the station house, he was there when I came there. I did not find any property on him. I recovered the property in two pawn offices, one in the Bowery and the other in Delancey St. I got the tickets from Mrs. O'Malley; she told me she received them by mail, and the sacque which was represented by the ticket she claimed was the one that was stolen. The defendant was under the influence of liquor. I had been looking for him. Mrs. O'Malley suspected him. The little girl identified him and I locked him up on her charge; the little girl and the woman identified him and he was locked up.

Edward Sweeney sworn and examined in his own behalf. I was in the room at the time that the woman says the goods were stolen. My wife and I lived there for over a month; she was ill at the time in bed. I went up to Eleventh St. and Third Avenue to get a permit to take her to the Hospital because she had nothing to eat or drink. She asked me to get her a clean chemise out of the valise; she asked me to get a linnen to wet her lips and I got it. I saw Mrs. O'Malloran crying and I asked her what was the matter? She said her things were taken. I went up to the Station house and made a report about it. I met Martin Brooks and he said if I knew anything about these things to come down to the House and say so, and he would make it all right. I said, "I will come down to the house, but I know nothing at all about it. The little girl is mistaken in saying that I took the saccage. There was a man in the Kitchen eating his dinner; he came into the room where the watch was. I did not go to the bureau but I went into the room to look for the valise.

The jury rendered a verdict of guilty of petty larceny.
