Tried March, 26, 1886.

Assistant District Attorney Davis, for the People; Jacob Berlinger, for the defence.

JOHN FRANK, being duly sworn, testified that he lived at 33 11th Avenue. On the evening of the 18th day of March 1886, at about 9 o'clock in the evening in 28th Street, between 8th and 9th Avenues, he met the defendant. She said, "Hello John, got any money?" He said, "I have got a full pocket of it." She said, "Come along with me," and she took him down into a cellar. She put one arm around his neck and the other hand into his pocket, and took out his money. He had $4 in his pocket. Then he had her arrested. The money was found in her stocking. The policeman who arrested her took the money from her stocking, and gave it to him, the complainant. The policeman asked her what she had done with the money that she said she had taken.

Under cross examination, the complainant, testified that he was a bootblack at 9th Avenue and 42d Street. He had not been drinking with the defendant on that evening.

OFFICER JOHN E. CARLEY, being duly sworn, testified that he arrested the defendant. At first she denied that she had the money. Then she put her hand down in her stocking and took out the $4, and said, " why wouldn't I steal the money from the Italian son of a bitch?" What would I go with him for?"

For the Defence, ANN JONES, the defendant, testified that she lived at 241 West 28th Street, and had lived there for two ye rs. She lived with her sister-in-law, a widow. She had never been arrested before in her life. She worked in a restaurant at 8th Avenue and 17th Street. She went out about half past 8 o'clock in the evening, for a pitcher of beer, and was going into the liquor store at 48th Street and 7th Avenue, when the Italian accosted her. He went into the store with her and called for two glasses of beer. He asked her if he could go home with her, and she said no. Then he said that he must go home with her and would buy beer. He went down 7th Avenue, and came back to the saloon. He pulled out his pocket handkerchief and the bills dropped out, and there was a young fellow there that made a grab for them. She picked up the money and put it in her stocking, and the young fellow said, "I will break your jaw if you don't give up the money." She said, "I won't give it up until I get to an officer." Then she went and met the officer, and the young fellow ran away as soon as he saw the officer.
