APPEARANCES.

Mr. Cowan, for the Defence.

-----000-----

TIMOTHY HURLEY, the complainant, testified that he lived No. 143 West 27th. Street. On the 10th day of March, he met the defendant at the corner of 27th. Street and 10th Avenue; there were three other men with him and they spoke to the complainant when the complainant came out of Maffey's liquor store. There was a girl coming out of the store at the same time, and the defendant and the other men spoke to her and asked the girl to treat, and the girl said she had no money, and the girl then asked the complainant to treat. The complainant had been in the liquor store with the girl. He, the complainant, said, he would treat and asked them back in the saloon and after they had the drink one of the young men proposed to go down to 14th. Street, to McAvoy's place, and then they all went down to McAvoy's, the complainant and the other three men and the girl; there were six in all. They went to McAvoy's place and then the complainant treated the party and then the complainant looked to see what time it was and it was about 1 o'clock. The complainant had his watch in his vest pocket and then the defendant, James Martin, called the complainant one side and whispered something into the complainant's ear and put his arm around the complainant's neck and put his mouth to the complainant's ear and nipped his ear a little with his mouth; he then released the complainant and the complainant did not know why the defendant did that, but the defendant pretended to do it in a joke. After that, they bid each other good night and the complainant went off with the girl and then he went to look to see what time it was and missed his watch and the chain was hanging down and the watch "wring" off. He, the complainant, said it was a pretty smart trick. The complainant went to the station house and made a complaint and saw the prisoner after that in 7th. Ave.

0364

0365

in company with another young man as he was going into a saloon and the complainant got a policeman to have the defendant arrested and the defendant ran out the back way and jumped over the fence. . The complainant next saw the defendant at the Jefferson Market Police Court about 4 or 5 weeks after the robbery.

-----000-----

Under cross examination, the complainant testified that he was a coachman. He was with a young lady on the night in question and he "picked up" the young lady at the corner of 27th. Street and 7th. Avenue and then he met the defendant and the other men and they had a conversation together and they went into the saloon to take a drink. The complainant told the girl that he had no money to give her but for her to wait until he went to his stable and get some, and they all went to the stable and he went in to get some money and then they went to McAvoy's. The girl was a very nice girl and a very good companion. The witness did not run after the defendant, after he discovered the loss of his watch and made no outcry, but he told the girl about it.
