vs. Meyer R. Sire, Impleaded to.

Thomas B. Flagler being duly sworn,
deposes and says:

I am a doctor of medicine, practicing my profession in Morristown aforesaid, and I have been actively engaged in practice for the past thirty five years. I know the above named Benjamin Sire of Morris Plains, and have been acquainted with him and have been his family physician for the past twenty five years. For more than twelve years last past, the said Benjamin Sire has been subject to spasmodic asthma, or hay fever, commonly so called. During three months of each year, commencing about the middle of August, he is so severely afflicted with this disease as to be not only unable to attend to any business whatever, but also unable to remain at his home or in the City of New York or vicinity, and the only place where he can find any relief, at which it is absolutely indispensable to the preservation of his health, even of his life that he should remain, is on the sea or at the sea shore. I further say that the said Benjamin Sire is laboring under great anxiety of mind in consequence of the pendency of the indictment herein against him, & that such anxiety & disquietude has so aggravated his disease and his general health as to render it absolutely indispensable to his recovery that his mind should be first restored to quietude by disposing of the present charge. Until that is done physicians or their physic can render him little or no aid.

George Whitman was brought here on April 21st at about one o'clock A.M. by a police officer. He gave a story of having been clubbed by a man named Peter Kleiglen, shortly before admission to the Hospital. Examination showed that he (Whitman) had received a contused and lacerated wound just above the left eye. The wound led down into the orbit & eye socket, and the left eye was found to be burst & entirely ruined. It became necessary to remove the injured eye that same day, at 3 o'clock P.M. There were contusions on the arm, slight in extent. At present, I consider that all danger to life has been passed, and it is now certain that Whitman will recover, with the loss of an eye however. I see no reason why his assailant should not be admitted to bail, as Whitman's condition is excellent.
