New York General Sessions.

PEOPLE ON MY COMPLAINT, VERSUS

Christian Saiborn

As complainant in the above case, I beg to recommend the defendant to such leniency and clemency as the Court and District Attorney may see fit to show; but I expressly assert that my reasons for so doing are not controlled by any advantage to myself.

After conversations with the defendant Saiborn, and taking the whole transaction into consideration it is now my belief that he did not intend to steal my coat, but took it with the intention of returning it to me.

I am a partner in business with Mr. Spencer Trask, whose affidavit is hereto annexed.

I have known Christian Saiboen, the defendant above named for $1\frac{1}{2}$ years; during that time he has been in my employ as butler and valet for a years; as such butler and valet he has slept in my house, travelled with me in my private car from New York to San Francisco and return; had access to my apartments while I lived at the Hamilton Club, Brooklyn, has had in his care and charge much valuable property of mine, property of such a nature, and value that had he been so disposed he could have stolen many hundred dollars from me. I trusted him implicitly and always and without exception found him strictly honest.
His reputation and character are of the best.

I have recently heard of the charge made against him in the above entitled action, and my experience and

STATE OF NEW YORK, :

CHRISTIAN SAIBOEN, being duly sworn, says: I am the defendant in the above entitled action; the action is brought on the complaint of Howard Reed, who in that complaint alleged that I stole his overcoat from the house 55 West 44th Street, in the City of New York, on the day of October, 1891, and for that alleged crime I have been indicted. It is not true that I stole said Reed's overcoat; I admit that I took the coat, but not with the intention of stealing it, but with the intention of returning it to ~~said Reed~~.

The facts are as follows:

Mrs. Davis keeps and has for a number of years past kept a boarding house at No. 55 West 44th Street, in the City of New York; I had boarded there for short periods a number of times, and on the 7th day of October, 1891, I went to said boarding house to secure board for a couple of weeks; there was but one room vacant in the house and that was in the basement and a damp one; I said I would remain over night; I did remain over night and the next morning it was very cold; I had secured employment in Boston, Mass., a few days previous and had sent my trunk, containing my heavy clothing and overcoats, on to Boston. My engagement at Boston was not to begin for a week, and since I had secured it I had heard of employment that I might obtain in this City, and as I would rather have remained here, I determined to try to secure the employment in this City and cancel that in Boston. Therefore I went out of said boardinghouse on said morning and finding the weather cold, concluded if I went to secure said employment here without an overcoat, my appearance would be against my securing the position. I returned to the boarding house to see Mrs. Davis and get an overcoat that had been owned by her husband, who had recently died: I did not find Mrs. Davis, but in the room that I had occupied for the night, was a trunk partly open. I looked in it and directly on top was an overcoat that I thought was Mr. Davis'; I took the coat, wore it in search of my employment, intending to return the coat as soon as I had secured the employment; I was unable that morning to see the ~~persons~~ persons who expected to employ me; I then went down town to look for another boarding house as I did not like the damp room in Mrs. Davis' house. I secured a room at 352 South Ave. ^{I think was its number} ; at about 6 or 7 o'clock that day I went back to Mrs. Davis' boarding house to get my satchel, that I had left there, and to ask her if I might not keep the overcoat till next morning, when I hoped to get my employment. When I had reached Mrs. Davis' house I was met by Reed who accused me of stealing his coat; I said, No, I had not stolen it, and I at once returned to Reed the overcoat I had worn, for it then turned out that it was not the coat of Mr. Davis, but was Reed's coat, who had occupied the room I had had the night before, and as it was too damp Reed had moved to a room upstairs and left his trunk in the basement room; but though I tried to explain all this, I was arrested and taken to the 57th Street prison. I am a native of Malay and do not speak English well, and think I was not understood. I did not steal the coat. I intended to return it and I did return it.
